Chasing a Shadow.
Two Ugly Words.
War Truths Displease.
48 Years Work. Thanks.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

A FLYING MACHINE equipped with oxygen for high altitude will take Capt. A. W. Stevens of the Army air corps 20,000 feet up to photograph the sun's eclipse. Lieut. J. D. Corkhille will run the machine. A scientist from the telephone company will go along.

TWENTY THOUSAND FEET up the plane, turning sharply, will seek to follow with its camera-eye the shadow traveling 1,800 miles an hour.

Some day when travel planes go one thousand miles an hour, it will be possible to fly with the sun directly above the pilot, twenty-four hours in succession. Scientists once laughed at that, now they discuss it. Later they will accomplish it.

IN PROHIBITION DISCUSSION, two ugly words, "rebellion" and "revolution," are heard. Rightly or wrongly, prohibition and bootlegging, born of Prohibition, are blamed for the crime wave and horribly overcrowded prisons, in one of which men were recently burned alive by the hundreds.

A CONSPICUOUS COLLEGE athlete and coach testifies that young girls drink as they never did before.

The daughter-in-law of the late Theodore Roosevelt testifies that, whereas young girls never drank, they nearly all drink now.

PITY A GREAT NATION, that should solve its drinking problem by common sense, self control, and conservative legislation, concentrating the attention of national, state and city governments on whisky.

WILLIAM MANCK, 48 years a letter carrier, absent only one week in 48 years, retires. His superiors shake hands with him and are photographed doing it. That's kind, but Uncle Sam might do more.

He might give William Manck and other faithful servants of the postoffice a generous pension on which they could live comfortably when their hard work is done.

And without waiting for them to be worn out, he might give them generous pay, which he does not do.

The richest employer in the world should be at least just.

IN WAR, EVERYTHING on your side is beautiful patriotism, on the other side, horrible brutality.

Later you look at war from a distance and things seem to change. The British are outraged by a book called "A Brass Hat in No-Man's Land," written by the British Brigadier Crozier.

He describes revoltingly the execution of a British soldier for cowardice, describes drunkenness among officers, and widespread immorality, among men of all ranks.

GENERAL CROZIER TELLS how British soldiers were made bloodthirsty by lying tales of German atrocities to bring out the "brute-like bestiality so necessary for victory," and adds:

"The Christian churches are the finest blood lust creators we have, and of them we made free use."

The London Chronicle and other papers refuse to review the book.

OUR NEWLY DISCOVERED planet neighbor, circling around the sun, far out beyond Neptune, is the most interesting thing in the news.

We are only a little more than 90,000,000 miles from the sun. This new planet, about the size of our earth, is 1,335,600,000 miles from the sun.

Multiply that by six and you will know approximately the length of the far off planet's journey around the sun.

ON THAT PLANET you must live 3,200 earth years in order to be one year old.

To see the new neighbor, look now. It will be visible with earth's telescopes only about a hundred years longer, and then be hidden for 3,000 years, while it finishes one of its own years.

JAPANESE CUSTOM COMPELS each person to speak with great humbleness of his own achievements.

The clever Japanese statesman Wakatsuki, who got everything for Japan that he wanted, gave nothing that he didn't want to give, writes his government lamenting his "inadequate ability," calling his work "regretably insufficient," and winding up, "I am ashamed."

PRESIDENT HOOVER GOT no such report from his delegates.

They in the language of the race track got "a Texas stand-off."

HOUSE LISTS DRY REPEAL VOTE

Ballot to Set New Landmark In Attack on Prohibition; Transfer Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Prohibition today continued to hold the congressional spotlight, thrown upon it from these sources:

1—First vote in history on repeal bills was scheduled by the House Judiciary Committee.

2—Transfer of prohibition unit from Treasury to Justice Department was reported favorably to Senate.

3—Reports exposing drinking by Congressmen were shielded in secrecy by Senate Lobby Committee.

4—Senator Tydings, anti-dry, told Senators a survey of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morals showed "25 per cent of high school students use intoxicants."

International News Service.

For the first time since national prohibition was enacted, the House Judiciary Committee will vote upon repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Representative George S. Graham (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman, said today.

Having concluded its hearings on repeal bills, during which both liberals and drys presented voluminous testimony, the committee will be asked to make a decision upon a half-dozen bills proposing both repeal and modification.

DRYS HAVE MAJORITY

Although the House committee is admittedly dry—with modificationists expecting a vote of 18 to 5 against repeal—the committee's hearings and its expected vote have established a new landmark in the legislative quarrel over prohibition. It is the furthrerest point in the attack on prohibition in 10 years.

At the same time, the bill proposing transfer of the prohibition unit from the Treasury to the Department of Justice was unani-

Rothstein Murder Inquiry Reopened

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—The Arnold Rothstein murder mystery, slumbering for months, will be delved into further by the grand jury. George A. McManus, tried and acquitted of slaying the gambling king, was served with a subpena today to appear before the old Rothstein grand jury on April 30.

Cold Wave Passes, Clouds Avert Frost

The unseasonal cold spell was passing today, with prospect that the mercury would climb to 50 degrees late this afternoon. A gradual warming up for the next two days was indicated, Forecaster Brotzman said. The thermometer fell to 34 early today, but an overcast sky prevented frost.

EX-STAGE STAR KILLS RIVAL AND SELF

Mrs. Guy Bates Post, Former Adele Ritchie, Enraged Over Benefit Play Slight

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal., April 25.—(AP.)—Jealousy over social position was blamed by the authorities here today for the murder of Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer, an artist, formerly of Chicago, and the suicide of Mrs. Guy Bates Post, divorced wife of the noted actor and famous 25 years ago as Adele Ritchie, musical comedy star.

The bodies of the two women were found in Mrs. Palmer's bungalow here late yesterday.

Mrs. Palmer, known as an artist and designer of scenery for the Laguna Beach playhouse, had been shot in the back. Mrs. Post's body, with a bullet through the mouth and brain, was found lying on a revolver, in which two exploded shells were discovered.

BID PRECEDED MURDER

Mrs. Palmer was believed to have been slain within 15 minutes of the time Mrs. Francis Berie, socially prominent here, had delivered an invitation to a luncheon that excluded Mrs. Post.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan said he believed the invitation fanned the jealousy between the two women into a frenzy that caused Mrs. Post to shoot Mrs. Palmer and then turn the pistol on herself.

Mrs. Post last year was director of the annual Boy Scout benefit play at the playhouse here, which is sponsored by Harold McCor-

PROTEST LINKS U. S. STEEL TO MERGER

Violation of Trust Law Charged; Letter Avers Same Interests Control

CLEVELAND, April 25.—(AP.)—Allegations that the United States Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation co-operated in efforts to merge Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem, and a request for investigation of the merger deal by the Federal Trade Commission were made today by E. S. Wertz, former assistant district attorney here.

Wertz made his charge and request as a stockholder in Sheet and Tube, and addressed them to the trade commission by letter.

ONE CONTROL CHARGED

United States Steel, the largest steel company in the country, and Bethlehem, second largest and generally considered its chief rival, were declared by Wertz to be dominated by the same group of financiers.

The attack by Wertz came less than 24 hours after other opponents of the merger had filed new action in Common Pleas Court at Youngstown, asking the court to permanently enjoin directors of Sheet and Tube from consummating the merger.

Yesterday's suit was filed in the name of Myron C. Wick, Jr., and International Shares Corporation, one of the Cyrus S. Eaton companies. It said the Sheet and Tube directors had failed to inform stockholders of their alleged lack of knowledge of Bethlehem's financial condition, and called this alleged failure a fraud against the stockholders.

VOTES PROTESTED

Despite the opposition of Eaton and other prominent stockholders, election officials of Sheet and Tube at a recent stockholders' meeting declared sufficient stockholders' votes were cast to approve the merger. They counted, however, an estimated 70,000 votes which Eaton forces have protested both in the meeting and in court actions. One of Eaton's protests is against the counting of votes of persons who did not own any interest in the company at the time of the election.

Wertz's letters to the trade commission sets forth the opinion that the merger would violate sections 7 and 8 of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

SMUGGLED 'GAS' NEW CLUE

Boast of Burning Cell Block Told at Ohio Inquiry Into State Penitentiary Fire

BULLETIN.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—(AP.)—Gov. Cooper's investigating committee closed its inquiry into the Ohio penitentiary fire late today with jumbled accounts by prison guards as to what happened in the G and H cell blocks, where 320 prisoners were suffocated last Monday night.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—In the tense, unsettled situation which has spread over death-ridden Ohio State Penitentiary here these developments stood out today:

1—The theory that arson was behind the flames which cost 320 prisoners' lives (two more died today) gained support with the volunteered statement of a convict that a fellow prisoner had boasted, the day before the fire, "Cell Block H will be on fire tomorrow," and the letter of a former convict which said that a small group of prisoners had been smuggling gasoline into the penitentiary.

2—Three thousand rebellious convicts, milling loose in the prison yard, again shouted their demands for the removal of Warden Preston Thomas, who met their ultimatum defiantly, threateningly.

3—The convicts requested Deputy Warden James C. Woodward be named successor to Warden Thomas. Woodward told state authorities investigating the fire no lives would have been lost "if the emergency had been properly met."

4—Conflicting testimony again was heard by the board of inquiry regarding confinement conditions during the fire.

PRISONER AFRAID

The unidentified prisoner who told of the arson boast will be turned over to state officials for questioning. Afraid of violence from fellow prisoners, he has been removed to another section of the prison.

Athorities immediately began investigating the charge of the

RUNAWAY CAR HITS TRAILER

Quick thinking of W. Waxter, conductor on the trailer of a Bellevue-West View street car, was credited with saving passengers from injury when a runaway car crashed into the rear of the trailer at Log Cabin stop, West View, today.

Waxter saw the oncoming car speeding around a bend and herded the six passengers in the trailer to the front of his car. The trailer was struck with a terrific impact as the other car crashed into it from the rear. The passengers in the trailer, although severely jolted, escaped injury.

Both the trailer and the car which struck it were damaged. On the trolley hauling the trailer, 35 passengers were shaken up.

The car responsible for the crash, a special running daily to transport students to Perry High School, carried no passengers at the time of the accident.

DAVIS FAVORS TARIFF GUARD

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP.)—Describing himself as an "ultra-protectionist," Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate on the ticket backed by the Philadelphia Republican organization, declared that he favored tariff protection for all the country's industries.

Addressing political leaders, business and professional men at a luncheon given in his honor at the Union League, Davis made his first extended challenge on the tariff issue to Senator Joseph R. Grundy, his opponent, who is basing his campaign largely on this issue. The luncheon was arranged by former Mayor J. Hampton Moore, chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for the Evangelist John W. Sproul's radio broadcasting station WMBJ was sold to creditors at a sheriff's auction this afternoon on a bid of $900.

SPROUL STATION SOLD FOR $900

The auction was held in the broadcasting rooms in a bungalow on Frankstown road, Penn Township. Besides the creditors, Mrs. Margaret Boyd, of Philadelphia, an aunt of the evangelist, was the only bidder.

The sale was entered in the names of Kenneth Cunningham, attorney, Eli Abbott and Walter Eichley, creditors, understood to have acted in co-operation with two other creditors, J. M. Luterman and Al Hirsh. They announced after the auction that they would apply for a permit to operate a commercial broadcasting station.

Claims of creditors totaled $7,943.75.

CHICAGO, April 25.—(INS.)—Katherine Spaulding Barker, divorcee, who inherited $30,000,000 on the death of her father, was to be married today in New York to Charles Hickox.

Over long distance from New York she confirmed the report that she was to be married.

Pat McDermott Joins 'Co. K' in Grievances

(Mr. Gough is the only reporter who so far has been able to enter the celebrated "Co. K" cell block at Columbus, where the so-called "bad men" are confined.)

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—I spent four hours today with the Red Shirt Gang inside the walls of the well-guarded Ohio State Penitentiary.

I walked up and down the cell block with them and listened to what they had to say of conditions here. They are all known as "tough babies" and they don't mince their language.

Most of them are in for life, and one of them is Pat McDermott, the young Nant-y-Glo racketeer who went up for the murder of Don Mellett, the Canton editor.

Boiling Mad

They're boiling mad. They don't like Warden Thomas and Capt. Hall. They claim they've been "taking it on the chin" from Thomas and Hall—standing solitary confinement, bread and water, leg irons, cramped quarters and general abuse.

Here's what Pat McDermott said:

"In the three years I've been here I've been tied up in leg irons to this lousy bed here for three months."

This Red Shirt Gang has its own cell block.

They're known as Co. K. There

WALES HOME; FLIES CHANNEL

WINDSOR, England, April 25.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, home from his African hunting trip, landed on Smith's Lawn in the Windsor Great Park today, making a perfect landing.

The prince was escorted by 10 French military planes from Le Bourget Field, near Paris.

The plane came down close to the Prince's new country residence, Fort Belvedere at Sunningdale. The Duke of York and Prince George were awaiting to greet their elder brother. They drove to the Prince's country house where King George and Queen Mary welcomed him home.

When the Prince landed and stepped out to chat with his brothers, his little Cairn terrier, Cora, was one of the most enthusiastic welcomers. The Prince was bronzed by the African sun and looked extremely well.

TAXI SERVICE COMPLAINT TO BE ARGUED IN CAPITAL

LAIRD SEES RETURN TO NORMAL

Preliminary Hearing Reveals Conditions Here in Strike; Mayor Called as Witness

The complaint of W. M. Henry, 5801 Penn avenue, that the Yellow Cab Company is not giving adequate taxicab service will be argued before the Public Service Commission in Harrisburg. No date has been set.

The hearing before Commissioner Samuel Walker was completed here yesterday afternoon.

Among others called by Attorney Fred Neeper to testify were County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and C. C. McGovern, Sheriff Robert S. Cain, Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, Assistant Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall; Walter S. Laird, vice president of the Parmelee Transportation Company, and Paul B. Houston, president of the Green Cab Company.

TESTIMONY

Their testimony developed that disorder has interfered with restoration of taxicab service and that every effort to maintain order and restore service is being made by both the companies and the public officials.

Called as the first witness, on cross-examination, Henry testified that he is not a consistent user of taxicabs and that he filed the complaint at the instigation of Attorney Neeper.

He said he has not been inconvenienced by the alleged failure of operation. He asked the commission to declare the company's Public Service Commission certificate null and void.

TWO OTHERS HEARD

Commissioner Walker ordered that briefs be filed and oral argument be made before the full commission at Harrisburg.

Mayor Charles H. Kline and Supt. of Police P. P. Walsh also were subpenaed, but were not called to testify.

Laird and Houston were the only witnesses called during the afternoon. Laird testified at great length on efforts of the companies to operate taxicabs, and co-operation of the police department in making operation safe. He said service is being restored gradually, and in the natural course of events finally will be back to normal. Houston corroborated Laird's testimony.

Sporadic clashes between Attorney Neeper and opposing counsel, C. K. Robinson, marked the hearing.

At one time Walker halted the proceedings to outline its purpose to Neeper. Walker explained that he was simply taking testimony and not trying the case, after Neeper had gone into lengthy arguments on disputed points.

ANOTHER GIRL 'ENVOY' ILL

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Another member of the little band of Japanese girls who came to thank America for aiding their country in the earthquake of 1923 has been stricken ill, leaving only three of the original five to journey to Northampton today to visit former President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge.

Little Miss Yoshika Matsudaira caught cold yesterday and was forbidden by physicians to venture into New England. Another member of the party was taken ill with influenza almost immediately upon arriving in California and remained there.

Erie Fruit Belt Hit By Cold Snap

ERIE, Pa., April 25.—(AP.)—Heavy damage to fruit trees in the Erie belt is believed by growers and agricultural authorities to have been caused by the freezing temperature during the past several days. The cold continued tonight.

Two persons, blinded by the heavy snowfall, were struck by automobiles here but were not seriously injured.

Man Held in Crash Fatal to Woman

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 25.—(AP.)—Charged with manslaughter as a result of the death of Mrs. Ethel Long, 36, in an automobile accident, Chalmer McCabe, 20, was held for court without bail. Mrs. Elizabeth Long, 40, injured in the same accident, is recovering at a hospital.

WAVES SMASH BREAKWATER

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 25.—(AP.)—Unusually heavy seas continued to pound the Long Beach water front today while harbor officials sought the reason for the phenomenon.

George Cannon, municipal wharf master, estimated the damage inflicted during the last few days at $150,000.

The huge, rolling waves, sweeping in from a comparatively calm ocean, broke through the Long Beach breakwater and at nightfall yesterday a breach, estimated at from 150 to 300 feet, had been opened. Efforts of harbor officials to inspect the damage closely were balked when the backwash from the big stone wall threatened to swamp their boats.

Marines expressed varying opinions as to the cause of the heavy seas, some suggesting a tidal wave which was reported off Central America last week, and others offering a possible earth movement on the ocean floor off the coast.

Tokio Street Car Walkout Settled

TOKIO, April 25.—(AP.)—The strike of tramway and bus workers of Tokio was settled today, the strikers surrendering unconditionally after an interview with the mayor.

About 12,000 workers in Tokio joined in the walkout Sunday, protesting against a recent wage cut by the municipality. Tramways and bus lines had maintained about half the usual service with skeleton crews. Tuesday 4,000 of the workers returned to their jobs.

Gives Life to Save Fellow Workmen

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., April 25.—(AP.)—Robert Sublette, 36, incline operator for a lumber company, gave his life today to save fellow workmen.

Sublette, after incline brakes had slipped, remained at his post blowing blasts on a whistle to warn workers. Three cars loaded with timber were out of control.

The workers escaped, but the incline motor flew to pieces and Sublette was struck and killed by the flywheel.

Will Rogers' Use Of Quip Pleases Mrs. Morrow

JERSEY CITY, April 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow is pleased that Will Rogers found something she said funny enough to copy. She told a meeting of Republican women that she and Will were seated together at a function in London. She remarked that if she continued to eat the abundant food provided at affairs in connection with the Naval conference she would return home representing global tonnage. Will used the quip in his writings.

HOUSE GROUP TO REPORT

mously approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which voted to report the measure to the Senate with a recommendation for its immediate passage. Although the bill has passed the House, administration leaders do not expect to get Senate action on it for another week.

"HOUSE CLEANING" POWER

One important amendment was added to the bill, giving the attorney general power to "clean house" in the prohibition unit. It empowered him to retain or dismiss any and all employes, even including Prohibition Commissioner Doran.

The committee also approved four bills authorizing additional federal judges in districts including Pennsylvania.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment's report revealing some of the "dry-voting wet-drinking" members of the Senate and House, was excluded today from the record of the Senate Lobby Committee's hearings.

Senator Robinson (Rep), of Indiana, attempted to have the report, compiled by Carter Field, an employe of the association, inserted in the record Thursday without reading it, but Senator Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin, objected. His objection was submitted to the full membership of the committee and was sustained.

HIGH SCHOOL DRY POLL

A poll of drinking among school children, conducted by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, revealed worse conditions than the anti-drys have ever charged, Senator Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, declared in the Senate today.

The poll reveals that 25 per cent of the school children in an unnamed high school are drinking liquor, he said, and also that "one-eighth of the students felt they were not violating the spirit of the law by buying intoxicating liquors." He also explained that the children reported less drinking among their parents than among themselves and that one-third of them felt prohibition had brought no benefits.

Sentencing of Olga Deferred to May 6

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Sentencing of Olga Eide Edwards for extortion from Nathan L. Amster, the financier she charges is the father of her son, Lee, was postponed today until May 6.

SLAYER FOILED IN FIRE

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—A small fire in a building on the grounds of Kensington County Hospital today brought four emergency squads of police armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs to ward off any possible rescue attempt of a man indicted for murder, who is a patient.

In the detention ward, overlooking the orderlies' dormitory which caught fire, was George Small, gunman, robber, escaped convict and killer of a woman in a fight with police.

He was recapture last November in a running gun battle with police during the course of which a shot from Small's gun struck and killed Mrs. Irene Sumner, 30, as she wheeled her baby along a Brooklyn street. Small was severely wounded and has since been a hospital patient under guard.

No effort to rescue him was made, despite the precaution.

Monument to Honor First Plane Flight

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—The War Department appropriation bill, carrying a net increase of $452,878 over the $456,243,386 measure passed by the House, was approved today by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The increase includes $225,000 for a monument on Kill Devil Hill, Kitty Hawk, N. C., commemorating the "first airplane flight" by the Wright brothers, and $50,000 for a Fredericksburg and Spottsylvania County battlefield memorial in Virginia.

New Judges O. K.'d By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Bills authorizing an additional federal judge for the southern district of New York and for the southern district of California were reported favorably to the Senate today by its judiciary committee.

The committee also approved bills granting an additional judge each for the Circuit Court of the third district, including New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, and for the fifth district, including Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

ON HER WAY TO JAIL

NURSE FIGHTS OFFICER, JAILED

Miss Edna Gray, 31, of 1230 Resaca place, prefers to go to jail for 10 days rather than pay for a broken window.

Anyhow, she blames the breaking of the window on Patrolman Edward Bann, of the Hazelwood station. Miss Gray testified at a hearing before Magistrate Ray E. Schneider in North Side Station this morning that she went to Patrolman Bann's home at 1335 Reddour street yesterday to collect $2 which she says the policeman owed for storing his auto on her property.

The policeman refused to pay her but instead he and his wife beat her, the nurse said. Patrolman Bann told the magistrate Miss Gray started the fight during which the window was broken.

Magistrate Schneider then told the nurse she must pay for the window or go to jail for 10 days. She chose jail.

INDIA'S REVOLT AREA CLEARED

SIMLA, India, April 25.—(AP.)—The British authorities are taking a serious view of recent events in India, especially the troubles at Peshawar, along the northern border, and all women and children are being evacuated from that place.

It was believed that military leave from India would likely be stopped.

PESHAWAR, India, April 25.—(AP.)—Casualties in the serious rioting here Wednesday were estimated today as more than 50. Three British soldiers are among the dead. Peace has been restored and British troops, rushed up for the emergency, gradually are being withdrawn.

Since beginning of the rioting public gatherings and meetings of more than five persons has been forbidden.

Saint-Gaudens Gets 30 Spanish Paintings

MADRID, April 25.—(AP.)—Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, said today he had obtained 30 paintings by 18 Spanish artists for the International Exposition at the Carnegie Institute in October.

Mr. Saint-Gaudens, who left for Paris today, has spent three months in Europe gathering paintings.

EDDA AND MATE ON MAGIC ISLE

ROME, April 25.—(INS.)—On the magic island of Capri, along the shores of the Tyrrhenian Sea, the former Edda Mussolini, daughter of Italy's premier, was honeymooning today with Galeazzo Ciano.

It was reported the honeymooners would spend only a short time at Capri, proceeding aboard yacht to other points in Southern seas.

Every effort had been made to keep the honeymoon spot a secret, but news reached here that the distinguished couple had arrived at Capri.

Death of 3 in Plane Laid to Snowstorm

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 25.—(AP.)—The airplane crash in which Capt. Lionel M. Woolson, aeronautical engineer of the Packard Motor Car Company, of Detroit, and two others were killed near Attica Wednesday, was the result of the snowstorm and "low ceiling" Asbury Meadows, district aeronautical inspector, said today.

No structural weakness was found in the plane, Meadows said.

W. Va. State Police Prison Guard Urged

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., April 25.—(AP.)—Dr. C. E. Hutchinson, member of the State Legislature, today said he would recommend to Gov. William G. Conley that a detail of state police be kept in the state penitentiary here. He said the guard at the prison was inadequate in case of a serious outbreak.

PENNSY SEEKS TO ENJOIN RIVAL

Hearing on the Pennsylvania Railroad's application for an injunction to prevent the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company from constructing a branch line from Pigeon Creek to Baird, Washington County, was held in Federal Court here today.

A large battery of attorneys represented the two railroads and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Attorney William Dalzell, for the Pennsylvania, made a motion that a preliminary injunction be granted at once on the ground that there was no legal evidence given at a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission justifying the granting of a certificate of public conveyance for the proposed branch line.

The Pennsylvania is opposing the project, which, if sanctioned, would give the P. & W. Va. a share of the traffic to the Donora steel district, now monopolized by the P. R. R. Under the plan for the branch line, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia would connect at Baird with the Donora and Southern Railroad.

Hearing the case are Judge Victor B. Woolley, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker, of the Federal District Court here.

Attorney Dalzell, in outlining the complaint of the Pennsylvania Railroad, charged that the P. & W. Va. was attempting to get freight tonnage which the Pennsylvania had carried since 1902. He declared that the Pennsylvania had served the territory adequately and that no witness had shown evidence to the Public Service Commission that there was a necessity for the branch line.

Spiritualists Will Meet in Pittsburgh

BRADFORD, Pa., April 25.—(INS.)—Election of officers and the selection of Pittsburgh as the convention city for 1931 featured the closing session of the Pennsylvania State Spiritualist convention, which stood adjourned today.

The 1931 convention will be held May 21 to May 24 in Pittsburgh.

The Rev. C. V. Morrow, of Pittsburgh, was re-elected to the presidency of the organization by unanimous vote. L. E. Miller, of McKeesport, was chosen as one of five new trustees.

HOOVER FIRM IN PARKER FIGHT

White House 'Bearing Down' On Senators to Compel Acceptance of Nomination

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Not only has President Hoover repulsed every suggestion that he withdraw the Supreme Court nomination of John J. Parker, but he has launched a quiet but determined campaign to obtain his confirmation by a hostile Senate.

In this Parker fight—and it is a bitter one—the President has abandoned his policy of doing the proposing and allowing the Senate to do the disposing. He has flung himself personally and the tremendous weight of the White House influence squarely behind the effort to overcome the Senate's undoubted hostility to the North Carolinian. Moreover, he is hopeful of success, not today or this week, but eventually, before the Senate adjourns.

Dissatisfied with the polls taken by Republican leaders, who have counseled withdrawal of the name, Mr. Hoover is having own polls taken almost daily.

The first ones were distinctly discouraging. They showed that if the North Carolinian were voted on immediately he would be rejected by from four to six votes, depending upon the absentees, and other factors that enter into any Senate vote.

Pressure of the kind not easy for some Senators to withstand—particularly with a campaign approaching—has been exerted in behalf of Parker on some of the wavering ones. And some progress is understood to have been made, although the White House is still unwilling to allow the nomination to go to a vote.

Given another few weeks with the White House "bearing down" on some of the recalcitrant ones, and friends of Judge Parker believe that it may yet be possible to confirm him.

DOCTOR VICTIM IN FEAR KILLING

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—(AP.)—A weird story of superstition and fear that ended in the stoning to death of Dr. Edgar Kuhlmann, Norwegian scientist, at Amozac, near Puebla, was published by the newspaper El Universal today.

Dispatches to the paper said eight persons believed responsible for the murder had been captured.

Dr. Kuhlmann went to Puebla with recommendations from President Ortiz Rubio, the secretary of the interior, and Gov. Almazan, of Puebla, as personal guarantees.

The superstitious Indians in some way got the idea the Norwegian scientist had been sent by the government to decapitate their children and to make oil from the children's bodies. This oil, the Indians said, was to be used on a South American flight by a noted aviator.

$5,000,000 Given To Fight Disease

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—A gift of $5,000,000 by Mrs. Walter Graeme Ladd, daughter of Josiah Macy, Jr., for a foundation to promote effectively the prevention and cure of disease was announced here today.

Dr. Ludwig Kast is president of the foundation, and Col. Malborough Churchill, U. S. A., retired, is executive secretary. The board of directors includes the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick and Prof. John Dewey. The foundation will promote co-operation between hospitals, universities and laboratories.

Caterpillar Founder Quits Army Air Post

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(INS.)—M. H. St. Clair, founder of the Caterpillar Club—the mythical organization composed of those who made parachute jumps for their lives—has severed his connection with the Army Air Corps. He has become associated with the Switlich Parachute and Equipment Company at Trenton, N. J.

Flowers Bedeck Venice On Feast of St. Mark

VENICE, Italy, April 25.—(AP.)—The young Lotharios of the queen city of the Adriatic were out bright and early this morning patronizing the flower stalls in the public squares. For on this day, feast of St. Mark, patron of Venice, every self-respecting engaged man is bound by tradition to present a rosebud to the lady of his choice.

Blooms from all over the Venetian hinterland were brought in great quantities into the city for the festival, and few were the ladies without bouquets or their escorts without decorated buttonholes. The spectacle in St. Mark's Square, with the pigeons fluttering over the heads of the promenaders, was one of the gayest to be witnessed in Italy at this time of the year.

Solemn high mass was of course sung in St. Mary's Cathedral in honor of the evangelist, the patriarch of Venice, Cardinal Lafontaine, attending and impairting the benediction. The banners of the proud old republic were displayed from the public buildings and many private houses, and the gondolas were for the most part decorated.

Mrs. Hoover, Hurt in Fall, Rides in Wheel Chair

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(INS.)—Mrs. Hoover is riding around the White House in a wheel chair.

A badly wrenched back which has confined her indoors for two weeks, and which promises to keep her in for several weeks more, prompted Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, to order the wheel chair.

The chair has an adjustable rest designed to ease Mrs. Hoover's back. With the aid of it—and the elevator—she has been able to go down to the state dining room for dinner the past few nights.

The wrenched back came from a backward fall on a waxed floor. An X-ray examination showed none of the vertebrae of the spinal column had been affected, but several ligaments were torn and some of the major muscles severely pulled.

Mrs. Hoover has not allowed her injury to keep her entirely isolated. Several parties of Easter tourists have been received in her upstairs sitting room, and when the good-will mission of Japanese girls visited the White House she entertained them and Mme. Debuchi, wife of the Japanese ambassador, at tea.

Astronomers People Valley To Photograph Eclipse

CAMPTONVILLE, Cal., April 25.—(AP.)—In peaceful Oak Valley, as silent almost as the phenomena they have come to photograph, Lick Observatory and other astronomers are taking strategic positions for a concerted exploration of the eclipse of the sun April 28.

Within and along the computed line of the shadow which the moon will lay upon the land by passing between the sun and the earth at the rate of about 1,200 miles an hour the finishing touches are being given to months of preparatory work. Laboratories and dark rooms have been built and frames erected for the mounting of telescopes and spectroscopes.

From dawn to dark and often late into the night checking, correcting and testing of instruments and apparatus is being carried on.

Using a rustic building that once served as a mining town dance hall as a laboratory, Dr. J. H. Moore, astronomer of Lick, and Dr. D. H. Menzel, assistant astronomer, have made numerous tests of the density and strength of light and of the photographic plates which will be employed. Elsewhere along the line scientists from East and West are giving a final inspection of apparatus, sites and plans.

Perhaps the most perfect coordination of radio, airplane, telescope and spectroscope ever attempted will be brought into play to record the various phases of this eclipse and its totality which it is estimated will have a duration of only 1.3 seconds.

16 SAILORS MISSING AFTER FLAMES DESTROY STEAMER

Seamen in Freezing Water For Hours After Diving From Fireswept Decks

By DAVID P. SENTNER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Sixteen members of the crew of the freighter Thames, destroyed by fire in Long Island Sound, were unaccounted for this afternoon, according to E. E. Fuch, vice president of the Thames River Line, owner of the vessel.

Despite conflicting reports of liners and Coast Guard boats having picked up survivors, only 10 of the 26 sailors aboard the ill-fated craft were definitely known to be rescued.

SAILOR VANISHES

A fisherman aboard the vessel which rescued Chief Engineer Clarence Tibbetts told of having seen a sailor in the water. He said the man disappeared when a rope was thrown to him.

Suffering from immersion in the chill water, Capt. Robert Sherman, commander of the burned boat, told of how their lifeboat capsized before he and eight others were rescued.

CAPTAIN TELLS PLIGHT

Capt. Sherman and the eight sailors were taken into Providence aboard the Lexington and given treatment. He said:

"The sea was bumpy and the weather bitter cold. The heavy sea increased as we drifted, and then a wave smashed us and upset the lifeboat.

"We were all pitched into the water like so many corks. We swam around to keep warm in between clinging to the upturned boat. We were picked up just in time."

Capt. Sherman said he did not know how the fire on the freighter started. He said he thinks it began near the boilers.

Cause of Ship Disaster Remains Undetermined

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 25.—(AP.)—Origin of the flames that ruined the freighter Thames in Long Island Sound off Sound Beach, Conn., remained obscured in mystery today.

Clarence Tibbetts, chief engineer, was brought here on the oyster schooner Alert, which picked him up after he had been in the water an hour. He said he saw several of his shipmates sink as they floundered in the heavy seas after jumping from the burning freighter.

CONVICTS TELL FIRE TRAGEDY

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—(INS.)—Two of the most pathetic figures who gave testimony at the prison fire inquiry here were prisoners Edward J. Gallagher and Edward Nolan. They had tried to save their "buddies" on the fifth range.

"I got a sledge hammer and tried to break the lock of my buddy's cell," related Gallagher, a frail, little man. "It wouldn't budge. A big colored prisoner came along. He took the hammer and smashed the lock. But it was useless. My buddy was dead."

Nolan sobbed as he related a somewhat similar incident.

Roy William, prisoner from Toledo, referred to guards as "screws" and "lime juicers."

"There wouldn't have been a life lost in that cell block if they hadn't been too darned afraid of their jobs," he declared.

He testified that the trapped men in the upper cells shouted to the guards:

"For God's sake, come up and shoot us."

Europeans Scored By African Tribes

BLOEMFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, April 25.—(AP.)—May 31 will be observed as a day of protest and humiliation by the Bantu communities of South Africa, according to a resolution passed by the congress of natives which has been meeting here. The protest will be against what is termed "the policy of domination and economic strangulation of the Bantu race inaugurated by the Europeans." The Bantu peoples include the Zulus, the Kaffirs and practically all the native element of the Union.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, arriving in Washington with his latest flying companion, his mother. She remained there and he continued on to Miami. Lindy said his wife, in a New York hospital, is "getting along fine."

LINDY WINGING WAY TO MIAMI

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(INS.)—Flying the Lockheed-Sirius monoplane in which he crossed the continent five days ago in less time than any other man, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left here today at 9:45 a. m. for Miami, Fla., to resume temporarily his old role as an air mail pilot.

At Miami he will change to another airplane, loaded with mail, and will start off to inaugurate a new air mail route to South America for the Pan-American Airways. The route will take him to Havana, across the treacherous Caribbean Sea and thence to Cristobal Canal Zone, where the mail will be taken to Buenos Aires by boat.

AL CAPONE WINS IMMUNITY PLEA

MIAMI, Fla., April 25.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter today made permanent a temporary injunction he issued March 22 forbidding 20 Florida sheriffs from carrying out an order of Gov. Doyle Carlton to arrest Alphonse Capone on sight and escort him to the state line.

Capone and his attorney, J. F. Gordon, were the only witnesses at a hearing in Federal Court. At the conclusion of testimony, Judge Ritter read a written opinion, stressing freedom of citizens of the United States and of Florida, unless restrained by due process of law.

After ordering the injunction made permanent, Judge Ritter called Capone to the bench and urged him to take advantage of his privileges as a citizen of the United States in lawful exercise of his facilities.

Illinois Checking On Jails' Safety

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP.)—Aroused by the disastrous Columbus prison fire, an investigation of city, county and state jails and institutions has been ordered by the state fire marshal, it was learned today from P. E. Bertram, deputy state fire marshal in Chicago. Patrick J. Egan, chief of the city fire prevention bureau, has recommended construction of a fireproof hospital at the Bridewell.

Daylight Time Expensive for P. R. R.

What daylight saving means to the Pennsylvania Railroad:

It has had to have printed one-half million new train schedules so that the public will know what's what under the new time.

All the local trains will be moved ahead one hour, the officials announced today. Its new schedules are ready for distribution.

The railroad is prepared to put the change into effect on Sunday, the first day of daylight saving time.

BREMEN SAILS AFTER CRASH

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 25.—(INS.)—With a deep scratch in the shiny black paint of her bow from a collision in the English Channel, the North German Lloyd liner Bremen was en route for New York today.

Several hours late, the Bremen put out from Southampton when investigation disclosed no serious damage had been done by the collision with the English tanker British Grenadier off Dungenness in a heavy fog.

The British Grenadier, however, limped into Deal harbor with two of her oil tanks leaking, her bridge and rails smashed and with a woman passenger slightly injured.

PRISON ARSON CLUES TOLD AT INQUIRY

former convict who wrote that gasoline had been smuggled into the penitentiary by prisoners.

"OUT WITH THOMAS"

Meantime thousands of convicts, in ugly mood, milled in the prison yard, shouting over the walls, on which were mounted machine guns:

"Out with Thomas; we want Woodard!"

Defiant, Thomas replied:

"If they don't quiet down I'll use forceful methods against them if it takes a soldier to every man."

Outside the prison walls 1,000 National Guardsmen stood prepared for emergency action.

Deputy Woodard, after hearing himself acclaimed by convicts, told the state investigators there never had been fire drills in the prison; that the officials had never discussed a plan of action to meet fire, that there was not even fire apparatus within the prison walls.

LAX METHODS REVEALED

Woodard was preceded before the inquirers by Thomas Watkinson, a guard, who appeared almost nonchalant as he smoked a cigaret and offered his opinion that "all of the prisoners could have been saved if there had been a system."

Watkinson testified that aged Capt. John Hall, hated by the convicts, delayed him when he offered to open the main doors of the cell block, which would have allowed the prisoners to escape the flames.

TESTIMONY CONFLICTS

After Watkinson there came from Guard Hubert L. Richeson a refutation of other guards' testimony. He declared that the door to the ranges in which the prisoners were suffocated was open throughout the fire.

In a petition which outlined their demands, the convicts showed their hate for the warden. In the petition they said:

"We ask that Warden Thomas never return to the penitentiary unless as an inmate."

Nearby in the improvised morgue in the Horticultural Building, a cavalcade of 146 unclaimed dead was taking shape for burial today, its destination the Eastlawn Burial Park. In one big hole, under one marker, the burned bodies will rest.

Poor relatives of the dead groped about the morgue, fingering the $50 expense money allowed by the state for each private burial, and making arrangements to bring their caskets back home.

Prison authorities have made no attempt to put the convicts to work, and the convicts, passive physically but rebellious vocally, have agreed to refuse to work.

Aid for American In Venezuela Sought

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Attacking the State Department for "failing to protect and support the rights" of James E. Welsh, a citizen of Louisiana, who lived six years in Venezuala, Senator Ransdell (Dem.), Louisiana, today introduced a resolution seeking redress and demanding that the State Department "bring full force to bear on Venezuela" to protect the rights and property of American citizens there.

Welsh married while in Venezuela, and a daughter was born. He was placed in jail for more than two months after he attempted to take the little girl from the country. He wants the American government to move for restoration of his child. He is also suing for $500,000 over the imprisonment.

are 15 of them. They say they weren't released from their cells until yesterday, although most of the prisoners have been allowed to roam the prison yard.

Din Opens Locks

But they battered their cell doors and yelled long enough to convince officials they should be allowed out.

Now they can stroll in the cell block, but there are plenty of guards around in case anything happens.

They made charges that can't be printed unsubstantiated.

They also said they're charged $2 to have a tooth pulled until they've been here five years. And they claim if they take sick on days other than Wednesday or Saturday they don't get medical treatment.

Four to a Cell

They don't say pretty things when they talk about their cells. The cells are small, in the first place and, in the second place, four men have to sleep in each one. They take their exercise in turns—walking from the front to the back of the cell! They complain they're paid only a half-cent an hour for their work in the prison.

I was lucky to get in to see them. I was walking around the prison yard when one of the Red Shirt outfit yelled at me, through the open, barred window, for no particular reason.

Guards Obey

We talked for a few minutes and I asked about Pat McDermott. Then I talked with Pat. And then the Red Shirters yelled to the guards to let me in their cell block.

Yesterday a Detroit photographer was in there and the boys smashed his camera and tossed him out of the block. That's the kind of playboys they are if they don't like you.

Former Cellmate Will Preach Funeral

BARNESVILLE, O., April 25.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Lawrence Robey, 35, one of the 320 victims of the Columbus prison fire, were to be preached today by a former cellmate, Lester McCracken. Robey and McCracken were cellmates in the Belmont County jail at St. Clairsville, where the latter is still serving a term for stealing copper wire from a coal mine, but Sheriff Ford Moore said he would allow him to go to Barnesville for the Robey funeral. McCracken has been converted and has taken to preaching. He is known as the jail evangelist.

Marriages May Cost 38 Couples City Jobs

Thirty-eight married couples are employed at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, a report to Mayor Charles H. Kline revealed today.

A report from all departments was requested in accordance with a resolution passed recently by council with the object of barring husbands and wives from holding city jobs because of the unemployment situation.

The city treasurer's office, department of supplies and city assessors reported that they had no married couples on the payroll. Other departments have not been heard from.

Dr. James S. Hammer, superintendent of Mayview, asked Council for a hearing before action was taken.

Dr. Hammer said:

"Employment of married couples is the plan generally followed by institutions of this character throughout the world. Because of the nature of the work it is the only way to get and keep competent help. To disturb our present organization by enforcing a rule against husbands and wives holding positions would be seriously to cripple our work."

RECTOR WED TO CATHOLIC KEEPS POST

Defeats Move for Ouster With Admonition From Bishop as Sole Penalty

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 25.—(AP.)—Victor in a fight he waged virtually unaided, the Rev. Julius Arnold Velasco, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church at Dayton, Ky., today faced only an admonition by his bishop for his marriage to a Catholic and its aftermath.

The 31-year-old minister, whose romance led up to a two-day battle before an ecclesiastical court here to retain his church orders, conferred last year, only a few months before he married Catherine Rogers, of Baltimore, was acquitted last night of the major accusations filed against him by a diocese committee.

WINS LIGHTEST SENTENCE

Opposing him were two veteran attorneys, acting for the prosecution. He might have been suspended or even unfrocked, under Section 1 of Church Canon No. 28, which applied to his case. The verdict calling for admonition by the bishop was the lightest possible for the offense of which he was found guilty—using defamatory language toward his church superior.

AGREEMENT VOIDED

Formal charges of having failed to carry out the agreement to resign his charge if he should marry the Catholic girl he was known to love were filed against the rector several weeks ago, after he and Bishop Abbott had clashed.

The young rector asserted the agreement drawn up a few hours before his ordination was uncanonical and that he learned it had been rescinded by the diocese committee shortly after the ordination.

The marriage was performed at Ellicott City, Md., by a Catholic priest. The committee's position was that it destroyed his usefulness.

CAGE CELL HELD OBSOLETE HERE

Cage cells such as those in which the Ohio penitentiary victims were trapped by fire are obsolete—except for desperate prisoners—K. D. Magruder, secretary of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, Western Branch, declared today.

He said:

"Allegheny County has decided to remove convicted prisoners from the present jail to a new industrial prison farm at Parkview. It now faces the opportunity to avoid the evils existing in the Ohio penitentiary.

"The Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs and the National Crime Commission agree that an industrial prison farm for convicted offenders should not be of the monumental type with every cell of tool-proof construction.

"Instead, there should be simple, substantial buildings with cells or rooms built primarily for sanitation, and secondarily for security."

'Clues' Prove Futile In Baker Death Case

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—All arrests and clues thus far having led to nothing, Washington and Virginia authorities today turned to an accumulation of "tips" and letters that have poured in since Mary Baker, government clerk, was slain.

Some of them, police said, were obviously the work of cranks but, in the absence of better information, all were being looked into. Miss Baker, daughter of a minister, was found shot to death near Arlington Cemetery on the morning of April 12.

MORROW HAILED AS SENATOR

S. S. LEVIATHAN, April 25.—(AP.)—Members of the homewardbound American naval delegation today read with interest dispatches from Washington to the effect that Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, will be appointed immediately by Gov. Larson, of New Jersey, to succeed David Baird, Jr., of Camden, who has been holding the senatorship temporarily.

While the ambassador continued to maintain silence on domestic politics, it is known that his plans are being held in abeyance pending conferences with national and state leaders.

The weather today was splendid and all of the naval party took part in deck games.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area remained nearly stationary, but decreased considerably in pressure, which resulted in moderating temperatures. Heavy frost occurred, however, over Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Kentucky and Northern Missouri and light frost in Tennessee, Northern Georgia and Western North Carolina. Conditions prevented frost formation in Western Pennsylvania and eastward.

The western low pressure area is now centered over Colorado and Wyoming, and covers the Rocky Mountain states. It is producing cloudy weather over the Rocky Mountain and Western Plains states and showers over that entire area, from Southern Canada to Mexico and as far east as Kansas City. The temperatures will rise slowly and rain will set in over this section by Saturday night.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly, stage at Franklin is 4.2 feet. Lock No. 2, Pittsburgh, 11.5; Dam No. 4, 9.2; Dam No. 6, 10.1; Dam No. 9, 11.1; and Dam No. 11, 9.0. The dams are down.

Ohio Governor Picks Board For Better Prison Study

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—Deeply moved by the Ohio State Penitentiary fire disaster, which took a life toll of 320 convicts, Gov. Myers E. Cooper today declared he is appointing a committee of five to make "a comprehensive study" of the penal situation in the state, and that he personally, proposes to go before the Ohio legislature and make recommendations "for the adequate meeting of the whole penal and welfare needs of the state, as developed by this group of men."

The Governor admitted that the jails of Ohio were overcrowded.

He pointed out that at the last conference of governors at New London, Conn., it was evident from the comments of other governors that a similar "encumbering" situation prevailed in virtually every state in the union.

"The prison situation in the United States should be remedied not only for the sake of the individual but for society itself," he said.

Asked what, in his opinion, was responsible for so much recent trouble in prisons throughout the country, Gov. Cooper said:

"The laws have listed many new crimes. Sentences have been longer. Then, too, we have a greatly centralized population. In the last 15 years 15,000,000 people have gone to the larger cities."

The tour begins yesterday and includes stops in northeastern and central sections of the state before Pittsburgh is reached Leaving here he tentatively follows: May 3, New Castle and Ambridge; May 5, Harrisville and Pittsburgh; May 6, Harrisville, Indiana, Punxsutawney, Big Run and Brookville; May 7, Mercer, Greenville, Meadville and Erie; May 9, Warren, Kane, DuBois, Altoona; May 10, State College, Bellefonte, Lock Haven, Williamsport; May 12, Sunbury, Shamokin, Ashland, Pottsville; May 14, Tamaqua, and points in Carbon and Luzerne counties; May 15, Lackawanna County; May 16 and 17, Philadelphia; May 19, Easton, Stroudsburg and Milford.

Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, vice chairman of the Pinchot state committee, yesterday addressed a neighborhood meeting in the home of Mrs. George W. Albertson, of 5400 Stanton avenue.

Mrs. Lawrence declared that Pinchot was the first Pennsylvania governor to appoint a woman to a cabinet position. He gave equal pay to men and women doing the same work.

Grundy will appear before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee in Washington Tuesday and return to Pittsburgh Wednesday for visits to industrial centers in western territory where he will address employes of the various plants.

DORRANCE GOES TO CRAWFORD

Charles Dorrance, candidate for lieutenant governor on the state anti-dry ticket, was to leave here today to carry his campaign into Crawford County, his birthplace.

Dorrance spent yesterday in Pittsburgh with his running mates, Thomas W. Phillips, for governor, and Francis H. Bohlen for United States senator. Phillips left last night for Butler and Bohlen for Philadelphia.

Yesterday afternoon Phillips, Bohlen and Dorrance held a public reception in their Magee Building headquarters and addressed about 300 supporters, including those from adjoining counties.

Before leaving here they issued a joint statement as follows:

"We would not be astounded at the strength which our tickets has developed in Pittsburgh and the western part of the state if it were not that all reports which we have from Philadelphia and the anthracite region are to the same effect."

PANTAGES WINS COURT ORDER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court has ordered District Attorney Buron Fitts, of Los Angeles, and Attorney U. S. Webb to show cause in Sacramento May 1 why Alexander Pantages, theater magnate convicted of criminal assault, should not be admitted to bail pending determination of an appeal.

Pantages is in jail in Los Angeles and seeks release on the ground that his health is endangered by longer confinement. He was convicted of attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, in his office in a Los Angeles theater. He was sentenced to one to 50 years in San Quentin prison.

Barber Refusing Bobs Quotes Bible

LONDON, April 25.—(AP.)—A barber in Brixton refuses to bob hair because he thinks the Bible forbids it. On his shop is a sign from Corinthians:

"If a woman have long hair it is a glory to her."

Held as Slayer Of Wife Over Missed Vote

OREANA, Md., April 25 (AP)—[illegible] was held here today on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Mrs. Ethel Payne, a farmer living near here, who was shot to death Tuesday as she attempted to cast her ballot in the primary election.

Mrs. Payne arrived at the polls too late to cast a ballot and as election officials refused to permit her to vote, her husband shot her, they alleged.

Payne was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frank Gollmar, who ordered him held without bail.

Mrs. Payne died from lockjaw, physicians said, after suffering for a week from a wound in the left leg, which she received when her husband shot her.

Payne told Gollmar that he had shot his wife in a fit of anger after she had refused to vote for Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for President, and had cast her ballot for Alfred E. Smith, Democrat.

Payne, a farmer, is married and has a family of children.

DAVIS, GRUNDY IN SLUSH QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS.)—Hoping to stamp out slush funds in this year's senatorial elections, the Nye Campaign Fund Committee today called upon about 125 candidates for 35 senatorial seats to report regularly all campaign receipts and expenditures.

The committee was waiting to hear from either Senator Joseph R. Grundy (Rep.) of Pennsylvania or his rival Secretary of Labor James J. Davis. Both candidates for the Republican nomination in Pennsylvania were asked to appear before the committee if they had any charges to make against the other. Grundy is expected to face the committee Monday.

The same invitation was extended to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who won the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois, and to the defeated Charles S. Deneen (Rep.) of Illinois. Neither candidate has as yet complained to the committee.

DAVIS FAVORS TARIFF GUARD

Davis-Brown campaign in Philadelphia.

FAVORS OPEN HEARINGS

"Wages go up and down with the tariff," declared Secretary Davis. "My conception of tariff building is that it should be done in the open. The lack of fair returns halts investments, and the tariff should provide a reasonable profit for all manufacturers and employes in this country."

Secretary Davis declined to discuss the "information" concerning the Pennsylvania primary he has lodged with the special Senate committee headed by Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota. Both Davis and Grundy have been invited to appear before the Nye committee.

Senator Grundy declared again that the tariff bill now before Congress was the "worst" ever to come from a Republican Congress.

"It fails absolutely to meet the needs of the country," Grundy asserted. "What we want and must have is a tariff made by industrialists and representative of labor, who are vitally affected by its provisions. I will continue to criticize this inadequate bill, to work for its removal from the statute books in favor of a real protective tariff."

CHALLENGES BROWN

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who is conducting an independent campaign for the Republican nomination for governor, challenged Secretary Davis, gubernatorial running mate, Francis Shunk Brown, to renounce the Philadelphia organization if elected governor. Pinchot toured Chester County and spoke in Downingtown and Coatesville.

"I know Mr. Brown will not meet the challenge," Pinchot declared, "because he must depend on the controlled vote of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. He would not have a ghost of a chance if it were not for these two machines."

Pinchot proclaimed himself as "absolutely dry."

Raymond Pitcairn, publicity director of the anti-dry campaign committee, issued a statement criticizing the city of Altoona for denying the right of the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance caravan speakers to address the citizens of that city. He declared the caravan also was refused the right to distribute campaign literature.

2 WOMEN DEAD IN SOCIAL ROW

mark multimillionaire son of the late harvester magnate of Chicago, Cyrus H. McCormick. This year Mrs. Palmer became determined the sets was given the honor.

QUARREL OVER HONOR

The change in directorship, their friends said, caused them to quarrel. Authorities said that when Mrs. Palmer was supervising a dress rehearsal of the play, Mrs. Post was heard to say: I'd like to shoot her.

The play was to have opened last night, but the double tragedy caused the theater to remain dark.

Sheriff Jernigan said Mrs. Post apparently had been stricken with remorse after shooting Mrs. Palmer and that for two hours afterward she walked about the house and attempted to stop the flow of blood from the wound in her friend's heart. Later she washed her hands, leaving blood-stains on the bowl and towel.

Mrs. Post was born in Philadelphia. She was the stepdaughter of Benecht Pultz, who, until his death four years ago, was head of the J. B. Pultz Company, eastern representatives of Armour & Co., of Chicago.

STARRED ON STAGE

Her first stage appearance as Adele Ritchie was in a light opera, "The Algerian," which ran in New York in 1893. Later she headed the troupe. She played leading roles in De Koven's "Mandarin" in Victor Herbert's "Wizard of the Nile" and in "The Runaway Girl." Then she starred in vaudeville for a few seasons.

In 1910, despite her success behind the footlights, she filed a petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities of $15,249 and no assets.

She was married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1910 to Charles Nelson Bell, whom she divorced three years later in Philadelphia. She announced before the marriage, "I am marrying for money."

Mrs. Palmer was married to Dr. Palmer in Chicago in 1921. She was the daughter of Clarence Murray, wealthy Waukegan (Ill.) pioneer.

Theater Withholds Tragedy From Post

HONOLULU, T. H., April 25.—(INS.)—Guy Bates Post, divorced husband of one of the women who figured in the tragedy at Laguna Beach, Cal., has been appearing here for the last three weeks as the leading man at Liberty Theater.

Playing opposite Lois Kemble Cooper, Post played in "Her Friend the King" last night, the management withholding news of the death of his former wife until after the performance.

ANTI-DRY GROUP HEADS WEST

ALTOONA, Pa., April 24.—(AP.)—The motor caravan touring the state in the campaign for the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance anti-dry ticket prepared to leave here today for Johnstown without holding a street meeting for which city officials refused to issue a permit.

The city refused to permit the caravan to hold a meeting on city streets here because of traffic congestion, officials said. Raymond Pitcairn, publicity director of the caravan, said the city's action was a "disgrace to an American town" and that the "Un-American outrage" to prevent presentation of the candidates' views would be resented by every free citizen in the town."

Mayor John J. McMurray said permits to use the streets were issued to no organization except the Salvation Army. It was pointed out that a meeting could be held if it were not in the city streets.

Pittsburgher Freed In 2 Bridge Deaths

MEDINA, O., April 25.—(INS.)—Charles Altvater, of Pittsburgh, today had been freed by a jury of any blame growing out of the collapse of the Rocky River Bridge on the Akron-Medina road, April 3, which cost two lives. Altvater was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated over the bridge when it collapsed. The driver of a truck and trailer following him was killed when he fell into the river. Later a worker was killed while clearing away the debris.

Policeman's Shot Breaks Fleeing Man's Flask

FLINT, Mich., April 25.—(AP.)—Patrolman Harold M. Conger is very adept with the pistol. He took one shot at Fred Malone's fleeing figure and scored a bull's eye right on Malone's hip flask.

"Hey, where are you going?" yelled the patrolman as Malone passed him on the street at a dead run.

But Malone didn't stop to answer.

Patrolman Conger fired. Splinters of glass flew in all directions as Malone fell to the pavement.

When the patrolman reached Malone, he found him lying in a pool of dark liquid that turned out to be whisky, not blood. Today Malone is in jail, instead of the hospital.

Mother in Audience Dies, Girl Goes on With Play

CHICAGO, April 25.—(INS.)—Excitement aroused by the fact that her two daughters were about to appear in a local talent play caused Mrs. Thomas Dunn to die suddenly in her seat in the audience, doctors agreed today.

When informed back stage of their mother's death, Loretta fainted and was unable to go on. The other girl, Frances, fighting off her emotions, went through with her part because there was no one to take her place.

The play was given by the Des Plaines American Legion Post.

RUM CASE IS ADAMS' FIRST

Assistant District Attorney Russell H Adams newly appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of First Assistant Andrew T Park to the district attorneyship when Samuel H Gardner became a judge was given a liquor case to try on his first day as a public prosecutor but it developed that the prohibition agent who had been the arresting officer and was in possession of the main facts is no longer a member of the prohibition force.

He failed to appear as a witness and the case fell flat Judge Thomas A Ford directing the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty because of insufficient evidence. The defendant was Tony Pate, 841 Center street, Versailles. He had been arrested in the yard of the Center street premises when raiding officers discovered a 150-gallon still and a quantity of moonshine and mash in the house.

CHINESE REDS MASSACRED

HANKOW, April 25 (AP)—Chinese press dispatches received here today reported that 2,000 farmers, who had been forced to join the ranks of the Communists, had been slain during battles with government troops near the northeast Hupeh province town of Shinte.

The advices said that government troops had defeated the Reds, although the latters' leaders had escaped, proceeded to the nearby town and after sacking the place massacred 1,800 men, women and children. It was further reported that other towns in the neighborhood, hearing of the Communists' depredations, had evacuated the entire population, leaving the towns to the looting invaders.

BLAME HOLDUP ON EACH OTHER

Conflicting stories of a supposed holdup were told at a hearing in Mt. Washington Police Station today by Albert Michel, 28, of 613 Eureka street, and Samuel Easton, 22, of 2149 Wylie avenue. Michel testified he and two companions had been held up by Easton at West Liberty avenue and Hargrove street early today.

Easton, subsequently arrested, testified he was taking his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Easton, to her home at 206 Hargrove street, when they were held up by Michel and two others. The three had worked for him, he testified, in the bootleg racket at one time.

Magistrate J. J. Sweeney said he was inclined to believe Easton and discharged him. No other arrests were ordered. The driver of Michel's car, the only one who pulled a gun, police said, disappeared.

A new degree, that of Master of Education, recognizing the profession of education, will be conferred by the University of Pittsburgh, according to Dr. Grover H. Alderman, dean of the School of Education.

In explaining the new degree, Dean Lee Paul Sieg, of the Graduate School, stated that it was created to meet the demand of two classes of professional students, the school administrator and the school master. The principal difference between this and other masters' degrees is that there will be no thesis required, he said.

BOY OVERCOME BY GAS SAVED

John Nyardy, 16, of Garfield Extension, Springdale, was recovering today in the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, from the effects of gas fumes, his life having been saved yesterday by Bernard Murray, an employe of the Colfax plant of the Duquesne Light Company.

Nyardy's parents carried him to the front lawn and Murray, who was en route to work, applied artificial respiration, reviving the youth. Murray will be recommended for the McCarter medal in recognition of his services, his associates said today.

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—(AP)—The district attorney's office is investigating charges of Nils Asther, screen actor, that he was defrauded of $1,567 by Ira J. Angus, income tax expert and former manager of the Duncan sisters.

Asther, in making his charges, was accompanied by Vivian Duncan, one of the members of the dance team. He said he gave the money to Angus to make stock purchases but that he never received the securities.

Angus recently was indicted by the federal grand jury for alleged falsification of the income tax return by Earle Foxe, film actor.

CARMEN GIVEN NEW OFFER

The Pittsburgh Railways Company motormen and conductors will take another vote on terms offered by the company at a meeting Monday night and Tuesday morning in the Labor Temple. The day shift will vote from 6 p. m. and the night shift from 6 a. m. Union officials say this will be the final effort to reach a amicable agreement on the new wage scale and working conditions before the expiration of the present two-year pact at midnight Wednesday.

No hint of the terms to be voted on has been given out by either company officials or by union men and nothing will be made known until they are presented to the men Monday night. Outside sources have it that the proposed wage scale is the same as the present scale. A meeting last week was the first called to reject the tentative agreement which was said before then by the wage scale committee.

Representatives of the men and the company have been meeting at conferences for several weeks and thus far no announcement has been made on what has been discussed.

COURT ACTS IN MINE DISPUTE

PITTSBURG, Kas., April 25 (AP.)—A temporary order restraining provisional officers of the United Mine Workers of America headed by John L. Lewis from interfering with the Alexander group led to Alexander Howat in conducting business of mine organizations in the Kansas field was issued here by District Judge L. M. Resler.

No date has been set for the hearing on the petition for a permanent injunction, Judge Resler said.

The temporary order was served on Henry Alla, provisional district president.

The order also restrains provisional officers of the district from taking control of the records and funds of the mine workers here.

District officers for the Howat faction, headed by August Dorchy, president, asked for the restraining writ. Alla and all provisional officers are named defendants.

The action is another step in the fight for control of the Kansas mine union. Several local union charters have been revoked by the group headed by Lewis as a result of participation in the insurgent movement.

P. R. R. to Eliminate Allegheny Division

OIL CITY, Pa., April 25.—The Allegheny Valley division of the Pennsylvania Railroad will soon disappear. The division is to be combined with the Conemaugh and Renovo divisions according to General Manager C. I. Leiper of Pittsburgh, and F. D. Davis, general superintendent of Buffalo.

J. J. Rhoades, superintendent of the Allegheny Valley division, will become assistant general superintendent of the Northern division. Few families here will be affected by the change, railroad officials said.

Argonne Veteran Heads New Post

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 25.—Capt. Joseph P. Connell, wounded in the Argonne campaign in France, was elected commander, and Thomas S. Elliott, Spanish-American War veteran, senior vice commander, of the Jesse Greer Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The new post starts with a membership of 35. It takes its name from a Franklin soldier killed in the battle at Hill 244 near Chateau Thierry in July, 1918. George Agnew, a "buddy" of Greer's, is first adjutant of the organization.

Veteran, Estranged Husband, Suicides

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 25.—Despondent over ill health, the result of being gassed overseas, Elvin Bendure, 43, killed himself by shooting at a farm near Dillonvale, O., last night. He leaves a wife and five children.

Clarence Hagerman, 33, shot himself through the head at his home here to evade arrest on charges of trying to shoot his wife, from whom he was separated. Police were at the door with a warrant when he pulled the trigger.

Childless Village Found by Census Supervisor

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 25 (AP).—The title to one of children are a part of life in Beaver, a village in the northern part of Columbiana County, it was learned here.

Mrs. Ila Marshall, Columbiana County census supervisor, announced that the community is childless. There are only 26 persons living in the hamlet she said, and they are all of adult years.

SHIP IN BRIDGE CRASH FLOATED

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 25 (AP).—The battered American freighter Lansmar was refloated late yesterday when tugs hauled her off the rock perch on which she had settled after smashing through the Lions Gate bridge between Vancouver and communities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet.

The Lansmar steaming down from Barnet was within a few hundred lengths of the opened draw of the Second Narrows bridge when treacherous currents suddenly swept the vessel through the south span of the half-mile long bridge. Three workmen on the bridge fled to safety as the south end of the bridge fell into the water. A hole was punctured in the Lansmar above the water line.

Damage to the span was estimated by bridge company officials at more than $50,000.

4 MEN JAILED IN LYNCHING

WALHALLA, S. C., April 25 (AP.)—Four men were today held in two separate jails on charges growing out of the lynching of Claude Neal, negro, from the office of the Sheriff here. Sheriff Wyatt Cannon, of Jackson County, Fla., and members of the mob who, Wednesday night, overpowered Sheriff John Thomas and Tom Allen Greer, 50-year-old Negro, from the latter's home and killed him.

John Sanders, a Walhalla man, is said to have been overpowered by a posse headed by Sheriff Thomas and his son, Frank, 21, as a result of the mob. Jeff Harris, Glen Lee and Jeff Rogers, all of this county, were taken into custody. It was announced by sheriff's officers.

Sanders, officials said, does not own a coat on which blood spots could be plainly seen when they arrested him. He was taken before today on a warrant charging harboring a prisoner from jail and "assault and battery with intent to kill." The latter charge was preferred as the result of a fractured skull suffered by Sheriff Thomas in efforts to repulse the mob.

SEEK POISON IN 2 LONG DEAD

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 25 (AP.)—Bodies of the husband and son of Mrs. Mary Hartman today were being examined for traces of poison in connection with an alleged insurance swindle, despite denial of the woman that she had anything to do with their deaths.

Exhumation of the body of A. B. Hartman, 47, who died in 1927, and of his son, Hollis, 22, who died a year ago, was ordered yesterday following the discovery of poison in the vital organs of Ruth Hartman, 16, Mrs. Hartman's daughter, who died two weeks ago.

Mrs. Hartman, beneficiary of insurance policies held by the three members of her family, is being held pending an autopsy.

YALE APPROVES 'GOOD BEER'

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 25 —(INS.)—Yale Alumni Weekly today announced that it heartily agreed with the wish of Dean Clarence Mendell that college men could have good beer rather than bad liquor.

The weekly said:

"It is by no means a new idea. Undergraduate opinion, especially aroused after a normal summer vacation in Europe, has long been that ruinous drinking would change its character for the better if our laws permitted the light beverages to be found in Germany or France. How such a condition could be brought about we do not know.

"It is, of course, just the way to put an end to the prevailing unnatural situation and to the mad conditions that go with it."

U. S. SUES FOES OF RADIO TRUST

WASHINGTON, April 25 (Universal).—After belaboring for nine years to prove against the alleged radio trust, the government is today maintaining its legal forces against two government inventions who beat the "trust" in a fight for $20,000,000 of royalties.

Filing of federal suits in New York and the District of Columbia against Percival D. Lowell and Francis W. Dunmore was announced by the Department of Justice.

Lowell and Dunmore claim the basic patents for loose current radio sets. Their claim was upheld recently by a federal court in Delaware, and $20,000,000 royalties for which they sued the Radio Corporation of America appeared within their grasp.

If today's suits for conveyance of the patents to the United States are successful, Lowell and Dunmore will get nothing. The government would have the only claim against the Radio Corporation for royalties, lawyers pointed out, and it has not asserted such claims in the past as to radio patents.

EARLE APPEALS SALAZAR SUIT

LOS ANGELES, April 25 (AP).—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, artist through his attorneys, today was seeking a retrial of the suit for breach of premarital contract by which Dolores Salazar, 22 Spanish dancer, won a judgment of $17,000 against him.

Earle's attorneys declared the marriage contract upon which the suit was based was not made in writing and therefore the verdict was not according to law.

Superior Judge Harry Archibald took the plea under advisement.

Miss Salazar testified at the trial that Earle took her to Paris and there put out of their hotel and since has married again. She said he promised her $15,000 and a contract in motion pictures which she never received.

Earle, who is in Paris, testified in a deposition that Miss Salazar "fell into my lap like a ripe peach."

Incendiary Suspected In Norwood Blaze

Blowe Township police today were investigating a fire believed by firemen to have been of incendiary origin, which damaged two houses in 124-126 McKinley avenue, Norwood, late last night. Mr. and Mrs. John Dugan and seven children, residents at 126 McKinney avenue, were rescued by neighbors. The loss was estimated at $3,500, firemen said.

The fire started in a one-story dwelling, which had been vacated by a family of Negroes last Thursday and which was to have been occupied soon by another family of that race in spite of protests of residents, police were told.

WASHINGTON'S ELM IN QUIZ

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 25.—(AP.)—Cambridge officials expressed ignorance today of the existence of descendants of the late lamented Washington Elm in the University of Washington botanical gardens, but pointed out that there were several healthy "grandchildren" of the famous tree now growing in the Arnold Arboretum here. These later will be transplanted to Cambridge Common, where their ancestors gave shade to Gen. Washington as he took command of the Revolutionary Army.

Miss Rose Manning wrote to the University of Washington asking the history of the descendants reported growing there. The original elm in the Washington Botanical Garden was reported as having grown from a twig cut from the Washington Elm in 1900 and from it in turn two twigs have been cut and planted, destined to be returned to this city.

WOMAN, 4 MEN IN DRY NET

Five persons, including a woman, were arrested by prohibition agents in three raids yesterday.

Mrs. Teresina Certelli, 48, and Frank Certelli were arrested in a raid on a store in West Elizabeth, where, according to the agents, a large quantity of moonshine was seized.

In a building at 1069 Warrington avenue, the seizure of 119 pints of gin and 45 pints of whisky and the arrest of Jack Jiarrusso, 18, and Peter Bianchi, 19, was reported. The two were held in bond.

Under the terms of the will, property was divided into two lots, the descriptions of which were placed in separate envelopes. Arthur Leflang drew three hotels, three business buildings, two residential properties and a grain elevator.

Mrs. Leflang will receive three hotels, three pieces of property in the business district, and two grain elevators.

Politeness Code Drawn Up by Police Chief

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Washington's new police department head, believes that if a policeman is rude the blame for his rudeness should fall upon his superior officer for failing to train him properly.

With this idea in mind, he is drawing up a code of conduct to guide policemen in their contacts with the public. This code he plans to put into the hands of the commanding officers for their use in instructing policemen how to perform their duties tactfully.

One principle he has decided definitely to incorporate in his list is the admonition that a policeman shall not violate one law to enforce another.

FARMERS TOLD STATE NEEDS

Although Pennsylvania leads many states in production of various foodstuffs, more than 20 states are called upon to supply tables of the state, Frank Shaffer, manager of the natural resources division of the Chamber of Commerce said today. He urges careful study of marketing and grading by Western Pennsylvania farmers.

Pennsylvania grows apples in equal quality of any other state, he said, yet last year that fruit was shipped into the state from 21 other states. Of the 2,796,600 bushels consumed by Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, he said, only 10 per cent were Pennsylvania grown.

TAYLOR 'KILLER' DREAM VICTIM

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—(AP.)—Capt. James Bean, of the police homicide detail, said that Russo Rinaldo, shell-shocked war veteran, decided he "just dreamed" he killed William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, eight years ago.

Capt. Bean said Rinaldo, who was a concert violinist, made a large acquaintance in the motion picture colony in 1922, when Taylor was shot to death on February 2 in his lavishly furnished bungalow, had admitted his confession was a fantasy inspired by reading accounts of the famous mystery and by heavy drinking.

Capt. Bean said the man would be released provided other investigators did not believe it advisable to ask for a complaint to send him to the psychopathic ward.

PROTESTS BIG WATER BILL

Matthew McNeil, 204 Brownsville road, has asked the Public Service Commission to make the South Pittsburgh Water Company stop charging him for water not consumed.

In the meantime McNeil has refused to pay water bills for the premises in question, claiming he is being overcharged. The water company has not shut off the supply, for under the rulings of the commission, the water company is not permitted to do so.

Examiner W. E. Best of the Public Service Commission heard the testimony offered. McNeill produced witnesses to show he did not have leaky pipes. The company produced employes who testified that a "check and double check" had revealed that McNeil's tenants—three of them—were using the water for which he has been billed, as much as $56 quarterly.

The commission now will have to decide whether it has jurisdiction over water meters or whether the dispute is one for the civil courts to decide. The dispute between McNeil and the water company has been waged for nearly a year, without either side being able to agree.

DRYS RAID OLD CRICKET CLUB

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP.)—Armed with search and seizure warrants, a detail of the police raiding squad, visited the famous old Philadelphia Cricket Club yesterday, made two arrests and seized a quantity of liquor.

Three patrol wagons were ranged about the picturesque, colonial-type clubhouse and into them raiders piled the liquors taken from the club's two barrooms.

No members were in the club when the police arrived. Philip Ciafordo, assistant steward, and John Matcki, head waiter, were arrested.

The director of Public Safety, Mr. Schofield, described the raid as "police routine" after an investigation. He said there had been complaints to his office of "notorious and flagrant violations of the liquor laws."

Earlier in the week, Schofield said, a policeman in evening clothes had purchased liquor at the club on two occasions.

The club, of which Joseph Wayne, Jr., president of the Philadelphia National Bank, is president, was for many years one of the strongholds of cricket in America. It was organized in 1854 exclusively for cricket, but in recent years it has been the scene of important golf and tennis tournaments.

Son Hurt by Taxi, Sues for $30,000

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Coco, of Pittsburgh, filed a suit in Common Pleas Court against the Yellow Cab Company, seeking to recover $30,000 damages for injuries to their son, Joseph, aged 11, alleged to have been crippled for life when struck by a taxicab. While crossing Grant street, near Liberty avenue, June 26, the boy was hit by a cab driven at high speed, tossing him in the air, the suit alleged.

Annexation Asked In Baldwin Petition

A petition asking for the annexation of a portion of Baldwin Township to the City of Pittsburgh, signed by 46 of the 198 qualified voters of the district, has been presented to Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Quarter Sessions Court, by Attorney John J. McGrath, who explained that the district is in the Elwyn plan. Judge Rowand ordered the petition filed and directed that a copy be sent to Mayor Charles H. Kline.

$150,000 RUM BILLED 'FEED'

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Two carloads of "scratch feed" consigned to Jersey City and Newark, N. J., from Charleston, S. C., yielded to inquisitive federal agents a cargo of assorted liquors valued at $150,000.

Underneath a scattering camouflage of loose feed the agents, acting on a tip from Charleston, opened the cars as soon as they reached the Potomac yards, near here, and found sacks containing 16,000 quarts of rye, scotch, rum, gin and other liquors. Agents said one of the cars was consigned to the B. Simonds Scratch Feed Company, Jersey City, and the other to W. B. Curry Feed Company, Newark.

The tip came from Charleston where the liquor was seen transferred from a boat to the railroad cars.

NAME NAVY MAN FOR ZEP TRIP

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—As usual when the Graf Zeppelin takes a long trip, an American naval officer will be aboard the German dirigible on the flight soon to be undertaken from Germany to the United States and South America.

This time it will be Capt. Harry E. Shoemaker, who has been ordered to sail from New York for Germany on May 1. Shoemaker now is taking instruction at the Navy's lighter-than-air station at Lakehurst, N. J., where the Navy is preparing officers to command the two great Zeppelins now under construction at Akron, O.

Shoemaker will serve on board the Graf as liaison officer handling communications between the ship and the Navy Department. He is the ninth naval man to travel aboard her.

Lawrence is a vice president of Curtiss-Wright and it was explained his duties were so heavy that he was forced to relinquish his other post.

Blind Man Shoots Wife Dead, Ends Life

CANEY, Kan., April 25.—(AP.)—Elisha O'Bryant, 64, a blind man, shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Eva O'Bryant, 59, and then committed suicide here. They had quarreled. O'Bryant fired at his wife as she entered the door of their home and later shot himself.

REVOKE PAROLE IN MAIL THEFT

Frank Brazinski, 38, of Amity street, Homestead, was sentenced to four months in jail by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, who yesterday revoked a one-year parole granted Brazinski February 3, when he pleaded guilty to stealing two letters from the mail in Homestead.

The revocation of the parole was made because of Brazinski having been arrested for disorderly conduct in Homestead and sentenced one month in jail, which term has just been completed. When arrested last December for the mail theft, he tried to escape from the office of the United States marshal by climbing out a third story window, but was frustrated by Deputy United States Marshal E. A. Holden.

MRS. M'CORMICK SCANS VICTORY

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Discussing the effect on American women of her victory in the Illinois primary for the Republican senatorial nomination, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, in a radio address last night, asserted it was generally overlooked that the economic and political interest of men and women were largely identical.

Mrs. McCormick, whose talk was carried over a National Broadcasting Company network, expressed hope that her nomination would lead women to take a more individual interest in politics. She added:

"I am confident that men will be as eager as women to determine, if I am elected, whether the choice of a woman was justified by her ability, her integrity and her willingness to serve."

The Illinois congresswoman said if women did take greater political interest as a result of her victory, the benefit will be a substantial one, as when people placed the Nineteenth amendment in the Constitution they placed upon women the duty not only of exercising their right to vote but to study politics sufficiently to enable them to know how to vote.

TOKIO, April 25.—(AP.)—Cries of "Traitor!" from opposition members interrupted Foreign Minister Baron Shidehara's exposition on the London naval treaty in the House of Representatives this afternoon.

Remark of Woman Juror Results In Mistrial

HARRISBURG, April 25.—(AP.)—Because a woman juror remarked during a recess that she couldn't give a verdict for the Harrisburg Academy because it was a "rich man's school," a mistrial was declared and a second jury empanelled. The remark, attributed to Mrs. Catherine Martz, was relayed to the Academy's counsel and then to the judge, with the result that the jury was discharged. The case was a suit brought by the city against the academy involving a dispute over paving costs.

2 COUNTERFEIT SUSPECTS HELD

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Two men who were arrested last Saturday in Washington Heights Studio which allegedly had been outfitted with complete counterfeiting paraphernalia, were arraigned here and held in bail of $10,000 each.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said the men, Richard H. Adams and Thomas J. Dorsey, are believed to have been members of a gang which disposed of $3,000 in counterfeit $20 bills during the last three months, leaving a trail of spurious money between here and Cleveland, where other members of the gang are said to have operated extensively.

A man who gave his name as Louis Mayer, who was arrested in Cleveland recently, is said to have admitted under questioning that the local gang operated from the Washington Heights Studio.

EX-BANK HEAD HELD IN THEFT

PHILADELPHIA, April 25 (AP).—J. S. McCulloch, former president of the now defunct Union Bank and Trust Company of this city, was arrested last night charged with misapplication of funds of the bank, fraudulent conversion and omission of entries aggregating $280,000. The warrants for his arrest was sworn out by R. W. Doty, chief examiner for the State Banking Department.

McCulloch was released on $25,000 bail for a hearing.

He is charged with having taken the funds to purchase stock in the bank which was owned by an estate. The institution was mentioned during the "racket" grand jury investigation and was alleged to have had large accounts of bootleggers and racketeers. It was reported that McCulloch misappropriated the $280,000 a few days before a run was made on the bank as a result of these reports and that this fact prevented him from replacing the funds.

McCulloch was forced out of the presidency in March, 1929, and the next month the bank was taken over by the Corn Exchange National Bank which guaranteed depositors their money and liquidated the assets of the institution.

When they were questioned by the "racket" grand jury McCulloch and others were accused of "palpable lack of frankness."

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP).—Announcement was made last night at a dinner of the Great Circle Flight, Inc., that Capt. Errol Boyd, of Toronto, Canada, plans a solo flight from Montreal to London the latter part of May or the early part of June.

The dinner was held in honor of Capt. Boyd and was attended by him and other airmen, including Roger Q. Williams, who flew from Old Orchard, Me., to Spain on an attempted flight to Rome, and Capt. Lewis Yancey and William Alexander, who recently flew to Bermuda from Long Island.

Capt. Boyd was the first Canadian to enlist in the Royal Air Force during the war. He has flown the mails since then and has been active in aviation circles.

FRUIT DAMAGE IN THOUSANDS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 25.—(AP).—Paul Fankhouser, agricultural agent of Belmont County, estimated that the frost damage to the fruit crop in the county would reach $250,000. Cherries, peaches, grapes, pears, plums and early apples have been seriously damaged, Fankhouser said.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 25.—(AP).—Frost damage to fruit in Ohio County will exceed $50,000, it was estimated by J. E. Romine, county farm agent. He said much of the peach, pear, grape and cherry crop had been destroyed by the cold snap and that apples were seriously hurt. The minimum temperature here yesterday was 26.

TRIES TALKIES FOR POSTERITY

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP.)—Luigi Pirandello, Italian playwright and poet, desires to be handed down to posterity not only through his literary works but also through the motion picture or the sound film.

The man who wrote "Six Characters in Search of an Author" has arrived in Berlin in search of a movie or talkie producer with imagination enough to grasp the significance of Pirandello's first subjectivist scenario.

"I have just rewritten my 'Six Characters' as a movie scenario," said Pirandello, who is spending some weeks in Germany, superintending the production of several of his plays. "The theater director of my stage play is changed into the author in my movie scenario. In other words, I desire myself to play the role of what, in the stage play, is the theater director.

"The musical composer of today transmits his composition to posterity not only through the printed page. He invokes the aid of the phonograph to leave to the world an exact version of his self-interpretation. What better authority can there be for interpretation of a Kreisler violin composition than a phonograph record by Fritz Kreisler himself?

"Then, why should the modern playwright not make use of the movie and talkie to reveal himself? In playing the role of the author in 'Six Characters,' I shall be playing myself. I shall reveal myself as I really am. In the film drama, 'Six Characters in Search of an Author,' I want to testify about myself. My personality, I believe, will there become transparent, understandable."

Kaufmann Center Will Plant Tree

Arbor Day will be observed with community exercises in the Theresa L. Kaufmann auditorium and the planting of a tree on the Irene Kaufmann Settlement grounds, 1835 Center avenue, by the Settlement this evening. Sigmund L. Kauffmann, assistant director will address Settlement members at the auditorium, at four o'clock, following which a community singing and tree planting will follow.

RUNDOWN SYSTEM IS TRANSFORMED BY NEW KONJOLA

Pittsburgh Lady Finds Quick Relief From Nervousness and Kidney Trouble Through Modern Medicine.

If you are not feeling 100 per cent—if you suffer from troubles of the stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels, rheumatism, neuritis, or nervousness—help yourself to the knowledge of hundreds of Pittsburgh citizens who know from their own personal experience what a marvelous medicine Konjola is.

MRS. MATILDA GRIMM

Call upon the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. Get the facts, true and verified, about this super-compound of 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs of known medicinal value. Among the many local Konjola enthusiasts is Mrs. Matilda Grimm, 7245 Kelly Street, Homestead Station, Pittsburgh. Konjola battles the very causes of the ills it is designed to relieve . . . works quickly and thoroughly, and makes good time after time after all else tried has been found wanting. What, indeed, could be wiser than to follow in the footsteps of those, who, to their everlasting joy, put Konjola to the test? Consider, then, the words of Mrs. Grimm, who recently said to the Konjola Man:

"I am feeling so much better in every way, as the result of my experience with Konjola, that I can not help praising this wonderful medicine to others. For the past year or so I have been in a weakened, rundown condition. My nerves were in a dreadful shape. The least disturbance or annoyance would startle me terribly. I was weak and had no ambition to do my work, but just had to force myself about. My kidneys were also out of order. I had a terrible soreness and stiffness in my back and over my kidneys. It was difficult for me to stoop over. I was getting up several times during the night, and in the morning I would feel as tired as when I went to bed.

"I tried many medicines but none reached my trouble. Then Konjola was recommended by a friend, and I made up my mind to try it. How surprised I was at the great relief I received. In just a few weeks' time my kidney trouble was banished. I can sleep fine and get up in the mornings feeling refreshed. The pains and stiffness in my back are gone, and I can stoop over without the slightest discomfort. My nervous system has been wonderfully improved and I feel better and stronger in every way. Konjola certainly proved its merit in my case."

This is just one of the countless thousands of stirring indorsements that fill the files of Konjola almost to overflowing!

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

Wedgwood's Romance.

Josiah Wedgwood, whose name is synonymous with some of the most beautiful pottery ever designed, was lame and unattractive. Nevertheless, his love story is one of the most idyllic in history. The moment Josiah first met his pretty cousin, Sarah, he determined to learn to read. Then he began to make startling experiments in glaze and color. Until that time the potters of England made only brown jugs and none of the Royal family used individual dinner plates. Soon orders began to come from the nobility for Wedgwood dinner-sets, for it was not until this period, the early eighteen century, that beautiful pottery had ever been created in England.

Sarah's father encouraged his poor relative until the youth timidly told of his love for Sarah. Then he was forbidden to see her for a year and told that he might marry her only when he had ten thousand pounds. The story of Sarah's help and sympathy and how Josiah finally appeared before her father with the fortune is a romantic tale of true love and fidelity.

How a cripple exemplified his love for beauty in the design of exquisite pottery will be told on KDKA at 8:45 in the Famous Loves sketch.

There's more of love in the Cities Service program at 8. Leo O'Rourke and Jessica Dragonette will sing "Sweethearts" from Romberg's "Maytime."

The Gimbel Ball on WCAE at 9:30 and again at 11 will be the usual sprightly affair with many radio entertainers taking part.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

Attention of Mr.E.G.Harris, Manager

Dear Mr. Harris:-

I am sending under separate cover final receipt for rent of the property at Penn Avenue and Ninth Street.

I cannot let the incident pass without saying how much I have appreciated this association with you and to express my admiration of your fairness, and what a pleasure it has been to have had you and your associates as tenants.

I trust your business will continue successful and fully up to your fondest hopes. I remain, with regards,

Very truly yours,
Stewart Johnston.

This unexpected letter from Mr. Johnson, in revealing FRIEND'S qualities as a good tenant, also suggests why FRIEND'S is such a good store to trust with your patronage, and accounts for the constant increase in business which necessitates a change from FRIEND'S present headquarters at Ninth and Penn to larger quarters at 908-910 Penn Avenue (right next door). Our New Store, now under construction, is almost finished . . . it is the first step in FRIEND'S Expansion and Reorganization Program for 1930, and will provide not only for present needs but for future growth as well.

Are You Well And Strong?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the written endorsement of half a million women.

More than 60% bought their first bottle because some friend or neighbor recommended it.

By accurate record, 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it say, "It helped me."

OPAL COVEY
335 Bluff Street,
Excelsior Springs, Missouri

"I was always irregular until I began taking your wonderful medicine. I had tried several other remedies but none of them helped me. Lydia E. Pinkhams' Vegetable Compound has certainly straightened me out. I can go ahead with my work now, do not have to lie down and I am feeling fine. I have only taken two bottles, and I am now on the third. I believe the Vegetable Compound is a fine medicine for women and young girls. I am telling my girl friends about it for I feel that it will help them as it did me."—Opal Covey.

MRS. L. E. ALLAN
R. F. D. No. 1,
Pomona, Kansas

"I was weak, rundown and tired all the time. Some days I would get my work done, other days I did not. My husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after we read an advertisement about it in Comfort. Now I get my work all done by 8.30 or 9 o'clock almost every morning and I enjoy doing it more too. My nerves are more steady and it has helped to build up my body before my baby came. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and if any woman cares to write I will try to answer her letter."—Mrs. L. E. Allan.

MRS. PAULINA PASCUZZI
316 Tremont Avenue,
East Orange, New Jersey

"I never had any appetite and I could not sleep well, and I was irregular and often suffered from headaches because of my age. I read about the Pinkham Medicines in a booklet which was left at my door, and so I took eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine. I feel stronger in every way now. I have gained in weight and am not nearly so nervous and can do my housework without getting too tired."—Mrs. Paulina Pascuzzi.

EDNA SLURAFF
1129 Daly Street,
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"I was completely rundown from nursing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and I took four bottles with very good results. This medicine has helped me in every way. My nerves are better, my appetite is good, I sleep well, and am able to work every day. I have been a nurse for twenty years without losing a patient, I am proud to say. I will continue to recommend the Lydia E. Pinkham products at any time and you may use my name. I will answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Edna Sluraff.

—Now you can Carry your medicine with you!

For the convenience of busy women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now sold in tablet form. These tablets are chocolate coated, easy to swallow and are just as effective as the liquid Compound. Each package contains 70 tablets or 35 doses, the same number of doses contained in a bottle of liquid medicine. Slip a package into your handbag. Take your medicine regularly, wherever you are—shopping, traveling, at the theater, or at your desk in the office.

WIDOW SEEKS HOUSE SEAT

CISCO, Tex., April 25. (AP.)—Acquiescing to the persuasion of friends, Mrs. Robert Quincy Lee, 47, is a candidate for representative from the Seventeenth Texas District in Congress, to fill the unexpired term of her late husband.

A personal campaign will not be made by Mrs. Lee, who said pressing engagements made it necessary for her to return to Washington. Her campaign, she explained, would be left in the hands of friends.

Mrs. Lee will have at least one opponent, former Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, of Abilene, also having announced for the race. Congressman Lee succeeded Blanton two years ago when he became a candidate for a seat in the Senate instead of running for re-election to the House of Representatives.

V. Earl Earp, city attorney of Sweetwater, also had announced his candidacy but decided to support Mrs. Lee in the special election to name her husband's successor, and then seek the office in the next regular election.

Both Mrs. Lee and Blanton are Democrats.

MOVES TO HALT STEEL MERGER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 25.—A petition was filed in Common Pleas Court late today by attorneys for C. S. Eaton, of Cleveland, asking for an injunction to restrain officers of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company from selling property and assets to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Depositions in the case will be taken next Monday in Cleveland.

Requests that they be paid cash for their holdings instead of stock of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were filed with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company by a number of shareholders. Under Ohio law, the right to demand cash expires April 28, and in case the amount cannot be agreed upon, the courts must determine the cash value.

SLAYER URGES EXECUTION

RENO, Nev., April 25.—(AP.)—R. H. White, 42, a gambler, told his attorneys he would "rather take the gas," in the new lethal chamber at the Nevada Penitentiary than spend the rest of his life in prison and instructed them not to ask the State Board of Pardons for a commutation of the death sentence.

Judge I. O. Hawkins, of Winnemucca, within a few days will set the date for the execution and county authorities said the gambler probably would be executed next month.

White, who was convicted of the murder of Louis Lavell, another gambler, at Elko last year, will be the third man to enter the lethal chamber at the penitentiary to pay the extreme penalty for murder.

The "gas house" which was completed recently in a square building about 20 feet in dimension and 10 feet high. The structure is divided into four rooms. POSTOFFICE PLANS AGAIN CHANGED

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

By WILLIAM PFARR

Walter Winchell, who comes to town tomorrow to speak at the Amen Corner banquet, should be interested in this: George Block telephoned from Pittsburgh yesterday to his sister in New York and learned that things had been happening in their apartment house. One of the tenants was circulating a petition which demanded that the landlord silence "that darned piano player on the fifth floor." The piano player happens to be Rudolph Friml.

Andy Park, the new district attorney, is one of the youngest ever to hold that office. He is in his early forties, but could pass for 38. He is a bachelor and makes his home with his two sisters on the North Side. He has a summer home back of North Park.

He likes to hunt, has several hunting dogs, which he shows off to visitors, and a private shooting range at his summer home. In wealth he is no better nor worse off than most of us.

He is a graduate of Westminster College (1909) and Pitt law school. For three years, after his graduation, he coached athletics at Westminster. During the war he was in the Three Hundred and Sixty-sixth Field Artillery. Lawyers generally agree he is a good prosecutor.

We don't know anything about Chinatown, although we have been reading of its dangers for years. On the few necessary trips we have made through Pittsburgh's Chinatown, which is along Second and Third avenues above Grant street, the only danger we could see was in being hit by a truck driven by a native Pittsburgher.

The same goes for Wylie avenue, with which we are better acquainted. We have never seen a Negro go out of his way to quarrel with a white man up there, although we have seen lots of whites quarreling with each other.

At least once every six months we hear the story, and probably it is true. The illiterate proprietor of an East End speakeasy hangs the bad checks he cashes on the walls. One has been there for some years. It bears the faked signature of John D. Pennington. The proprietor still doesn't know that somebody borrowed Mr. Pennington's name and that Mr. Pennington is the prohibition administrator.

Apropos of the celebration next July of the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the defeat of Gen. Braddock, there is a painting of Capt. Robert Orme by John Singleton Copley in the Old Masters Exhibition at Carnegie Institute. Capt. Orme was Gen. Braddock's side-de-camp in the attack on Fort Duquesne in 1755. He was severely wounded and returned to England. At the command of the Prince of Wales, later George IV, he wrote an account of the famous campaign which is now in the British Museum. There is also a portrait of Capt. Orme by Sir Joshua Reynolds now in the National Gallery at London.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 25.

Brothers, we are riding mighty, mighty high in this country. Our most annoying problem is, "Which car will I use today?"

"Isn't that static frightful?"

We are just sitting on top of the world. For every automobile we furnish an accident. For every radio sold we put on two murders. Three robberies to every bathtub installed, building two golf courses to every church.

Our bootleggers have manicures, and our farmers have mortgages. Our courts are full, our jails are full, our politicians are full.

If we can't house a prisoner we burn him up. Truly Rome never saw such prosperity.

"We'll tell the cockeyed world, we are going—somewhere."

Yours,
WILL.

Ken Brings Tom Corbett To Jeanette's Shop

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ardeth Carroll, who rooms in her Aunt Stella's boarding house, is being wooed by Neil Burke. While out motoring with Neil, Ardeth sees Ken Gleason. Ardeth has never been introduced to Gleason and the two just gaze at each other. Neil becomes jealous. Later Neil asks Ardeth to marry him, but she refuses. Ardeth goes to work for Jeanette Parker in a new specialty shop. There Jeanette introduces Ardeth to Gleason. The two new friends go on a Sunday outing together to a houseboat owned by Gleason. Ken explains that he is employed by Jeanette's father. They return to the city after a happy day. Ardeth hopes to see Ken soon, but she is disappointed. Ardeth is surprised when she meets Ken one evening after leaving the shop. They have dinner together. After driving Ardeth home Ken says he could not stay away from her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

Where this blind love for Ken was leading her, Ardeth did not stop to consider. Later, when she looked back upon this time in memory, it seemed impossible that she could have been so indifferent to the future.

She was in a trance of happiness. Nothing was very real these days, save Ken. She went about in a dream which took no note of the things which had once grated on her. Aunt Stel's nagging—Bet's petty spite—these held no weight. Even Neil had become one of the shadowy people melting into her background when she was not with Ken.

Afterwards, Ardeth wondered if it was not some instictive fear of the future which kept her thoughts from crystalizing into practical plans—some subtle sense of trouble which makes the dreamer persist in the dream because waking means facing unpleasant reality.

Jeanette's little shop was doubly dear to Ardeth at this time—not only as escape from the shabby Harrison flat, but because it provided a meeting place for Ken and herself.

Rarely a day when Ken did not drop in now, as Jeanette observed to herself with a narrow secretive smile. The smokerie gave him ample excuse.

Many Visitors
Ardeth Recognizes Many Society Women

Jeanette's scheme to turn the backroom into a woman's smoking retreat was proving a bonanza.

Always some one dropping into the shop now for a cup of tea or a cigaret, or for that other excellent reason—merely to see who else was there.

Ardeth grew to know by sight women who had been only names to her in the society section of the Sunday papers. Young matrons and the more sophisticated of the debutantes, for the most part, with always a piquant peppering of men.

From the middle of the forenoon to the closing hour they sauntered in for free tea and expensive cigarets. The backroom breathed always of incense and expensive perfumes, and tinkled with teacups and laughter. It took on the nature of a smart club.

Jeanette, beginning to be bored by the game of tending shop, found new interest in playing hostess. She was generally in the smokerie these days, chatting over the latest bit of gossip or subtly engineering the sale of her latest perfume — powder compact—cigaret case or holder; leaving the care of the outer shop to Ardeth.

Cyril Underhill
Ardeth Dislikes Him From Start

A changing show, passing under the eyes of the slender golden-haired girl watching from behind the glass case. She came to know their individualities . . . Tow-headed Phyllis Hawkins, lisping sophistries with a baby stare. The vacant faced Duvant twins, the one who giggled and the one who drawled "Not ree-ally!" Tall, dark Mary Eastwood whom she liked for a sort of boyish frankness in her manner.

And there was Cyril Underhill . . .

A dark, silky sort of person was Cyril. His features were Eurasian—something of the wariness of the Orient, too, in his long black eyes. One felt instinctively that he had no right to his English name.

Something of feline grace about his tall slim figure which fascinated most women and caused most men to long to punch him.

"He makes me think of secret stairways and daggers and poison cups," said Ardeth to Jeanette on the occasion of his first visit to the store.

Jeanette shrugged and laughed. "Oh Cyril! No one really takes him seriously—but he keeps them entertained." As though in vindication a burst of laughter came from the back room, trailing the Duvant twin's deliciously shocked "Not ree-al-ly!" on its wake.

Cyril Underhill always knew the details of the latest scandal. Standing with one slender white hand trailing over the corner of a Coramandel screen, his heavy lidded eyes looking about at his appreciative feminine audience, he had a way of tossing out pungent footnotes with a bold lightness which robbed them of maliciousness until one came to think them over later.

Even Mary Eastwood laughed at his outrageous wit, dismissing the veiled venom with a careless "Oh, wel'—you know Cyril—".

Cecile especially got piquent enjoyment out of his society. Often he sat beside her on the divan on an afternoon, murmuring in a cynical undertone until Cecile's orange lips parted and her sharp little teeth glistened through.

Only one other person in The Caprice disliked him as did Ardeth. This was Ah Ling, the little Chinese maid. When he addressed these two girls, Cyril's tone changed. It lost the slight suggestion of flattering homage he paid the other woman and took on a shade of appraising patronage.

Other Men
Ken Brings Corbett To the Shop

As Ah Ling, in her leaf-green silk robe, passed the Canton teacups about the smokerie, his hooded gaze followed her. He called her "Dah-ling"—a witticism which brought forth appreciative laughter in the back room and flashing-eyed resentment in the outer shop when Ah Ling held forth to Ardeth.

"The insulting pup!" Ah Ling expressed herself in most unpicturesque Americanese. "I'd like to smash him one for that!"

But not all the men who frequented the smokerie were of the type of Cyril. There was Fred Eastwood, Mary's stout stockbroker husband. And one day Ken brought Tom Corbett. Tom Corbett was a slow-spoken chap, stocky and sandy-haired, the sort of man children and dogs like immediately. When Ken introduced him, Ardeth privately marveled at the strong bond of friendship which had held the two men since their college days. They were exact opposites. Tom was slow where Ken was quick, Ken was sparkling water—Tom, solid earth. Yet there was between them a deep regard, a quiet loyalty which exists between few men and no women.

PITT FILMING PLANT GROWTH

By PENELOPE REDD

The lilies of the field may spin not, but they toil.

Our eyes have seen them. Though their toil be but the graceful motion of growth, probably to the trillium, it is effort as strenuous as earning a livelihood is to the root-free human.

Norman McClintock, photo-naturalist at the University of Pittsburgh, already distinguished as one of the most eminent naturalists, is the man who has made it possible for human beings to see the entire growth of a plant.

Penelope Redd

Stimulated by the sporadic attempts at stunt, slow-motion pictures of orchids, roses, and other hot-house flowers shown while opening, Mr. McClintock set out to change the occasional stunt into authentic, scientific records. His veritably miraculous results are pictures of exhilarating beauty.

Working entirely without precedent, over a period of two years, Mr. McClintock created all of the scientific tools necessary to achieve his ends. Obstacles such as providing for the differentia-

UPHOLD AWARDS TO FIREMEN

Awards by the Workmen's Compensation Board in 10 cases growing out of the deaths of three firemen and injury to seven others, members of the Stowe Township volunteer fire department, when their truck ran off the road in answering a fire alarm in Heidelberg, December 26, 1928, were sustained by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court. He dismissed appeals from the awards filed by Stowe Township.

Judge Marshall rejected the contention of the township that it should not be charged with the awards because the firemen, members of Hose Company No. 2, were not acting in the course of their employment in responding to call from another municipality.

Pittsburgh's civic center in Schenley Park and the Carnegie Institute were impressive educational features of the city today to Dr. Stephen Kleczkowski, Warsaw, Poland, newspaper correspondent, touring this country.

Dr. Kleczkowski, who arrived in New York a month ago, will remain here until next week. He is studying American business and especially conditions among the Polish descendants in this country for a series of articles in a Warsaw newspaper. Dr. Kleczkowski, who has visited several cities, stated he believed the influence of prohibition has aided his countrymen from the economical and healthful standpoint, though he has failed to note much difference in the rich class.

OVERHAULING GOESBEFORE MEETING

U. S. Officials and Business Men Meet Here Monday; Plan Called Constructive

Plans for the new combined Pittsburgh Postoffice and Federal Building, which many times have been revamped may again undergo a general overhauling, this time to make it conform with traffic conditions.

An entire new set of plans for the building at Seventh avenue and Grant street, prepared by the Better Traffic Committee, will be submitted to a meeting of government representatives, members of various sub-committees on traffic and postal affairs, and citizens at the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce at noon Monday.

The new plans provide for a complete change in the lower floors of the building. They eliminate the railroad tracks, which in previous drawings were to take up the entire Grant street level of the structure.

PROVIDES FOR CARS

In place of the tracks it is proposed to make a storage room for 450 automobiles to accommodate cars of United States Court judges, officials and attaches of the various offices of the United States attorney, other federal bureaus and the postoffice.

Mail trucks will enter the building from a ramp which will have its outlet on the proposed traffic circle at Liberty avenue and Grant street, according to the Better Traffic Committee plans. Railroad sidings would be brought up to the east side of the building. Mail cars would be loaded and unloaded alongside the building under a covered platform.

PLANS FOR FUTURE

Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, said:

"Progress at last has been made in a constructive plan. We have something now that provides for a building looking ahead to 1950 instead of the arrangement previously made which belonged rather to the period of 1850. Provision has been made for the expeditious handling of the mail by allowing proper ingress and egress for the great fleet of trucks which will be necessary in the collection and distribution of the volume of Pittsburgh's mail."

Congressman Stephen G. Porter, architects, representatives of the Postoffice and Treasury Departments and other government officials, it is stated, will attend the meeting.

BEATS WOMEN, KILLS SELF

Mrs. Pearl Fields, 28, and her step-sister, Mrs. Edna Cunning, 41, of Orchard street, Nosa plan, near Ambridge, today were suffering from severe cuts inflicted, according to police, by a hammer wielded by the Fields woman's husband, Earl E. Fields, 37. Fields killed himself after the attack, police said.

Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Cunning who was staying at the Fields home, were preparing supper last night when Fields attacked them with a hammer, police were told. He then went to the attic of his home and, police say, discharged a shotgun at his chest, dying almost instantly.

Both women were removed to a hospital, police said, suffering from hammer wounds of the head and scalp. Mrs. Fields' condition today was serious, according to police.

GAS STATION, STORE SCENES OF HOLDUPS

Women Pedestrians Robbed By Pair in Stolen Car In East End Streets

Bandits who robbed a gasoline station, a store and two women pedestrians last night were being sought by police today.

Paul Wilson, attendant at the service station of the Waverly Oil Works Company, Hamilton avenue and Putnam street, was ordered to throw up his hands by an armed thug. The robber looted the register of $18 and escaped in an automobile.

Three bandits obtained $30 in a holdup on the grocery store of Frank Ley, at 2520 East street. The trio fled in an automobile. The license number of the car was furnished police by a witness.

Using a stolen automobile, two youths robbed two women in Squirrel Hill within 20 minutes late last night.

Their first victim, police said, was Mrs. E. B. Hewitt, of 6432 Darlington road, whose purse containing $10, was stolen while she was walking in Darlington road near Denniston avenue.

Twenty minutes later, the same thugs, police believe, leaped from the machine and snatched the purse of Mrs. C. Eberhardt, of 732 Maryland avenue, near her home. The bag contained $20.

SLEUTHS' ARGOT PUZZLES JUDGE

Magistrate Thomas Jones, of Morals Court, was stumped by testimony given today in the case of Mrs. Mae Wilson, 38, of Buffalo, N. Y., arrested by Plain Clothes Officers Thomas Delehanty and John Slavin in the William Penn Hotel and arraigned as a narcotic addict. The officers said:

"Your honor, this bird is a homing pigeon. She has just lit. She's on the "C." We confiscated a layout in her loft, but she hadn't scored."

Jones looked wise and agreed to turn Mrs. Wilson over to the federal narcotic authorities.

After the case had been dismissed, Miss Pauline Rubin, court stenographer, said she could not understand the testimony. Jones admitted that he didn't, either, so the officers were called back and asked to interpret their remarks.

What they meant to say was that Mrs. Wilson was a wanderer, but did not remain away long. She had just arrived in Pittsburgh. She was an alleged user of cocaine, and the officers confiscated a hypodermic needle and its accessories, but she had not succeeded in procuring the drug.

Injured

MICHAEL LOMAKIN

BOY ATTEMPTS SLIDE, FALLS

On his way home from school, Michael Lomakin, 10, of 62 Ketchum street, Woods Run, saw a workman on the Ohio River boulevard job slide down a rope from a tall derrick at the foot of Forsythe street.

Michael decided to try it, police said.

He climbed the 40-foot ladder to the top of the derrick yesterday. The boy had just grasped the rope and was preparing to slide down when it broke loose. Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: Bertrand Russell, British philosopher and educator, defends mother love against psychologists and psychoanalysis who warn against parental love. Do you think it possible for a parent to express too deeply his love for a child?

MAJOR H. SMITH, general secretary of Western Pennsylvania division of Salvation Army: Some parents are prone to show their love by catering to every whim of the child. This love, if you can call it that, only spoils the boy or girl. Sensible love is different. It endears the parent to the child. Too much sensible love cannot be expressed.

Major Smith

REV. DR. J. ALVIN ORR, pastor: While a parent's love may sometimes be misdirected, the God-given instinct of a woman to love her child, if wisely directed, can never be overdone. Of course, by that I do not mean a child should be pampered to the point that he sees only his own needs and desires.

Rev. Dr. Orr

MISS LOIS GROGAN, secretary: The more the parent loves the child the better that child will turn out. It is my opinion that most of the delinquency among children would be eliminated if only parents would express their love for their children. Children never fail to return one good turn for another.

Miss Grogan

REV. HUGH THOMSON KERR, pastor: To answer this question it is almost necessary to ask Mr. Russell his difinition of love. I believe a person expresses love when he does for another exactly what that other needs. If this is what Mr. Russell means, then I would say that too much of that love cannot be shown.

Rev. Dr. Kerr

MISS VIOLET RANDALL, chief relief worker, Salvation Army of Western Pennsylvania: No, I do not believe it possible for a parent to express too deeply his love for a child. The parent must be careful that the love is sensible, though. Any child needs good care and proper love.

Miss Randall

MISS FLORENCE BEEHRENDT, welfare worker. Psychoanalysts are going a bit far when they attack parental love. It seems to me that they are striking at the very foundation of home-life and all its products. I also think a parent should not grow sentimental about his children.

Color of Wrappings Aid In Meat Sales

If meat products are to be purchased in package form, Pittsburgh housewives have their likes and dislikes as to how it's wrapped, the nature of containers and even to color preferences with red and black not fashionable this season.

This matter of preferences has been given a thorough test by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh. The summary issued today reveals 38 per cent of eight local neighborhoods purchase package meats.

The bureau interviewed 719 homemakers of all classes. The results show men and women have their differences in making purchases. Transparent paper and glass lead in choice of containers for such meats as bacon, pork sausage, chipped beef and sirloin steak. Men gave transparent paper first choice while women preferred glass. Both placed paper boxes second.

White wrappers were preferred by all. For bacon, women ranked red second and the men taking black for second choice. Even the matter of type style has its weight in getting sales, the survey showed. The stylish lines of Bookman type won first place for all packages.

Various squads of boys were chosen to d, the planting under the direction of Thomas Hood and A. J. Brownmiller, teachers of science.

In former years, it has been customary to name trees in honor of certain persons, but this ceremony was not a part of today's program. Principal J. F. Bailey intends to have a number of other trees also planted on the school ground.

Vibrenum are especially useful, it was stated, in protecting the corners of lawns and today's plantings were made principally with that end in view.

tion between daylight and the light necessary for photography, arranging the camera to work faithfully unattended, and other minutiae necessary to success were apprehended and overcome.

Mr. McClintock was faced with the problem of moving wild flowers where they would be protected from the wind and other extraneous elements affecting motion, yet retain a habitat approximating the natural.

First of all he devised a digging contrivance to lift up the colonies without disturbing either roots or surface. Then he established a laboratory in the conservatory in Schenley Park.

SYMPATHETIC AID

There Mr. McClintock met with sympathetic hospitality from James Moore, superintendent of parks, and from the staff who gave generously of their facilities.

Within his laboratory Mr. McClintock built a little house, in which to set the stage, without benefit of expensive trappings, for the drama of the flowers' growth.

From botanists, he secured accurate data on the period required for various flowers and trees to culminate in bloom. Said Mr. McClintock:

"By means of one of the milder forms of mathematics, I ascertained how I might synchronize the motion picture exposures with the flower's rate of growth.

"The time of exposure for each picture has varied from two to 20 minutes. Five or six feet is the average amount of film made in a day and the majority of the subjects have required about two weeks in the making."

That every flower has a motion of its own is readily verified by Mr. McClintock's pictures. The hepatica dances with a rhythm similar to the "Isadorables" of Duncan fame in Schubert's "Scherzo." The blood root has the reticent languor of an Argentina. The trillium's gallant grace remonstrating against death, suggests Pavlowa in the early days when she danced "The Swan."

FLORAL RHAPSODIES

All of these flowers are accompanied by spring beauties swaying lightly, by mayflowers moving in staccato orbits, and by other lesser wildlings.

Mr. McClintock is really in the beginning of his experiments. He says:

"I have seen the flowers stop growing when cold and start growing again when warm. I have pictured oxalis leaves going to early bed and waking for breakfast. I am now experimenting on root systems to complete the record of the cycle of motion in growth.

"The common flowers appeal to me. The life-motion of the dandelion will probably be my next picture, directly I have completed the May apple study.

"Great as has always been my interest in flowers, the actual pictures of their growth have added feeling to that of visual pleasure. When you see a thirstily tired cineraria respond to a cup of water and watch the three-hour cycle in which it lifts its leaves again, or take an oxalis away from the light and observe its contortions that the leaves may adjust themselves to their life-giving sun, one is almost tempted to found a humane society for flowers and trees."

FREE DRIVER IN TWO DEATHS

The story of a fatal trip for ice cream cones, which two young girls were killed when an automobile upset, was told in Criminal Court when William Betz, 17, of Versailles Township, was placed on trial before Judge Joseph P. Swearingen for involuntary manslaughter.

The judge directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, when the commonwealth failed to show negligence or carelessness on the part of Betz. He was charged with causing the deaths of Olive May Logan, 14, of near McKeesport, and Niobe Fischer, 14, of near Irwin, who was the Logan girl's guest last July 1. The trio set out in Betz's car for McKeesport for ice cream when the car upset at a turn in the road, and both girls were killed.

'FLIVVER' HOME OF FUTURE SHOWN

Architect Visits Tech, Tells of Dymaxion, Its Use In Future Construction

Buckminster Fuller, architect extraordinary, brought his Dymaxio house to town yesterday.

Dymaxion, he explains, is to housing what the flivver was to the automobile.

Dymaxion will sell for 50 cents a pound, 6,000 pounds a house. It will be produced in quantity, built in a day, carried, slung and the family blimp, from place to place at will.

Pneumatic floors and cushions, self-opening doors, filtered air, automatically regulated heat, automatic washing, wringing, drying and ironing machines will give daily housekeeping the comfort of a feather bed, the ease of Oriental luxury.

Every housewife a woman of leisure, every child a cherub, every house a tool of man—that's Fuller's maxim.

HOUSE OF TRIANGLES

Instead of building a house of squares kept from collapsing by counter forces, he threw conventions aside and built a house of triangles, naturally rigid.

A mast of three duralumin poles sheathed in metal form the only foundation. From the masthead wires reach down to the corners of the hexagonal deck that is the house. The shape gives the deck six rigid triangles, all centering around the mast.

Inside the mast are a triangular elevator, wires from a Diesel engine that provides heat, light, and power, and pipes to a sewage disposal tank.

The bottom of the deck is 14 feet from the ground—average flood level in low country. This gives room for storage of the family plane, the paternal town car, the filial tricycle and, if the house is big enough, a swimming pool and gymnasium slung from the mast.

FORTY-FOOT MAST

For a one floor, four-room house, a mast 40 feet high, a deck 50 feet in diameter is practical, Fuller says. For a skyscraper, go as far as you like.

Use of specialized materials for each purpose would make the home light, strong, beautiful.

Factories would make them, service stations distribute them.

A new bathroom? Certainly—telephone the service station and trade in the old one. It will be installed, complete, in less than an hour.

The side walls are transparent—but milady has shutters when she needs them. These casein sides are a vacuum, insulating for heat and cold.

PLAY ON ROOF

The roof can be a playground, with shade or not, as the weather may require.

Fifteen minutes work a day would keep this house-of-fifty-years-from-now clean, orderly, attractive.

Photo-electric eyes would open the door as you approached it. Light would be brought in by means of mirrors from the mast. In the evening, energy stored up during the day would automatically light the house—impossible to tell whether your light is sunshine or artificial.

BOOST REWARD IN DROWNING

The family of Mack Olbum, 47, of 5527 Bartlett street, drowned April 18 when a boat capsized while he was on a fishing trip, today increased a reward offered for the recovery of his body from $500 to $1,000.

Mr. Olbum was drowned in the Allegheny River at Althon, near Warren, Pa. Since the accident, the river has been dragged at Althon and divers were engaged to search for the body but without result. Searchers believe that the body probably has drifted down the river.

At the time of his death Mr. Olbum wore a leather lumber jacket and hip boots. He was six feet, two inches tall and weighed 260 pounds.

Fifty Years in Business, Marcus Rauh Retires

Marcus Rauh, retiring from 50 years in active business life in Pittsburgh, declares that if he played a better game of golf he would have laid aside the commercial harness 10 years ago.

Mr. Rauh measures his business career as the struggles of both the boy and man and looks back over 60 years of industry. In 1882 he became associated with his uncle, the late Abraham Lippman, as a jobber in men's wear in a store in Wood street, near Fifth avenue. Later he joined in partnership with his brothers, Enoch, Abraham and Charles under the title of Rauh Bros. & Co., and in the old Arbuckle Block in Liberty avenue began the manufacture of haberdashery when men's shirts were buttoned up the back and the standard price for a first-class garment was 50 cents each, unlaundered.

The making of "boiled shirts" with stiff fronts and buttons in the back continued for years to give the firm a reputation throughout the country, the manufacturing plant in 1903 being moved to 951 Penn avenue until the business was liquidated a few weeks ago when Mr. Rauh, surviving member of the original company decided to retire.

In 1900 the front-button shirt came in and a few years later men's apparel was revolutionized by the coat shirt which prevails today. Attached collars came in from the west about 25 years ago, according to Mr. Rauh, and at the same time the detached cuff went into the discard.

Mr. Rauh, one of the oldest directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in point of service, was president of the Chamber in 1920-22, and for many years has been a trustee of Rodef Shalom Temple. He is also interested in philanthropic work. His advice to young men of today entering on their careers is:

"In these days of gigantic combines the best opportunity for the individual is to specialize in one branch of business and associate yourself with some big, growing concern and work for advancement to an executive position."

Mrs. Fiske Draws Many Society Folks to See 'The Rivals'

Mrs. Fiske and her fellow players last night at the Nixon, where they appeared in Sheridan's "The Rivals," charmed and amused everyone into forgetting that winter had rudely interrupted young spring, and into thinking that, after all, this was a rather nice entertaining world.

Lydia Languish, Mrs. Malaprop, handsome Capt. Absolute were more delightful than ever. And Margery Maude and Mrs. Fiske and Betty Linley looked as if the year were at the spring with their curls and lacy kerchiefs and tiny waists and billowing hoop skirts.

Vying with their gowns in loveliness were those in the audience. Anne King Scott was there with her fiance, John H. Richardson III. Her gown was of deep dahlia chiffon, moulded to the figure and fashioned with a brief train. And her slippers were of the very same shade.

Talking with a group of friends in the lobby was Virginia Frew Wright, one of the buds of the year. And I believe I caught sight of her mother, Mrs. Thruston Wright.

Vivid Gowns

A gown of yellow chiffon, fashioned with a train and trimmed with ruffles of the same material, was worn by Frances Fitzgerald. And draping the bodice was gold panne velvet. Her wrap was of brocaded metal cloth with a collar of beige lapin.

Mrs. Herbert A. May was there, and Betty Scott was in a green crepe gown, and Barbara Ewing in apricot chiffon and a mink wrap.

And Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Jones III, were at the opening of "The Rivals" last night. Mrs. Jones was in black lace.

DELIGHTFUL ENSEMBLES OF RED VERY POPULAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, APRIL 25.—We are constantly seeing red — over here, as any rate. We might say that red and green stand out as the signal colors, and they do. Of course the yellow peril is with us and will no doubt assume larger proportions as the season wanes. Black of course continues to be the staple color, more so than ever it would seem, particularly for evening wear during the early season, and for coats for daytime duty. We have seen some delightful ensembles of red for daytime wear, in most instances the red being of a dark, but not too dark variety. The glaring reds are only affected by women who like their clothes not to speak but to shriek for them. Red combined with black or white or beige is also finding favor on this side of the Atlantic, and is much used to create some interesting ensembles, both of the dressy as well as the gracefully useful semi-tailored variety.

TO SHOW the continued importance of the ensemble we show sketches of a cleverly tailored model. It comes from that most interesting of couturiers, Louiseboulanger, whose clothes stress a happy youthful note that make them eminently desirable. The material used for the semi-tailored suit is a fine woolen in a tomato red with small beige dots. The revers are of a similar fabric reversed in color—red dots on a beige ground. Scalloped set-on pieces form the cuffs and pockets of the jacket and furnish the motif for the appliqued piecing on the skirt just below the edge of the coat. A blouse of red crepe dotted in beige has a draped neckline tied in a loose bow at the front.

TO COMPLETE the tailored ensemble from Louiseboulanger, a seven-eighth length coat is worn. It is of plain red material, rather darker in tone than the dotted material making the suit and shows its relationship by the same scalloped motif used on that garment. On the coat the scallops are used to trim the cuffs and to form the pockets.

Include More Legumes In Your Daily Diet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City; United States Senator of New York

Nature is lavish in supplying foods good for man. Among these foods none has more health giving properties than the legumes. They stand next in importance to the cereals.

Beans, peas and lentils are chief of the legumes. They furnish food elements necessary to growth and energy. Among these are proteins, iron, sugar and starch as well as the mineral salts such as lime and phosphorus.

They are concentrated foods so that they should be eaten in moderation. It is better to take them in combination with certain other foods. Meats and bread are not needed if beans, because they are, contain them. They are highly nutritious in themselves and are as high in protein as meat and bread.

Cheap Food

Beans are a cheap and very good food for persons who engage in manual labor or who work or exercise much out of doors. For sedentary persons or for those who have weak digestion they are not so acceptable. They put unnecessary effort upon the digestive tract.

Beans supplement the deficiency in nitrogen in a strictly vegetable diet. For one who follows this sort of diet they are to be highly recommended.

In cooking dried beans it is well to parboil them for a short time in water to which has been added a little baking soda. Then they should be rinsed in cold water. This process breaks down the waxy coating of the bean, which seals the interior of the bean and prevents the absorption of water. Beans are made more digestible by this method of preparation and by long cooking.

Cook Slowly

Long cooking at a moderate temperature develops the flavor and softens the substance of the legume. Boston baked beans were brought to their fame and perfection by baking at least 12 hours in the slow, brick ovens of the olden times. They have a wonderful flavor and are prepared for digestion.

The soy bean has been only recently introduced into the United States from Japan, and so it is not well known here.

It has a very high protein content, at least 35 per cent, and it also contains 18 to 20 per cent of fat and some sugar. With the exception of lentils, soy beans are the most nutritious of the legumes.

Peas are another excellent vegetable food. Green peas are much more digestible than the dried variety. Split peas have the advantage of having their outer skin removed, which makes them more digestible.

Lentils Popular

Canned peas have a tremendous sale in the United States and they furnish us with a valuable vegetable throughout the year. These used to be adulterated a good deal, but now all varieties of canned peas are of good quality for the most part.

Lentils are ancient food plants, spoken of in the Bible as being used in Egypt, Asia and the Mediterranean countries. As time goes on they are becoming more popular in the United States. They are the most nutritious of all the legumes, except the soy bean, because they have the highest protein content.

Vegetables are of such great value in the diet that every one should make use of them. Their vitamins, their rich contribution of minerals and their low cost make them splendid foods, rich sources of energy and roughage. Include more of them in your diet.

If the sprays are flower-like garnish with a few leaves of parsley. Parsley is thought to be lighter in calories.

In England the dessert problem is often solved by the beautifully baked pancake. The Continental pancake is baked in layer cakes about the size of tea plates. As soon as the cake is done it is placed on a chop plate spread with jelly and set in the warming oven.

The process is repeated until several layers have added strength and height to the pancake tower and then the top layer is dusted with powdered sugar. The dispenser of foods cuts a generous wedge of the pancakes exactly as an ordinary cake would be cut and serves it very hot with coffee for the final course. It's good, too.

Here is a recipe from Old England for Pancake Delicious.

Sift 3 cups of flour, measure, then sift again with 5 teaspoons of baking powder, 3 tablespoons of sugar and 1 teaspoon of salt. Beat the yolk of 2 eggs, add to 2 cups of milk and stir this mixture into the flour mixture and beat smooth.

Add 2 tablespoons of shortening which has been melted and cooled and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the 2 eggs. Bake on a hot griddle.

If the guests insist you to bake Apple Pancakes then sprinkle add a tart apple, pared, cored and chopped, to the batter for Pancakes. Delicious, serve them either hot dressed with syrup or powdered sugar with Russet pork.

BAKED STUFFED SWEET POTATOES. Select 6 medium sized sweet potatoes, scrub them well and bake. Then cut a small piece from each potato and scoop out the inside. Mash the potato with 2 tablespoons butter and the juice of 1 orange. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and mix well. Stir in ½ cup chopped nuts and ½ cup shredded pineapple. Carefully refill the scooped-out shells and top each with a marshmallow which has been cut in small pieces. Brown the potatoes in a hot oven.

LIVER AND BACON. Have 2 pounds calves liver cut in slices ½ inch thick. Cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain and cut the slices in pieces for serving. Sprinkle the pieces with salt and pepper and roll in flour.

In the meantime have a frying pan very hot to cook a dozen slices of bacon. When the bacon has cooked on each side, remove it to one side of the pan and add the liver. Now place the slices of bacon over the liver to prevent POTATO CARAMEL LOAF CAKE—Cream a generous ½ cup of butter with 2 cups of brown sugar and add the beaten yolks of 4 eggs. Add at once a cup of hot mashed potatoes and immediately following add—alternately with ½ cup of milk—2 cups of flour sifted with 2 teaspoons of baking powder, a teaspoon of grated nutmeg, ½ teaspoon of ground cloves and a cup of grated chocolate. Beat the batter thoroughly. Lastly beat in the beaten whites of the 4 eggs, and, if you wish, a cup of chopped pecans or other nuts. This makes a large loaf. Bake in a moderate oven until done or about an hour.

PINEAPPLE IN ASPIC—Heat the juice from a can of pineapple with enough orange juice to make a pint, add ¼ cup sugar and the juice of a lemon. Soak 1½ tablespoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve in the hot juices and strain. Cut the pineapple into small pieces and cover with the aspic. Chill. Serve in cubes on lettuce with mayonnaise blended with whipped cream. Sprinkle chopped nuts over the top.

* * *

CORN FRITTERS—Mix and sift together 1 cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 2-3 cup water, beat smooth, add 2 tablespoons olive oil and fold in 1 egg white, well beaten; then 1 cup well-drained and seasoned canned corn. Drop by spoonfuls into deep, hot fat, drain on brown paper.

PRUNE AND CHEESE SALAD—Soak prunes over night, cook in the same water until tender. Drain and fill with cream cheese moistened with cream, seasoned with salt and pepper, then when smooth ¼ cup each of chopped cherries and walnut meats are added. Arrange 4 prunes on a lettuce leaf and top with mayonnaise.

SNOW PUDDING—Moisten 1 tablespoon gelatin with a little cold water, then dissolve it in 1 cup boiling water. Add 1 cup sugar and 4 tablespoons lemon juice and set aside to harden partially. When the gelatin is quite thick, beat it well with a rotary egg beater, and add the stiffly-beaten whites of 3 eggs. Stir until thoroughly set. The egg yolks may be used in making a custard sauce to serve with the pudding.

* * *

POTATO FLOUR MUFFINS—Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until lemon-colored. Beat in ½ teaspoon salt. Beat the whites of the eggs with 1 tablespoon sugar until

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

Janina Tells Chickie Why Barry Is Leaving

CHAPTER LXIX

Chickie let Barry go.

She moved into her room as one mystified in a dream of terror. Her lips repeated vaguely: "Going away—leaving—" And she began to pick up the clothes scattered on chairs, hanging them carefully in the closet. Numbness entered with frozen quiet on her thought.

After this she sat on her bed, her hands locked. Presently tears welled slowly, trickling to the corners of her mouth. She wiped them off sadly, letting herself in surprise. Why am I sitting here? Crying—and then more quietly: It was all too good to last. Don't cry about it.

She turned out the light, lay staring into the dark aware that just below the surface of this icy calm was a wild tide of anguish waiting. If she let it leap up and throttle her, she held it down.

She was afraid of it. She kept her hands clasped on her heart. She closed her eyes, pretending to sleep.

But suddenly she was sitting upright, almost shaking, saying aloud: God—O my God.

Half tumbling from the bed, she ran into the hall, then cautiously to the front door—opened it, peered up and down the block. It was empty, silent. The air came chill on her bare shoulders. She stood leaning against the door, staring into the street. Its bareness fastened on her mind.

She was alone now. He was gone. Face with its vital eyes, alight hands closing on hers—snatched away in the darkness.

The moment of parting returned to her. His lips so cold, touching hers, his voice shaking: "Better so. Isn't it better this way, Chickie?"

The two of them talking to each other like that! The two that had so loved, so bound their hearts with all those thousand tender bonds.

Memories

She shivered. She pressed her face against the door. The stark finality of the thing that had happened overwhelmed her. It let loose memories in a storm. These beat her. She crept back to the bed, huddling in the blankets, trying to get warm.

The gray waste she had seen in the dream opened and claimed her. Its desolate waters came running to her feet. She watched them in a baffled incredulous terror, looking this way and that. Oh, surely they would not rise, they would not mantle her. A hand would reach out and grab her back.

Even yet, she hoped.

Especially after she had fought off the shock of awakening, after she had stepped into the singing May sun on her way to work next morning, Barry telling her it was over, coming to give her that chill kiss of parting, a lifelong parting. This would not be the tragic finish of their love.

He had not told her where he was going nor when. She had a childish expectance that he would. There would be some link between 'em still.

But as the day wore on he didn't phone; no shadow passed his window. She grew alarmed. She began to vision him closing his desk, stuffing papers into a valise, grabbing up his hat. A moment more it would be too late.

She picked up the phone, gave his number. The stenographer answered: Mr. Dunne isn't in. . . No, we don't expect him back—I believe he left for the south today. . . No, we haven't his mailing address as yet. Leave your number and I'll let you know."

Calls Boarding House

Chickie answered faintly: "I'll call again."

A sudden fury that was cold and yet swept up like a flame seized her—the first fury she had felt against him. He should treat her like this—take the matter into his own hands, push her aside. She went into the dressing room and stood at the window. From here she could see the bay and boats.

And she fancied him sitting on one, fancied his mouth thin and drawn as it had protested: "I gave you my best, didn't I? I gave you the first love I ever knew." Remembering that, she trembled—she let the warmth soften her.

Then she went back to her typewriter and phoned the boarding house. They knew nothing here; the proprietor was out. She'd be in at 5 most likely. But she believed Mr. Dunne has given up his room. It was for rent now.

Her mind emptied of its straining hope.

Janina, seeing her with a fixed, white stare on her face, paused: "Time to go, baby. Shall I get your hat?" Janina did this, brought it to her. "Don't mind, ole thing, if I stroll along with you, do you? Got something to tell you. We'll drop in around the corner and have a cup of tea. How's that?"

Immediately Chickie's face and her heart burned. Janina had something to say. Perhaps?—So she went with her to hear.

"Well, old lady, not going to break your heart over that, are you?"

"Have sense, Chickie. Can't [illegible] for grabbing a chappie as that, can you."

He's still going on the tour, Janina.

Lies to Janina

You don't say. Then why the weeps all day? Why the whispered plotting?

She would have lied to bluff. It took all her control to keep her hands still, her eyes lowered, smarting with a wild pain. Well, his mother is ill. He's going to New York.

Janina smiled. She said quietly: "You shouldn't be so grieved over the health of the lady's mother."

Oh, I'm not. He may be gone a long while.

Very softly: "And you're afraid he isn't coming back, Chickie?"

The cup in Chickie's hand shook and the tea spattered to the table. She laughed at that, became absorbed mopping it up. She wished to jump up, shout at Janina, run from the place.

Well, this is what I've got to say, Ole thing. Don't worry about him. It's the quickest way on earth to lose him. Worry digs the grave for love deeper and swifter than cruelty or sin. If he's gone for good, ole dear, then he is. There's nothing on earth will drag him back. And tears make a sea that love won't sail. I know.

Chickie smiled. "Why all the wisdom today, Janina?"

I've had my eyes opened lately, Chickie. No use to tell you you were making a fool of yourself then, but there is now! Oh, by the way, did you know that Ila's party starts tomorrow? One of Moore's boats on the last lap of its tour is picking them up. They go through the canal to New York, lay over for a week and make their start from there.

Chickie said: "No—; didn't know that."

That knowledge sickened her. He was going with them, of course. Clear enough to see it all now. He loved Ila Moore—brilliant and a poet. Ila Moore loved him.

Goes to Dock

She remembered the radiant flush on Ila's face that evening so long ago when Barry and she had met after an absence of some three years. Remembered Ila awake when she returned from the pool so late that night. Ila wished to talk of him, wished to know if Chickie was a very old friend of his.

But that was the night of glory, the night when the darkness closed about them like an immense black flower, made them one with the holy beauty of the scene, the night he said for the first time, "I love you, Chickie—tell me, oh, I have to know—you love me—say it!" And so she had not talked of him to Ila—too sacred that.

Now into her pain came a dismal misery. Lied to her—cheapened her like that—going away with them after all his hot denials.

All evening Chickie kept saying to herself: "He wouldn't do that, wouldn't lie about it. He's not going."

The next morning she asked Lewis if she might leave at 11 o'clock. She had urgent business.

She had found out the name of the boat; the pier where it was docked. She went there—frightened but driven. Even hurrying to the water, she thought with a bitter sob: "If she should see me! Oh—"

A little crowd waited. Girls with many boxes of candy, arms laden with flowers. Mothers with tears in their eyes. Young men, eager, yet laughing nervously.

Chickie edged close to one of these groups.

Suddenly she heard a soft, happy laugh. Ila Moore in a blue tailored suit, blue hat and a fisher neck-piece brushed so close she could have touched her hand. Basil Arthur, another girl, another man, then Ila's mother.

But Barry wasn't there.

Household Hints

To clean a stained copper kettle, rub well with half a lemon dipped in salt. Wash with clean, tepid water and polish with a dry cloth.

If you do not grind your own coffee you should buy only in small quantities. Unless looked after properly, ground coffee quickly becomes stale.

To keep the crease in men's trousers, turn them inside out and soap down the crease with a piece of dry soap; then turn back to the right side and press, using a damp cloth. The crease will remain for a long time.

Fay King Learns a Lot About Raising Ferns and Cactus in Home

By FAY KING

AT THIS SEASON of the year the annual fever for ferns overtakes me.

The despair and disappointment last year's fern caused me is forgotten and I start afresh with renewed faith in another fern.

One I had was called a Sword fern.

My only worry was it would grow so fast it would be dueling with the neighbors shortly. I figured if it rambled out the window it would make a fine fire-escape.

But it shriveled and died and I didn't get even a good paper knife off it.

My greatest success with a house plant was a cute cactus I brought home. It showed little development but no decline. Alas, it was made of rubber!

But at least I had raised an eraser!

Madge, Back at Farmhouse, Confers With Her Father

I turned to Katherine as my father told me that I had something urgent in my face.

"Has he finished his breakfast?" I asked sternly.

She gave a little laugh as she stepped to the table and inspected the dishes.

"Gratifyingly empty," she said. "I can see that I will be able to go this afternoon if you keep on this note, Madge. I was afraid for a few minutes that I'd have to stay. But I can see you're there with the iron hand whether the velvet glove is in evidence or not."

"There is nothing he ought to do for that hand or that you want to do for him just now?" I went on relentlessly.

"Not a thing for a wonder," she returned. "He's free as air as far as I'm concerned, except that I want him to keep that arm quiet."

"I'll attend to that." I said with a smile at my father. "And dear, I would like to have a little talk with you if I may. Will you excuse us, please, Katherine?"

"Of course," she said with a twinkle in her eye, for she knew what was coming next.

"And you will excuse us, Junior?" I asked gravely for we always have treated him punctiliously as we would an older person since he has been old enough to understand the meaning of social forms.

He wriggled rebelliously. "Aw—say—" he began with drooping jaw. Then as he caught my astonished and reproachful eyes—Katherine had carefully averted her head with the prompt effacement of herself as disciplinarian which she always manages when I am with my boy—he straightened himself with a jerk.

"Of course, mother," he said docilely. "But—" there was a little boy quaver under his voice. "Will it be very long?"

My father touched my arm.

"Couldn't he come with us?" he whispered, and I knew that he was begging my indulgence for the child. A martinet for discipline in his own field he is as weak as my mother-in-law where discipline for his only grandchild is concerned.

"You know mother will not stay away from you a minute longer than is necessary, don't you?" I asked and felt his arm tumultuously give me an affirmative answer.

"But sometimes the minutes have so many seconds," he said plaintively, and then himself echoed our laugh at his little speech.

"Come, Junior," Katherine said briskly. "let's get your work all ready to show your mother. She's going to be your tutor this week, you know."

"Oh!" my son cried in a panic, "I don't want her to see that last spelling lesson until I get it copied over, and as he ran to his desk my father and I slipped out of the door and walked down the hall to the comfortable suite of sitting-room, bedroom and bath which the master of the farmhouse has had fitted up for his own use.

It is the only reminder I have—this suite that once my father was known as "The Quester," the most romantic figure on Broadway.

"Now, dear." My father's voice brought me back from the memory flash of the past. "What is it you wish to say to me?"

Hastily I went over Mrs. Tiger's story of the man, Hallam, of the missing key and of the entrance into The Larches. He agreed with me that we should not have tayed at The Larches, and approved my mother-in-law's plan of keeping the Tigers away from their home and the agent of The Larches for a few hours. Then he put the query I had been dreading.

"Have you any theory concerning this attack, Margaret?"

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Flapper Husbands

Not content with having attained pajamas, vest pockets, short hair, cigarets, economic equality and a vote, a woman is now snatching at man's last prerogative, the right to make a fool of herself.

Robbing the cradle for husbands, according to reports from London is the very latest fad among English women. They are marrying men younger than themselves.

Only striplings under 30 are popular with the Big Butter-and-Egg women, and flapper husbands are all the rage. Middle-aged men who want to be noticed over there will have to go in for face lifts and reducing diets, just as middle-aged women have done over here.

After all these years of mockery letting men set the deadline for her, the Tired Business Woman has rebelled. She is tired of being laid on the shelf at just the time a man is beginning to get his second wind.

She figures that if plump gentlemen with jowls can indulge their taste for youthful baby-doll wives, withered ladies with "waffles" are entitled to blushing young boy friends. Fair enough! Far from apologizing for her weakness, she now considers it quite a feather in her cap to capture a flapper-husband, supply him with monocles, spats and monogrammed cigarets and keep him for a pet.

And now, apparently for every Faust who is eager to barter his comfort and his soul for a few years of imitation young love there is going to be a Faustina!

Of course there is no reason why a woman's heart any more than a man's should curl up like a cat and go to sleep after 40. There is no reason why a lone woman, as well as a lone man, should not seek love and companionship and even romance as long as she lives. But, alas, when you rob the cradle you are seeking it at the wrong counter. You are trying to buy hyacinths at a soda fountain.

If you are longing for something young and noisy and full of pep for something to worry about, wait on and keep amused, why not take a Newfoundland puppy? At least you could give it away or sell it when you found yourself all fagged out from trying to keep it on a lead.

It may give a woman a momentary thrill of triumph to trail up to the altar on the arm of a handsome youth half her age. But nothing makes her feel so OLD as to watch her gay young husband dancing with women half her age, while she sits in a corner and tries to beam benignly upon them.

* * *

Just keeping a young husband AMUSED would be a life sentence at hard labor for any mature woman. Just trying to keep STEP with him would hurt her feet and break her spirit! Just keeping him supplied with toys —saxophones, radios, sport cars and dancing pumps would wear her out!

And WHAT would she do if he ever got the croup—or the colic?

No, dear heart! If you must have love and a renaissance of youth, find it in someone of your own generation, who speaks your own language, and does not make you feel as though you were washed off the Ark by the Flood!

* * *

You can't recapture youth—just by marrying it!

Correct Manners

By MRS CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

'Thank You' Notes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

While visiting in another city and the friends of your hostess entertain in your honor, is it correct for you to write these women upon your return home, thanking them for the courtesies shown you while a guest in their city?

BONNIE.

YES, the thoughtful and mannerly guest will write these pleasant notes of thank-you-for-your-hospitality as soon as possible after she has returned home. And how pleased her hostess will be with her for paying charming attention to these amenities.

Settling an Argument

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A young man I know and I have had an argument which we would like to have you settle. He says that it is proper for an engaged girl to ask a young man to dance, providing she knows him, and that is not proper for him to ask her to dance. Recently we met at a dance and he, not knowing my fiance very well, did not ask me to dance, later giving me the above explanation. I cannot agree with him because I have always expected a man to ask a girl to dance, whether she be single, married, or engaged. My opinion is that the young man should ask the girl in her fiance's presence and then ask h's permission.

We will appreciate it if you will settle this argument for us.

E. B.

YOU are entirely right in your point of view. The gentleman asks the lady to dance with him, and then asks permission, casually, of course, of her fiance—"Do you mind, Mr. Carlyle?"

Artificial Flowers Poor Form

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I attended a funeral recently and among all the flowers there was one artificial design. I have always been under the impression that artificial designs were for decorating graves. What is correct, or does the time of the year make and difference? T. R. I.

SENDING artificial flowers for a funeral is in extremely poor form, and should never, at any time of year, be done. It is far better not to send any flowers.

Fruit Cocktail

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When serving a cocktail (fruit) with a lot of juice, which is proper to use, a spoon or cocktail fork? A. READER.

A SPOON is the most convenient and sensible utensil to use.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, April 26

The sidereal operations for this day point to some sudden and quite unforeseen upheaval or changes of radical importance, which may not be augured as being either welcome or profitable. There may be all sorts of delays and stubborn obstacles to thwart the best-directed efforts, but these should be brought to bear on the most difficult situations. However, those in the employment of others may reap benefits or enjoy some preferments or favors.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of abrupt visitations and possibly unforeseen changes and upheavals which may radically affect the affairs. The best endeavors may be called for to resist stubborn obstacles and disconcerting delays, although employment is under a favorable sway.

A child born on this day may have a changeable and restless nature, inciting it to much and strange adventure, which may prevent its making signal success of its efforts, although it should make some success in the employment of others.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Research in Diseases of the Teeth.

DR. COPELAND

That there are unknown factors underlying diseases of the teeth, besides pyorrhea and tooth decay, is a fact that has been recognized for some time. Now it has been announced that under the direction of the Columbia School of Dental and Oral Surgery, a three-year program of research in tooth decay and diseases of the teeth has been undertaken.

There is to be a co-operative program of the Columbia Dental School with a research group at Yale, under the direction of the Rockefeller Foundation, and with other research workers in this country and Europe. It is hoped that far-reaching results will be obtained in seeking the causes of diseases of the teeth and tooth decay.

For many years the dental and medical professions have recognized the fact that dental diseases, such as pyorrhea and dental decay, have their origin in faults of nutrition and diseases of the system. The old theory was that decay of the teeth was due alone to the acid films which form on the teeth by fermentation of food particles. But many persons were found to be possessed of teeth which never decayed even though these persons never used a toothbrush. Others brush their teeth often and have tooth decay.

It is to be hoped that such a study will bring a discovery of a means to prevent these defects. Tooth decay and pyorrhea are almost as prevalent today as the common cold. Think of the thousands who would be benefited in health by the possession of sound teeth.

From earliest childhood care of the teeth is most important. Infant feeding and continued watchful care of the diet of the growing child are essential for strong teeth in later life.

It is very necessary to know something about the nutritive value of foods in arranging the family diet. It has a direct bearing upon strong bones and sound teeth.

To a great extent dental decay can be avoided by keeping the teeth clean. They should be brushed night and morning with a stiff brush. Food must not be allowed to collect between them.

These spaces afford lodging places for food and for bacteria to develop. Use a quill toothpick or dental floss to remove food particles from between the teeth. A good antiseptic mouth wash is excellent, but warm water and salt make a very good mouth wash.

Diseased teeth and broken teeth are the common cause of infections in the system and such infections may bring on degenerative diseases with undermining of the general health. By regular visits to a dentist once or twice a year disease and decay of the teeth and gums are preventable. In our great cities are splendid hospitals and clinics where the teeth of the poor are attended to free of charge. There is scarcely anyone who cannot have treatment of the teeth.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

this morning was hailed with feminine cries of delight.

"Ken Gleason — come over here and tell me why you didn't show at the Waller dance last night!" Cecile ordered with pretty imperativeness.

And suddenly—as she watched him go into the other room and seat himself beside Cecile, who moved over to make room for him, Ardeth's fool's paradise vanished about her.

She was tremulous—fear, like a little dagger, sticking in her heart.

To be forced to remain out there in the shop while Ken vanished in there . . . In there—that other world, where he belonged and she could not follow. It was like a symbol . . . a warning of what would always be . . .

She moved about the place—keenly aware as she passed the open door, that Ken's sparkling face was turned toward Cecile, and her heart was heavy.

Tears stinging her eyes as she automatically rearranged the trinkets on the case. She was so lost in her own somber thoughts that she jumped nervously at a man's voice sounding beside her.

Tom Corbett had come out and had leaned on the case, his serious brown eyes fastened on her face.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the body posture is correct, the neck—that isthmus between the head and body—is benefitted and assumes more perfect lines. Collar bones disappear entirely when the backbone has the proper inward curve, the head is carried splendidly, and the chest held high. An alert, invigorating carriage keeps the mind vitalized and spirits on tip-toe.

Because of binding their waist lines with corsets women became thoracic breathers, the movements of the chest being noticeable, the breast rising and falling with every respiration. Men breathe more naturally, from the lower part of the chest, the air trickling into the lower cells of the lungs, washing them out, acting favorably upon the blood and all the vital organs. Medical examiners say that women are now breathing more normally, even those who were corset-bound in past years. So something has been accomplished.

Natural blushes are rare. The modern girl hasn't got them and that is why the rouge madness started. With present-day interest in outdoor life, which no doubt will increase as the years roll by, the lovely bona fide color tint of the cheeks may be restored. It is the product of perfect health, active circulation of the blood, and proper functioning of the internal organs of the body. Rosy cheeks are produced by the expansion of the small capillaries directly under the skin surface. If the circulatory system is sluggish or digestion impaired, the capillaries go on strike.

CRITICS TELL ABOUT MRS. FISKE AND HOLLYWOOD FILM PREMIERE

We Laugh at Fighting Bob And Mrs. Malaprop In "The Rivals"

By GEORGE SEIBEL

HAZLITT, greatest of English dramatic critics, wrote that "there is scarcely a more delightful play than 'The Rivals' when it is well acted, or one that goes off more indifferently when it is not." The comedy, or farce, almost requires an all-star cast to keep it going—for Sheridan has sprinkled his wit over every character like the rain that falls on the just and the unjust. Back in 1896 Joseph Jefferson had Julia Marlowe for Lydia and William H. Crane for Sir Anthony, Mrs. John Drew for Malaprop and Nat Goodwin for Sir Lucius. Last night at the Nixon we had Mrs. Fiske and James T. Powers, John Craig and Andrew Mack, all of stellar magnitude, and they demonstrated the truth of Hazlitt's view—if the relish of the audience affords any criterion.

George Seibel

Mrs. Malaprop, as played by Mrs. Fiske, is the joyfullest portrait in the whole gallery. It was so five years ago when "The Rivals" was played here with a cast including four of last night's people. As obtrusively effervescent a Dick Sheridan could have wished, she dominates the scene when ever she is on. She has the true spirit of comedy and the way she makes paper wads of the dictionary and never misses her mark is a lesson to every dramatic aspirant. She is so full of alacrity and admiration.

There was a time when Mrs. Fiske drew upon herself the criticism of being inaudible, but she has turned the tables upon her critics and now makes every word count. Her voice is better than ever.

JEFFERSON'S RIVAL

Next to Mrs. Fiske it is James T. Powers who commands attention in the role that used to be Joe Jefferson's own—Fighting Bob Acres. What a rare and unctuous piece of foolery Jefferson made of Acres! With excellent judgment, Powers, who has been 50 years on the stage and knows the traditions from A to Izzard, does not attempt to give us something different—though he has taken liberties with Jefferson's text just as Jefferson took many with Sheridan.

As the good-humored coward with the ingenious system of profanity, Powers shares honors with Mrs. Fiske—and together they prove that the old play, which is like a pin-cushion stuck full of witty points, has not lost its exuberant and exhilarating qualities.

This gift of playing the comedies of yester-year is becoming almost as rare as the art of reading blank verse, and it is like a whiff of snuff and lavender from a vanished age to watch Powers doing the humor of his personation.

VERY MUCH IMPROVED

Tom Wise was the last Sir Anthony Absolute seen here and Chauncey Olcott the last Sir Lucius O'Trigger. Now these parts are played by John Craig and Andrew Mack—and very much improved.

It's a great advantage to be Irish if you are playing Sir Lucius, and Mack was born in Boston. It helps considerably to read Smollett, and Craig acted as if he knew his Humphrey Clinker.

George Tawde as David and Georgette Cohan as Lucy are also survivals of the previous revival and could hardly be improved upon for having caught the genuine spirit of old comedy.

THE ROMANTIC ROLES

As regards the romantic roles this production is particularly distinguished. Rollo Peters as Jack Absolute and Pedro de Cordoba as Faulkland are handsome devils with debonair ways, just such blades as might have loitered about the North Parade in Sheridan's Bath. And Margery Maude—daughter of Cyril Maude—made an exquisite Lydia Languish while Betty Linley as the simpering Julia also might have stepped out of some canvas by Gainsborough or Reynolds.

In brief, there was not a value lost in the rare old farce—beautifully staged and richly costumed—not a bit overdone either in the humor or the sentiment of that dandified and furbelowed age—and rich in the gusto of two famous roles played by Mrs. Fiske and James T. Powers with all the fine flavor of other days.

Remarque's War Story, As Film, Acclaimed On Premiere

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.

Premiere that intrigued the colony as it has not been intrigued in months motored a small army of ermines and tuxedoes to the sun-arc a-blaze entrance of Carthay Circle Theater 'tother eve. Premiere: "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Even as Hollywood screen openings go, this was superlative. Feverish eagerness pervaded the theater. Banks of critical onlookers stood and sat behind the roped entrance, applauding, cheering, commenting on the arrival of their favorites. The radio "wave" voice after voice. Still cameras and movie cameras clicked the well knowners. Quite a lively bustle.

Erich Remarque

As the title frame flashed upon the screen—Carl Laemmle presents Erich Maria Remarque's "All Quiet On the Western Front"—salvos of applause reverberated through the large theater. The credit title—"Directed by Lewis Milestone"—won thunderous applause. And then, quickly, the list of players. A young list. Lewis Ayers (a newcomer), Ben Alexander, Russell Gleason, William Bakewell, Owen Davis, Jr., Scott Kolk. An older list: Louis Wolheim, "Slim" Summerville, John Wray, Edmund Breese. Then simply a foreward and the picture.

WHY? WHY? WHY?

As the picture unfolded its first scene a curious rigidness froze the audience. They were looking at German soldiers marching to the front. Trained to kill. Subconscious age-worn World War propaganda flamed a bright spark of hatred and, as suddenly, it flicked and died. For the camera moved swiftly into a school room and to Edmund Breese passionately inspiring his youthful listeners to enlist and fight for the Vaterland. And then we see closeups of these ardent youthful listeners and suddenly the picture becomes not German but a tragedy of youth whose ideals of patriotism are to be butchered in horror and wholesale slaughter amid a paralyzing anguish that asks, Why? Why? Why is all this?

John Wray

'TIS A GRIM SOB

The picture "All Quiet on the Western Front" follows Remarque's book. It is a powerful, grim sob that wails to a climax as the fine, stalwart manhood of many countries sacrifice their lives and worse to the international ambitions that fester behind the safety of official doors. It is a picture to see once, twice and more. It preaches no lesson. It offers you a condensation of the world war stripped of tinsel and brass bands. Let yours be the conclusions.

One of the most magnificent scenes in the picture is that between Paul (Lewis Ayres) and the mortally wounded Poiiu (Raymond Griffith), whom he has bayoneted in a hand to hand encounter. The death of the Poiiu. The ironic curl to his lips. The glassy stare of the opened eyes. And Paul, burying his head in his arms at the Poiiu's feet emotionally exhausted.

ARTFUL CONTRAST

Slim Summerville's irritable glumness humorizes many of the scenes. Louis Wolheim's portrayal of Kat, a growly, square shouldered comrade, is superb.

There's artful contrast in the story development. From the deafening, sickening massacreing hell of the charges across no man's land; to the damned huddling of the men in the trenches waiting the call to attack; to the almost pastoral love encounters of Paul, Albert, and Muller with the vivacious French girls; to the crucifying death of Kemmerick in the hospital; to Paul's leave of absence and his aloneness in the home circles that visualize war a brave picnic; to his return to the front lines and his death when a sniper kills him as he reaches over the trench to catch a butterfly that has found its way to that devastated area. And the final scene of the dead marching, with the question in their eyes: Why? Why? Why have we died?

Louis Wolheim

$250,000 TRAINING BENEFITS FADING

UP TO DATE the owners of the major league baseball clubs have fallen far short of getting value received for the quarter of a million dollars they invested in spring training.

Joe McCarthy

After spending an average of $30,000 each to send their teams on long conditioning trips and have them fit for the opening of the pennant season, nearly all of the magnates have been forced to sit by in a helpless state and watch the physical benefits of the preparatory jaunts being wiped out or lessened by the postponement of numerous championship games.

Joe McCarthy, skipper of the Chicago Cubs, is the only manager in the big show who has been able to keep his outfit going through all of its scheduled engagements without a halt. Two other teams have been idle only one day each, but the rest have been hit hard by an unusual number of cancellations due to unfavorable weather conditions. Rain, wet grounds, low temperature and even snow have combined to play havoc with the early programs, and either exposure to such conditions or prolonged idleness when they need work cannot fail to undo much of what the players gained in the South.

OUT OF A total of 80 games scheduled in the two major circuits, no fewer than 29, or a shade over 36 per cent, had to be postponed up to today. Sixteen out of 41 contests were knocked out in the American League, and 13 out of 31 were blocked in the National. The Braves had to call off their opener in Boston three days in succession, and the Pirates and White Sox were twice forced to postpone their home inaugurals.

Only the Cubs are without a postponement. They have played all of their 10 slated games. The Tigers and Cardinals have escaped with one cancellation each. The Giants, Braves and White Sox have been the chief sufferers. Each of these clubs has been kept idle six times. The Yankees and Athletics have loafed five days each; the Phillies, Dodgers, Indians, Red Sox and Senators four each; the Pirates and Browns three each, and the Reds two.

ONE PIRATE WHO feels that he has a particular grievance against the weather man is Percy Jones, the new southpaw pitcher obtained from the Braves in the Grimes deal. Jones was still a short way from condition when he reported, but figured that a week or 10 days of work in good weather would put him in tip-top shape.

Percy Jones

However, he hasn't been able to get it, and in his eagerness to do something to help the Pirate cause he is chafing at the delay. At that he has made some progress, and it won't be long until he is stepping in there.

INCIDENTALLY, JONES' NEW mates on the Pittsburgh club are predicting that the left-hander will fool a number of persons who said they could not see in his major league record any promise that he would be of much assistance to the Bucs. They hold that the Texan is a pitcher of possibilities, in addition to having a personality that makes him a good man on a ball club, and that he ought to find himself once he is settled in the right environment. Jones' most optimistic boosters. The scout declares that the southpaw is a capable flinger whose worth has been generally underestimated, and that time will prove it.

NOT ONLY IS cold and damp weather setting the players back in the matter of physical fitness by depriving them of the work required to keep them on the right edge, or by exposing them to conditions that may harmfully affect valuable throwing arms and running legs, but it is also costing the club owners a pretty penny from another angle.

That is in the matter of gate receipts. The long list of postponements to date means the loss of many of Uncle Sam's good dollars to the moguls. An opening game, for instance, loses more and more of its attractiveness the longer it is deferred.

OTHER POSTPONED EARLY contests never draw nearly so well on later dates, as the general baseball interest that runs high in the spring has lost its edge long before the time of the play-offs. Doubleheaders do not make up the difference.

The money lost in this manner in the early stages of a pennant race never comes back, except in cities that have pennant contenders to keep up interest to the finish.

Ray Conger

prove a thriller.

IN ALL PROBABILITY, the meeting of Ray Conger and Leo Lermond in the one-mile run at Franklin Field in Philadelphia tomorrow will rank with the decathlon and the sprints among the high spots of the 1930 Penn Relays. They clash first today at three-quarters of a mile, but, as both specialize at the mile, the shorter distance is looked upon as being merely a tune-up, and interest centers chiefly in Saturday's event. The withdrawal of Dr. Paul Martin was a disappointment to track fans, as the three-cornered contest had promised to be a history-maker, but even as it stands the test of speed and stamina between Conger and Lermond is likely to

THESE TWO STARS are direct opposites. Lermond started out as a three-miler and worked down to the mile. Conger began with the quarter and the half and worked up to the mile. Lermond is a front-runner in system, and has no hesitation in setting the pace, whereas Conger prefers to hold back and jump his field about 200 yards from the finish.

Each is able to put plenty of kick into his final drive, however, and they appear to be so evenly matched and are likely to let themselves out to such an extent on this occasion that there is a chance of some record figures being approached—perhaps not Paavo Nurmi's world mark of 4:10 2-5, set in Stockholm in 1923, but at least Joie Ray's 4:12, the fastest mile ever run on an American track. Lermond has already done 4:13 and Conger has made the distance in 4:13 1-5. Not much room for choice on past performances.

AS A RESULT of the second successive freeze-out at Forbes Field yesterday, the Reds had to leave town without having played a game here on their first visit of the year. This is the first time in history that the Pirates failed to complete a home opener with the club scheduled. Curtain-raisers here have been postponed, but always the Bucs managed to squeeze in a full inaugural before the series time limit expired.

This year's shift in opponents for what must be classed as the local opener is due to the new schedule arrangement whereby two

SPALDING WINS DASH IN PENN RELAYS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, April 25.—George Spalding, of Morgan College, Baltimore, a comparative nonenity before the games, emerged from the shadows of obscurity this morning to score over a field of the country's finest athletes in the 100-metre dash, opening event on the decathlon program at the Pennsylvania relay games.

George won the dash away off by himself in 11 3-10 seconds, beating Barney Berlinger, the perennial champion, and Dan Chubbock, Connecticut Aggies, with 3-10's of a second to spare.

Clarion Cosh, Georgetown, fourth in the all-around championship last year; Tucker Swartz, Gettysburg; George Welczewski, Boston College; R. L. Todd, Indiana; Llewellyn Parlette, Georgetown, and Walter Hutchinson, Ithaca Physical Education College, finished in the order named.

UTTERBACK WITHDRAWS

Everett Utterback, Pittsburgh, fifth in last year's allaround event, was the only withdrawal among the 10 entries in the decathlon.

The day was overcast and colder than a hound's nose, but the track, primed for the efforts of Simpson, Wildermuth, Conger, Lermond and others, was firm and fast.

Coach Lawson Robertson, Penn's track mentor, announced that after today the decathlon event will be carded only every four years. He cited lack of interest in the competition as the reason for the shelving of this event as a yearly feature. Henceforth, it will be held only in Olympic years.

Spalding, the overnight contender, still was in the lead on points at the conclusion of the broad jump, although Berlinger won the event with a jump of 22 feet 6 inches. Spalding did 22 feet 1 inch to finish second, giving him a total of 1,623.70 points for the two events. Berlinger was second at this juncture with 1,585.65 points. Swartz, of Gettysburg, cleared 21 feet 2 inches to place third in the broad jump, but Chubbock remained in third position in the total points with 1,468.

BERLINGER IN LEAD

Berlinger next jumped the pack and went well in the lead by winning the shotput with a mark of 46 feet even, bettering the local decathlon record by nearly two feet. Spalding faded out with a toss of 37 feet 3½ inches to finish eighth, leaving him 226.40 points behind Berlinger in the total score. At the end of three events the latter had 2,453.60 points and Spalding's total was 2,227.20 points.

By winning three of the first five events, Berlinger piled up a commanding lead in the decathlon. Berlinger won the high jump, broad jump, and shot put.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—I see the Great Shires is out for a week with bruises, but as long as Arthur didn't bite his tongue off he aint really crippled. The big Loud Speaker is behaving pretty good at that. The White Sox have been playing for 10 days now and he hasn't tossed Donie Bush into Lake Michigan yet. This kind of spring weather can let up any time now and there won't be any riots. Thursday it was so cold at our Washington ball grounds, we were using a hot water bag for home plate. I froze my own ice cubes just spitting in my glove.

GENE TRAINING FOR COMEBACK

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—Hype Igoe, writing in today's New York Evening Journal, declares.

If Max Schmeling wins the world heavyweight title from Jack Sharkey next June, Gene Tunney will return to the ring, prepared to dispute the German's right to wear the crown.

Tunney is in training. Not the kind of setting-up business calculated merely to keep his waist down around the prefect 36 mark, but honest-to-goodness training! Were he preparing for a third fight with Jack Dempsey he wouldn't be working harder.

Up on his Greenwich (Conn.) estate, he has rigged out a real gymnasuim, and there, regularly, he whales away at the heavy bag, the fast bag, skips the rope, tugs at the pulleys and twists the revolving bar so that none of the power of his hands and wrists will desert him.

ANTICIPATE DEMAND

Tunney seems to sense what will come it Schmeling should defeat Sharkey and romp off in Europe with the heavyweight title that was his, and he is going to be ready!

Gene knows he will be called upon to go forth and bring back the gilded kelly to America. He can't escape it any more than Jeffries could when Jack Johnson whipped little Tommy Burns and won the first leg on Jim's vacated title.

Also Tunney will come back because it is in the blood. When he left the ring he actually thought that he could shut out of his ears the "roar of the crowd."

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, I didn't do much sightseeing yesterday. Larry was pretty stiff and sore after pitching in the snowstorm and I hung around with him trying to get him thawed out. He's got plenty of nerve, though. He was anxious to stay in there even if he never saw a snowstorm before. He likes to win and he thinks he had the Reds' number again.

I know it's not considered good stuff, but I was around with a couple of the Reds for an hour or so in the evening. I've known Hughey Critz for a number of years and we had quite a fanning bee. You know Hughey is from a little town in Mississippi and he gets a lot of pleasure out of watching the Homestead Grays play. He was wondering if they had a game yesterday as he says he thinks the Grays play more games in a year than the big leaguers.

LIKES THE GRAYS

"Those Grays play by appointment, not by schedule," said Hughey. "I bet all their manager has to do is ring a bell and they are all ready to go."

Well, it was funny to hear some of the birds that live in the South and Californy talk about that game on Wednesday. I heard one of the Reds saying he was trying awful hard to hit a fly to the outfield when the snow was falling so hard. He said he didn't think anybody could get under the ball and he wanted to see what would happen.

Commy was around the clubhouse for a while yesterday, but Adam didn't stay long after the boys from Californy began to come in. Ray Kreme, walked in and began to brag about the baseball weather and that was a sign for Commy to kiss himself out of the

GEORGE FISHER NOW TALK OF LEAGUE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

When you gaze upon George Fisher, baseball's new hitting sensation, you are reminded of Paul Waner or Frank Schulte. The debonaire Cardinal, whose clean-cut batting is the talk of the game, makes you wonder where he gets that wallop. Brother Paul is a man of mystery in this connection and Wildfire Schulte was another clouter who hid his gift in a Beau Brummel physique.

Fisher is in Pittsburgh today with the Redbirds to play his first game at Forbes Field. Naturally he is in the focus of the fans who have read much about him, but who did not get a chance to see him until this afternoon.

SOUTHPAW SLUGGER

The fleet outfielder and long-driver is a picture at the plate. He has a style all his own, which is not appreciated until it is seen. George is one of those southpaw sluggers who stand with their feet close together and with the body pivoted in such a manner as to get the body, arms and wrist into the wallop.

Babe Ruth's stance is somewhat similar, but Ruth uses a long, heavy bat, while the wiry, athletic Fisher depends on a light model which he twirls around with all the gusto of a kid swinging a broomstick. His swing is as clean as the knockout punch of a fast-stepping lightweight fighter and he follows through with a pretty display of speed and he tears around the bases.

"I started out as a pitcher in the Dakota League," said George to the Sun-Telegraph today. "I guess I was a pretty fair hitter for a pitcher, but I was still a pitcher when I reported to Minneapolis of the American Association. I was changed over in that league."

STAR FOR BUFFALO

Fisher was a standout in the International League last year as he played for Buffalo. John McGraw purchased the slugger from the Bisons, but just before the season started he was traded along with Infielder Eddie Farrell to the Cardinals for Wallie Roettger.

Fisher, a Minnesotan, is of German-French extraction. A fine looking boy, George is almost 6 feet tall with a poundage of 170 in street clothes.

Johnson and O'Brien May Exhibit Here

Plans are under way for the staging of a boxing show at Duquesne Garden to be headed by a three-round exhibition between Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, at an early date for the benefit of the Livingston Memorial Hospital, which is trying to raise funds to buy the old Montefiore Hospital building.

Johnson, a visitor in the city yesterday, discussed plans with Frank Sutton, Dr. C. H. Carroll, of the Hospital, and John Jay Burke, who is aiding in the project.

I got a job at the old Edgewood Club, now Pup's Post, and after spending three years there, I went to the Brackenridge Heights Club upon its opening. After a season I was offered the job at Sharon, succeeding Dave Robinson, who went to Detroit, and I've been here these 15 years, excepting only 1917 and 1918, when I decided to help make the world safe for democracy. Believing a man can accomplish more properly dressed, I enlisted in the Forty-eighth Highlanders, at Toronto, Canada, and when I got 'Over There' the Germans decided I needed a rest and stopped my advance on Berlin via a machine gun, a service I appreciated, as it got me back to Blighty, good food, a comfortable bed and bonnie nurses. I was discharged from the army March 19 and returned immediately to my duties at the club. I never have had much time for tournament play; my time is entirely devoted to the service of our members."—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

DUAL BILLS GROW IN MAJOR LEAGUES

COLD WEATHER AGAIN RUINS SCHEDULE

Associated Press.

The present chills and dampness of spring appear to be storing up trouble for major league baseball teams almost as fast as they are piling up double headers. Only one club so far has played all its games, the Chicago Cubs gaining this honor while the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers have escaped serious consequences with but one postponement apiece.

More cold weather yesterday caused the postponement of all but two major league games and neither of these proved very profitable to the club owners. Only about 1,000 St. Louis fans turned out to see the Browns beat Detroit, 12 to 4, while about three time that number appeared at the Cubs' park in Chicago to see the St. Louis Cardinals down the National League champions 9 to 2.

BRAVES IN TROUBLE

For the rest the cold was piling up more grief. The Boston Braves for example seem headed for something like the slaughter of September 1928 when they played four successive double headers against the New York Giants and lost all eight games. The Braves now have five twin bills to play against New York and each one makes the prospects look better for the Giants who have less need to conserve their strength.

The New York Yankees are in similar difficulties. Out of six games scheduled against Philadelphia, they succeeded in playing only the opener in each city. And the Yankees have a rather small staff of starting pitchers ill fitted to endure the rigors of a succession of twin bills while the champion Athletics seem ready to go as far as they like with overtime play.

FISHER STARS

St. Louis gained all the glory in the two games that did survive yesterday. George Fisher, slugging young outfielder, played the leading role as the Cardinals downed the Cubs scoring one run and driving in four with a single, two doubles and a sacrifice in four trips to the plate.

Fred Schulte and Chad Kimsey divided the honors in the Browns' triumph over Detroit. Schulte did most of the heavy hitting while Kimsey stepped in as a relief pitcher when Herman Pontbauser began to wabble and shut out the Tigers without a hit for four innings.

DEMPSEY GOES TO CLINIC

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—The possible return to the ring of Jack Dempsey was postponed by the announcement of the former heavyweight champion in a telegram to friends here today that he would go to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., next Monday or Tuesday for a general overhauling.

Dempsey said in his message that he had canceled his vaudeville and referee engagements. Contrary to earlier reports that he planned to go to California to begin training in a few months for a possible meeting with Max Schmeling German boxer, Dempsey said he was undecided about going to the coast.

Dempsey also said he was undecided whether to accept the invitation of George Getz, Chicago millionaire, to accompany him on a trip to Africa.

The ex-champ planned to remain in the Mayo Clinic for several weeks.

MAXIE ON WAY

HAMBURG, April 25.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling, Germany's heavyweight championship contender, sailed from here today aboard the Hamburg-American liner New York so excited about his coming bout with Jack Sharkey that he forgot his passport.

His mother discovered soon after the vessel sailed that she had in her possession her son's passport. She immediately sent it by air mail to Cherbourg, the New York's new port of call but there is some doubt that it will reach him.

Max said he weighed 187 pounds and expected to drop several pounds in training on shipboard and at his camp.

New Sports Arena Planned for Chicago

CHICAGO, April 25.—(INS.)—William A. Carey, millionaire president of Madison Square Garden; George F. Getz, Chicago sportsman, and Jack Dempsey are planning to build a huge sports arena here as large as the Chicago Stadium, it was reported today from a reliable source.

The proposed structure will be erected on the Lake Front, it is said, and Carey, Getz and Dempsey already have taken steps to either lease or buy air rights from the Illinois Central Railroad, above which the proposed stadium is to be built, it is reported.

The building, if constructed, will be approximately 20 stories with the arena occupying the center of the ground, the mezzanine and second floors. The remainder of the building is to be available for office space. Dempsey will be affiliated with the proposed building as the active promoter of boxing and other sports.

BATTLING GIZZY

Gizzy, buzzsaw mixer of Donora, boxes Bobby Young, of Detroit, and formerly of Duquesne, in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple tonight.

EDDIE BRANNON LANDS KAYO

With only 10 seconds remaining in the final round, Eddie Brannon slugging Negro lightweight of the Hill district, crossed a terrific right to the jaw of Russell Bradford, of Pontiac, Mich., flooring him for the full count and winning by a knockout a fight that was a drab affair from the opening bell until its sudden and unexpected termination in the Mc-Keesport arena last night.

Bradford took the count while resting on one knee and holding his jaw with his left hand. It later was learned that the Michigan fighter had suffered a dislocated jaw. Only two or three clean punches were landed during the entire fight and these came from the right fist of Brannon. Clinches were plentiful and Bradford showed considerable ring knowledge in his ability to tie up Eddie in close.

Brannon did practically all of the leading but was unable to score effectively. Bradford weighed 135 pounds while Brannon came in at 136½.

Chuck Taggert, Butler lightheavyweight, was floored no less than six times in his 10-round bout with Gus Duncan, rugged Clevelander, but was in there punching away at the final bell. Taggert was unable to take a solid blow on the jaw and each time Duncan crossed a short right to that section of the Butler boy's head Chuck went down.

Duncan showed a mean wallop in either mitt, but was unable to put across a punch that would finish Taggert. Duncan scaled 174½, Taggert 170½.

Jackie Wilson, local Negro bantamweight, boxed rings around Jack Benton of Braddock in the second bout, winning all the way. He weighed 119 against 117½ for Benton.

Eddie Hebner, former Clairton amateur lightweight, fighting his second bout as a pro, scored a technical knockout over Jim Frioana, of Charleroi, in the fifth round of the opener, Referee Jack Henderson stopping the bout to save Frioana from unnecessary punishment. Frioana substituted at the last minute for Jackie Griffiths, of Pittsburgh.

DEMAR TO STAY AMATEUR

MONTREAL, April 25.—(INS.)—Marathon champion of the Boston Marathon and the seventh man last Saturday to win back to back, in order to look professional, Clarence DeMar, veteran Canadian distance runner, announced today that he would be content to remain an amateur and not enter the professional ranks. DeMar hopes to compete in the Marathon at the Olympic games at Los Angeles in 1932, he announced.

Shamokin Shooter Wins at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., April 25.—(AP.)—Robert Lowry, of Shamokin, Pa., with the score of 87, won the Class A trophy in the consolation shoot-off of the United North and South tournament here yesterday. The Class B prize went to W. E. Beers, of New Britain, Conn., who had an 88, the highest tally of the event.

E. L. Schofield, of New York, took Class C prize with a 74.

In the consolation handicap, R. L. Bellamy, of Durham, N. C., took the trophy with 78 through five others, ineligible because of having won awards, were ahead of him in scoring. R. C. Coffey, of Prairie City, Ia., had top score with 91, being the only shooter to break into the 90's.

GIZZY-YOUNG BATTLE AT MOOSE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

After weeks of being kicked about and banned by the boxing commission on the ground that it would not be a good fight, the Battling Gizzy-Bobby Young battle is down for decision as the 10-round main event at the Moose Temple tonight.

Young, a former Duquesne lad, has been boxing out of Detroit for several years and recently returned to box Gizzy in a semi-final at Motor Square Garden. Gizzy became ill and could not go on and Ken Hargraves substituted for him and was handed a fine lacing, being knocked down five times in the first two rounds but finishing the bout.

When Gizzy was recovered an attempt was made to rematch the pair for the Moose Temple, but the boxing commission demurred, holding that Young, on what he had shown against Hargraves, figured to be too tough for Gizzy. Gizzy continued to go along winning and finally permission was given for the test tonight, and Gizzy, despite the original ruling against him, will enter the ring the favorite to win. He is rated by the large majority of fans as a much better ringman than the short, thick-set Young.

Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, and Jackie Murray, of the Hill, box the semi-final tonight. Billy Holt, of Canton, O., and Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, are in the second bout and Joe Potts, of Chatleroi, and Roger O'Brien, of Chicago, will box the opener. O'Brien will try to redeem himself for his two-round knockout by Portland in the same ring last Friday night.

Between Rounds

Johnny Mason, of Uniontown, has been suspended by the boxing commission for two months, starting today, for his part in the ring fracas with Jackie Wilson, of the North Side, in the semi-final at Duquesne Gardens, Wednesday night. The match never should have been consummated in the first place, with no one available on Mason and electrical power of how well Wilson can fight and hit.

Because Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, has signed to box Bernie Schwartz, of Du Quoin, in one of the two 10-round bouts at Duquesne Gardens next Wednesday night, he has been dropped off the card at Motor Square Garden the following Monday night in the main bout of which Jackie Rodgers and Bobby Dunn, Shady Hill, middleweights, will clash. Gold was to box Frank Grande in the East End arena. Young Bayne, of Charleroi, and Freddie Mundo, of Bellevue, now will appear in the top 10 rounder at Duquesne tonight.

Dennis Mahoney, of Beaver Falls, has Dan Hardy, 138 pounder, and Billy Holt, of Canton, O., 141, available for bouts. Promoters may reach him by calling Beaver Falls 151-R.

Two more eight bouts will make up the amateur boxing program to be held in the P. A. A. gymnasium tomorrow night.

Dan Bacon, of Duquesne, is back in training and may end his layoff. He will box at 122 pounds in the future instead of at 115, as in the past.

Ken Hargraves, Negro featherweight of New Kensington, who has been in the ambitions for several weeks, because of a cut eye, will be able to resume boxing within a week and will fight under the management of Dan Lubetsky, his former pilot.

Frank W. Stanley, of Wellsville, Pa., has five knock opponents lightweights and Johnny Rodeks, lightweight, under his management and is anxious to book them for bouts.

Johnny Sheridan and Mickey Duffy battle over the 10-round route at Johnstown next Monday night.

Maxie Strub, brave Philly Gentile, of Newark, N. J., who holds a victory over him, in a return bout at Erie tonight. Tiny Phillips and Jimmy Dacus are in another 10-rounder on the card. Sidekick Dias and Joe Rider box in New York. Tonight's contest marks All Star in San Francisco. Champion Battling Battalino beats Ruth Graham, and Pete Petrolle engages Harry Lazar, at Hartford, Conn. Young Stribling, Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney, all of Boston, and Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, are New Orleans boys.

UMPIRES TO MEET

The West Penn Umpires Association will hold an important meeting in the Penn-Lincoln tonight.

Sport Vignettes

The only thing that saved the Pirates from freezing an icy death on opening day was the presence of our Benchwarmer among them . . . . If this fall weather keeps up this spring they'll be bringing the hockey playoffs to Pittsburgh . . . . Or have they completed that series already? . . . . Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, in Pittsburgh yesterday for a visit with his old friend, Frank Sutton, expressed some sound ideas on the boxing game as it is conducted now and as it was in the days when he was one of the headliners . . . . Asked why we didn't have many great hitters in the racket nowadays, that is, fellows among the main bout luminaries who can belt out opponents with any degree of consistency, Li'l Artha smiled his famous smile and said the answer was easy . . . . "They don't know how to hit now," he explained. "All they know is to bounce around the ring and jab and stab and swing in roundhouse fashion . . . . The oldtimers used to step in and drive home their punches straight . . . . And they were set to punch instead of being constantly off hitting balance." . . . . Johnson also is convinced that feinting is a lost art in the ring. "Few men now in the game do any real feinting to draw in their opponents for effective punches," he said . . . . "If you mention feinting, they think you mean to pass out of the picture in a physical way." . . . . Johnson, who knew and still knows his boxing onions, is a great believer in form . . . . He picked Gene Tunney to defeat Jack Dempsey because he figured Dempsey was made to order for Gene's boxing style, and he contrasts other rivals in the same manner . . . . "It's all a matter of style or form," he said, "and it is apparent in advance from a close study of two boxers if one will be cut to pattern for the other in a bout." . . . . Penn State men in Western Pennsylvania are going to rally as they never rallied before for the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Penn State Club, to be held at the Schenley Hotel next Thursday night. Bob Higgins, the new head football coach, will be the principal speaker, and Joe Bedenk, his assistant, also is on the program . . . . The main thought behind the rally is to resurrect the annual Thanksgiving Day game with Pitt at the Stadium. Formerly it was the big game on the local program, but in recent years it has lost much of its prestige . . . . The fine battle the Nittany Lions gave Pitt last fall should serve as a good working basis for the comeback . . . . Don't tell anyone we told you, but Charles (Chilly) Doyle, our baseball writer, is the proud cousin of a couple of two-fisted young amateur boxing champions . . . . They are Robert (Bobby) Burke, aged 15, welterweight champion of Ohio, and Geoffrey (Jeff) Burke, 17, middleweight champion of Eastern Ohio, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Burke, of Youngstown . . . . Both are knockout wallopers. Jeff is a graduate of Rayen High School and Bobby now is a student there . . . . Bobby won his title in a recent tournament in Cleveland and went to Boston for the National finals, but was unable to box there because of a bad hand.—HARRY KECK.

SUN-TELE RACE IS THRILLER

WHEELING, W. Va., April 25.—Favorite II, sporting the silks of Mrs. W. E. Harvey, won the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph purse here at the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon, barely outlasting Patsy H by a head and Old Kickapoo, who closed much ground in the dash down the home stretch by a half-length. The rest of the field was bunched a half-length behind Old Kickapoo.

This was the best race of the afternoon and Favorite II was given a wonderful ride by Jockey J. Guerra, who sent his mount over the five-furlong course in 1:00 2-5 to equal the world record for this distance on half-mile tracks. Buchen, who established this new record here last Saturday, was entered in this race but was an also ran, finishing out of the money.

Jockey Earl (Eddie) Goodrich, leading jockey of the winter season, and tied for the lead in riding winning mounts at the present meeting here, suffered a broken foot in a spill in the fourth race. He was astride Piute, and when the horse lost its footing Goodrich went down under the hoofs of three other horses.

GERMANS WIN IN CUP PLAY

LONDON, April 25.—(AP.)—Dr. Daniel Prenn, German champion, defeated H. G. N. Lee, of Great Britain, 6-4, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2, in the second singles match of the Davis Cup tie between Great Britain and Germany at the Queen's Club today.

The Germans need only one more victory to clinch the series and advance into the second round.

In the first match yesterday, Dr. Heinz Landmann defeated the No. 1 British player, H. W. Austin, 6-3, 8-6, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4. Dr. Prenn was leading Lee in their match when play was suspended yesterday because of lateness of the hour and the match was concluded today.

Great Britain captured the doubles match this afternoon to stay in the running. J. C. Gregory and J. G. Collins easily defeated Walter Dessart and Heinrich Kleinschroth, of Germany, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

SCHOOL NINES RESUME TITLE CHASE TODAY

W. P. I. A. L. IDLE; CITY LOOP BUSY

Victorious in its opening game of the season Tuesday, when Ralston was downed by a 3 to 2 score, the champion Schenley High School baseball team, thrice winner of the City League gonfalon, will continue in its efforts to annex the 1930 title by meeting Allegheny Vocation in a Section I feature battle on today's scholastic diamond program.

Schenley won over Ralston by scoring three runs in the first inning and then holding the Ralstonites safe for the remainder of the seven innings. Vocation dropped its opener to South Hills, but not without a hard fight, and figures to give Schenley a rugged contest today.

In a Section I battle, Ralston will take on Westinghouse on the latter's field. Westinghouse was defeated by Peabody in its opening game Tuesday.

In Section II, Oliver and South Hills meet on the Tunnelites field and Langley, always a threat and factor in the City League chase, takes on Carrick at Carrick.

In the Junior division, in Section I, Gladstone plays Baxter and Peabody meets Arsenal. In Section II, Latimer is at Overbrook.

In an independent game, Wilkinsburg and Shady Side will perform at Shady Side. W. P. I. A. L. teams are idle.

Fisher Bolsters Big Six Swat Advantage

Associated Press.

Due principally to cold weather only one member of baseball's Big Six played a ball game yesterday, but he did plenty. Young George Fisher, of the St. Louis Cardinals, batting leader of the National League, placed himself securely at the top of the Big Six by hitting a single and two doubles in three official trips to the plate as the Cards defeated the Chicago Cubs.

Rogers Hornsby's injured heel kept him from taking part in the struggle. The three hits placed Fisher's batting average at .563 with 18 hits in 32 times at bat. Charley Jamieson, of Cleveland, American League leader, held second place although he did not play. His mark is .533.

The standings:

MILLS DENIES TAMPERING CHARGE

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Tommy Mills, head football coach at Georgetown University, last night made emphatic denial of reports that Georgetown coaches had attempted to persuade Notre Dame freshmen to transfer to the Washington institution.

The charge had been made earlier in the day in an article printed in the South Bend Tribune. The newspaper alleged that two visits had been made to Notre Dame by Georgetown coaches, one in January and one about two weeks ago.

"I emphatically deny that any Georgetown coach has made any attempt whatsoever to influence any Notre Dame freshman to transfer to Georgetown," Mills declared. "My connection as assistant coach at Notre Dame did not terminate until February 1 and at that time I had not selected any men to assist me at Georgetown. I religiously avoided the very thing whith which Georgetown coaches now are charged and my assistants have done likewise."

BOWEN TO TRY NEW EVENT AT RELAYS

By JESS CARVER.

Pete Bowen, captain of Pitt's none too potent track and field team, possessor of the national intercollegiate and national A. A. U. quarter-mile championship, will try a new event this afternoon in Philadelphia, where he is heading the Pitt entries in the annual Penn Relays.

Pete will run in the tough 400 meter hurdle event, which to an old war horse like Pete will mean nothing at all. He figures that as long as he can cover 440 yards as fast as most of 'em, that a few hurdles more or less, mathematically interspersed between the starting line and the finish, will make little or no difference.

Everett Utterback, the Panther all-round Negro star, has withdrawn from the killing decathlon, which, after this year, will be on the Penn program only once in four years. Ed Knoblock, the hurdle star, will run with Capt. Bowen in the 400-meter race.

RELAY TEAM ENTERED

Tomorrow afternoon, the Pitt mile relay team, composed of Bowen, Vitulla, Harris and Monheim, will attempt to take down the class B cup, running against the opposition as furnished by Williams & Mary, Navy, Lafayette, Michigan State, Columbia, North Carolina, Boston College, Cornell, Colgate, Fordham and DePauw.

Geneva College has a quartet entered in the college mile relay event, and Len Friedman, who took second in the javelin throw a year ago, will compete in this event. Capt. Ward will represent Geneva in the broad jump.

Interscholastic entries in the Penn carnival from this district will be confined to the relay quartets of Midland High School and Shady Side Academy.

NET FRAY OFF

The Pitt-Allegheny tennis match, which was to have opened the local collegiate net campaign on the Stadium courts this afternoon, has been called off. Reason—don't be silly!

Coach Guy Halferty will go into a huddle with himself today and select the track and field team which will represent Carnegie Tech in Cleveland against Western Reserve tomorrow.

The Tipoff

If Warren McMillan could be the greatest baseball player in the world he'd like to be a southpaw pitcher for John McGraw.

If Ross Qualley could be the greatest of footballers, he'd like to be a Fullback under Pop Warner.

If Johnny McHarvey could be the best of tennis players, he'd like to beat Bill Tilden before a record crowd at Forest Hills wearing a pair of overalls and a derby hat.

If Dick Guy could be a champion fighter, he'd like to be as rugged as Sgt. Sammy Baker, as clever as Tommy Chenoweth and punch like Jack Dempsey.

If Bill Cooper could be a champion golfer, he'd like to drive like Jones, dress like Farrell and smile like Walter Hagen.

If Lou Geyer could be a swimming immortal, he'd like to snarl like Weissmuller, dive like Louganis and pose like Elbel McNally.

If Chuck Dickson could be a great actor, he'd like to play "The Gambler" like George M. Cohan.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUGS

party. He was laughin' when he went out, because he remembered how he was telling the boys from Sunny Cal to get a set for a real opening day.

Foy Frazier, Bernard Walter and myself have been takin' in the movies a lot with Rocko. There's a kid that knows this town and we're gettin' to like it a lot since he started to drive us around. Rocko says there's a lot more to see and told us to get dolled up for tonight that he was gonna show us all the millionaire residences in McKees Rocks and Woods Run.

ENS DISAPPOINTED

Jool felt tough over not gettin' in the opener, but he didn't have on any grouch like a lot of fellows would have if they got the same kind of a break in the openin' game. He came in the clubhouse yesterday with a lot of good cracks and cheered us all up. I thought he would be shippin' two or three of us to Columbia or Wichita, but I hear now that he will keep most of us all year. Won't that be a break?

I see where Andy Bednar won his first game in the Western League. There's somethin' about that guy and everybody on the squad will be hopin' he gets away fine in that league. You won't get him back in that coal mine if he can help it, and I don't blame him. So long. See you tomorrow.

Babe Ruth Wins Over Stan Williams

WHEELING, W. Va., April 25.—Babe Ruth, Louisville, defeated Stanley Williams, Martins Perry, O., in a fast 10-round bout here last night. Ruth dropped Williams twice in the final round to establish his victory margin.

In the semi-final, scheduled to go six rounds, Ross Fields knocked out Cowboy Martin, of Columbus, O., in the second round.

Football players who have used the shift never again like the set-and-go attack. The shift has the hit and the nuance of the Hungarian gypsy, the verve and elan of the Cossack, the zip and rhythm of the Tiller girls. Along with the forward pass the shift has added a lot to the pageantry and the open phase of the game that has given football such an appeal to the public.

Technically, it gives the ... man the clever chap, the quick-moving athlete with agility, who finesses rather than bruises his way, a chance to play this great game. We at Notre Dame believe in the shift and like it—not to the extent where we tell the other coaches how they shall play the game, but just to the point where we take a lot of pride in it. We are willing to go a long way to preserve the shift even to the extent of losing two or three games next fall, if necessary.

DENVER, Col., April 25.—(AP.)—Using his long reach to advantage, Eddie Mack, Denver lightweight, punched out a decision over Maurice Holtzer, of France, in a 10-round bout last night.

It was a comparatively tame fight, with a little stiff punching.

"YOU KNOW ME, PAL"

In Which We Resume the Popular Series That Art (the Great) Bowers Makes Famous —letters from Art to his pal, Jack...

Old Pal:—

Well, hear I am at last in the Smokey City and now that Grimes has gone I gess I'll be a first stringer. I was talking to Pie Trainor the other day and I was asking him what took him so long to get over his eye trouble. And Pie said that he had to wait for a whole flock of umpires before he could get near the eye doctor. So you can imagine what a bunch of blind men I have to depend upon for honest-to-john strikes this season! I would have pitched the opener but Jewel said he'd rather have me prepare for the tougher games that will be played without snowshoes. Anyhow, I'm still in the Big Leagues. . . .

SANDLOT BASEBALL RACE OPENS TOMORROW

VERONA NINE TO BATTLE UNIVERSAL

By TOM BIRKS

The first sandlot game of the season is carded for tomorrow afternoon. Verona Community always among the leaders in a get-away, will meet Universal at Cribbs Field.

Appropriate ceremony will mark the game. Howard M. Cribbs will throw out the first ball, and with a flag raising scheduled to follow the sandlot season will be on.

Both of the clubs are entered in two leagues, but it will be an exhibition game and will serve to give fandom a line on the makeup of the clubs.

MAKEUP IN DOUBT

Much secrecy has marked the signing of the Community players this season. Fennell and Bright feel that plenty of competition will be on tap in the West Penn League and the material used in workouts to date fits in with the class of former Verona teams.

Then Universal will have something on view for the boys to write home about. Marshall Mc-Keag has not been sleeping and should this brand of weather depart, a large crowd should be on hand for sandlots inaugural.

SMILER GAME OFF

Pleasant Valley Smilers, 1929 City League champion, was also scheduled to commence operations with the North Side Elks providing the opposition. However, Pleasant Valley will favorably compare with any grounds in the city.

WINSETT RELEASED

BOSTON, April 25.—(AP.)—The Red Sox today announced that Outfielder John Winsett, purchased last year from Mobile, had been sent to St. Paul, American Association, on option.

First Solo Flight Gave Him Biggest Thrill, P. Waner Says

PAUL WANER

Pirate outfield star in aviator's outfit at his home Ada Okla. where he took up flying and got his big thrill during the recent off season.

One naturally would suppose that with all the diamond heroes that surround his name Paul Waner, the Pirates outfield star, would have found the biggest thrill of his life in baseball. Take it from Punch Em Paul himself, however, his big moment came when he found himself aloft in the air the only passenger aboard an airplane.

During the past year Brother Paul went in for aviation in a serious way. The little slugger took lessons from a teaching pilot near his Oklahoma home. The teacher noted the diamond star was quite proficient at the controls but when the time comes for a student to take up the ship, fly around and bring it back all by his lonesome, that person is a bit apprehensive.

"I cannot describe the feeling I experienced when I found myself flying around and nobody there but me," recounted the Pirate ace yesterday. Paul said he had every confidence he could make the solo flight, but the feeling of assurance did not lessen the sensation.

The rail fielder and de luxe hitter makes no secret of his love for flying, but in deference to the wishes of Owner Barney Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens he is staying away from planes during the playing season. The Pittsburgh officials prefer to have Paul and the other players stay on the ground.

Poison Paul is the second Pirate to take up aviation in a big way in the last three years. Joe Dawson, the pitcher who retired from the national sport in the middle of the season a year ago after having put in a campaign with the Bucs, was a licensed pilot while a member of the Buccaneer troupe and at present is teaching flying here in Pittsburgh.

Dawson became so deeply and profitably engaged in the flying business that he found he could make more money with his airplane than he could playing baseball.

Waner does not contemplate at this time making flying his life's work when he finishes up as a baseball player, but admits that the prospect looks good to him. He enjoys being in the air, responds to the thrill of the stick and the antics of the machine. He plans to do more flying during the next off season. CHARLES J. HOYLE.

BROWN HURLER SUSPENDED

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—George Blaeholder, pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, who won 14 and lost 15 games last season, today became automatically suspended from baseball because of failure to sign his 1930 contract within 10 days after the opening of the season. Blaeholder has not yet come to terms with the Browns, holding out for $7,500, while the club has offered him $5,000. To be reinstated he must apply to Commissioner Landis. The pitcher is at his home in California.

clubs were booked to play here for two days each on the first four days of the season. Previously the opening club never was scheduled for fewer than three games. The Bucs must now play their first full home game with the Cardinals instead of with the Reds. The Rosmen took two straight from the Missourians in St. Louis but the fact that the Redbirds have beaten the champion Cubs four times in seven games to date indicates that they will prove troublesome.

Johnny Dawson

WHILE GOLF FOLLOWERS throughout the country are discussing his case and arguing as to what he ought to do about the action of the U. S. G. A. in barring him as an amateur because he sells goods connected with that sport for a livelihood, Johnny Dawson quietly settles the whole matter by announcing that he will never again play in tournament competition. He says he asks only that the U. S. G. A. acquaint itself with the facts, and that if the officials of that body look into the golors question they will find that he could make twice as much money in any other business. He intends to stick to the sports goods business only because he likes it as an occupation, he explains. Dawson adds that he has never intended to compete in golf as a professional and never will, as he is not attracted by that sort of golf. Neither will he ask for reinstatement as an amateur, he says, as he finds that the only thing left for him to do is to retire.

A NEW MEMBER of the Cardinals on their present visit to Pittsburgh is the hitting sensation of the season this spring. Right Fielder George Fisher. It was expected that he would speedily slump after making eight hits in nine times at bat in the first two games of the season, but he has continued to slug the ball at such a rate that he was sporting the fat average of .563 up to today, having batted safely 18 times in 32 trips to the plate in nine games.

Fisher was stopped by the Pirate pitchers, Remy Kremer and Erwin Brame holding him to one hit in seven times at bat in two games, but the Cub slabmen, the only others he has faced, proved very much to his liking in his seven other games and he spanked them for an average of .680. Fisher, obtained with Eddie Farrell by the Cards from the Giants in exchange for Walle Roettger, was with Buffalo last year. He is 28 years old and was up once before, having been tried by Washington in 1924. The Senators traded him back to the minors for Wid Matthews, and two months later gave Matthews and a roll of cash to Sacramento for Earl McNeely.

MRS. BELMONT SPURS WOMEN

PARIS, April 25.—(AP.)—Declaring that the time was past when men could govern women, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont told a group of American feminists that the refusal of the United States to sign the nationality convention drafted at the recent Hague conference proved just that.

Mrs. Belmont entertained the feminists, just returned from The Hague, at a tea and told them women no longer would abide by man-made laws which deviated in the slightest degree from sex equality.

She added that men of Europe had lost their dominion over the working classes, had lost their slaves and their serfs, but still dominated their women, whereas the women of the United States had nothing in common with their sisters in Europe. She called upon them to continue to oppose the nationality code adopted at The Hague.

Doris Stevens and other conspicuous leaders of the feminist movement were present.

The women fought the nationality code on the ground that it was discriminatory. They hold that a married woman's nationality should not be determined by that of her husband.

ARCHDUKE HELD IN GEM SALE

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—A member of the ancient line of Hapsburgs, one-time rulers of most of Europe, was finger-printed and "mugged" by the police here, and then arraigned in General Sessions Court on two indictments, charging him with first degree grand larceny in connection with the sale of the $400,000 Napoleon necklace.

Carrying a leather coat on his arm, Archduke Leopold of Austria, stood in silence while his lawyer, Ferdinand Pecora, entered a plea of not guilty for him, obtained an adjournment until May 2, and arranged for $7,500 bail.

Then the archduke posed for photographers and left the court building.

Bench warrants also were issued for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend, who were indicted with the archduke and who are understood to have left the country.

Leopold was alleged to have received a commission on the sale of the necklace—the property of his aunt, the Archduchess Maria Theresa of Austria—to a Fifth avenue jeweler by Townsend for $400,000.

RUSS, CHINESE CLASH ON RIVER

HARBIN, Manchuria, April 25.—(AP.)—The Sungari River, principal inland waterway in North Manchuria, has become the storm center of a bitter controversy between the Nanking government and Moscow.

Russia wants to navigate the stream under the same protection that other foreign powers now enjoy on the Yangtse River in China proper. Nanking is opposed on the grounds that sooner or later all foreign rights to navigate China's inland waters will be abolished along with the much talked of extraterritoriality.

Russia is just as interested in developing the country as the Chinese, since the Sungari joins the Amur River which forms part of the Manchurian and Siberian boundary line.

To reach a seaport, products from North Manchuria must be taken down the Sungari and then by the Amur to Nikolaievsk at the mouth of the latter stream. Here the Manchurian farmer will be provided with a world contact, enabling him to export his products to all ports in China and to foreign markets.

At present, Chinese vessels are permitted to ply only on the Chinese side of the Amur and then no further than Habarovsk, where the stream ceases to be a part of the boundary.

The Russians have taken the stand that if China is not willing to permit them the use of the Sungari, they are in a position to halt development in North Manchuria by refusing to grant the Chinese permission to navigate the lower Amur.

Bids to Be Asked On Water Mains

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 25.—Bids will be taken May 27 by the Mahoning Valley Sanitary District for construction of twin force mains from the new Meander basin, six miles west of Youngstown, to Niles, Trumbull County, to supply Niles with domestic water. The work includes construction of two 20-inch cast iron force mains, one 1.4 miles long and the other 2.6 miles.

The district plans to take bids this spring on $3,000,000 bonds, to complete the project.

CHICAGO PLANS WAR ON GANGS

CHICAGO, April 25.—(INS.)—New plans whereby Chicago aims to drive its notorious gangsters from the city were announced today by the Chicago Crime Commission.

Following publication of a "Who's Who" among the leading hoodlums, which was accompanied by a demand on authorities to harrass the 28 gunmen listed, a group of prominent citizens, directors of the commission, met yesterday and indorsed the organization's new campaign.

From time to time, it was explained, the list of undesirable gangsters will be augmented with names of other underworld characters who, in the opinion of the Crime Commission, should be driven from Chicago.

Col. Henry B. Chamberlin, operating director of the commission, declared the group will check up on the authorities and publish what, if anything, they have done against the undesirables.

Deportation proceedings will be instituted against many of the gangsters, it was announced.

LIFE INSURANCE SALES GAIN

HARTFORD, April 25.—Sales of ordinary life insurance continue to show substantial gains in the United States. At the close of the first quarter the country as a whole had paid for a volume of new ordinary insurance 6 per cent larger than in the same period last year. This gain was not due to enormous increases in certain localities, but is based on a generally distributed increase in volume.

March showed an average increase of 5 per cent for the country as a whole. No section fell below the volume produced in March, 1929.

Canadian sales of life insurance in March increased 2 per cent over sales in March, 1929. In January and February, the volume of new life insurance paid for was below that of the same months in 1929; despite the increase in March, sales for the first quarter show a 4 per cent decrease when compared to the same period in 1929.

The A. T. & T., he said, will spend this year more than $700,000,000 for new construction in the United States. 'JAKE' VICTIMS INCURABLE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 25.—(AP.)—Officials of the state health department laboratory said today that physicians doubt that some of the victims of a strange paralysis-like malady believed caused by drinking jamaica ginger ever will recover.

No complete recoveries have been reported among the more than 400 persons in Oklahoma afflicted with the strange malady. The exact cause of the epidemic has not been determined.

The state laboratory has abandoned chemical tests and now is experimenting with animals, but has nothing to report on the experiments.

DRUGGISTS ASK NEW DOPE LAW

By KENNETH CLARK

WASHINGTON, April 25.—America's organized druggists appealed to the Senate to complete the work of the House and pass promptly the Porter Narcotics Bureau bill.

Hailing the measure as a great advance in the war against dope, the National Association of Retail Druggists, in a letter to the Senate finance committee, made public today declared:

"On behalf of the more than 50,000 retail druggists composing the national and affiliated state and local pharmaceutical associations, the undersigned executive, legislative and legal representatives respectfully endorse the Porter Narcotics Bureau bill."

The letter was signed by Thomas Roach, president; Samuel C. Henry, secretary; Julius H. Reimenschneider, chairman, executive committee; Frank T. Stone, chairman, legislative committee; and E. C. Brokmeyer, general attorney.

Not only does the bill open the way for more vigorous and enlightened enforcement of the anti-dope laws by divorcing narcotics from prohibition, but it strikes at the source of the illicit dope supply and provides a scientific method for determining the medical needs of the country for drugs, it was pointed out.

Government records show that the druggists, although they sell vast amounts annually of the legal drug supplies, are charged with less than one per cent of all the violations of the narcotic laws.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Spotty

Lone Star Holds Steady

STOCKS SPOTTY GREATER PART OF SESSION

Offerings Generally Well Absorbed—Steel, Motors And Rails Show Heaviness

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—The stock market presented a rather spotty appearance during the greater part of today's session, but major speculative activity seemed to be on the upside. Some selling came into the market at the opening as a result of the large increase in brokers' loans and the restriction in the volume of Federal Reserve credit outstanding, but offerings generally were well absorbed.

Heaviness was most apparent in the motor, motor accessory, steel and railroad groups, current earnings of which have been making unfavorable comparisons with a year ago. Bullish activity was most pronounced in the amusement, public utilities, oils and a few high priced specialties.

EARNINGS REPORTED

Corporation earnings for the first quarter made up a large part of the day's business news. American Bank Note, Kelvinator, Bush Terminal, Chicago Great Western and Maine Central showed increased earnings per share over the first quarter of last year, while Bethlehem Steel, Michigan Steel, Independent Oil and Gas, Congress Cigar, Union Carbide, St. Louis, San Francisco and Pere Marquette made unfavorable comparisons.

Foreign buying of copper continues in fair volume but the domestic demand is quiet.

While trading in stocks remains fairly heavy, much of it is believed to be of a professional character. Operations for the advance are being conducted in a number of special stocks, earnings of which apparently had not been affected by the stock market crash and the subsequent business depression.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, but again dropped to 3½.

STOCKS YIELD

Ingersoll Rand broke nearly 7 points. Auburn Auto and United Aircraft sold nearly 5 points lower and Cutler Hammer, Electric Auto Lite, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Detroit Edison, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Advance Rumely preferred and Canada Dry yielded 2 to 3 points. Congress Cigar, National Cash Register and Republic Steel (new) touched new low levels for the year.

Vanadium Steel soared 9 points and Worthington Pump ran up 8 to a new high at 162. Eastman Kodak was marked up more than 8 points to a new top at 254. J. I. Case sold 7¾ points higher and A. M. Byers advanced 6 to a new top above 111. American Tobacco B, Public Service of New Jersey and Brooklyn Union Gas each advanced 5 points or more. Consolidated Gas, Shubert Theaters, Foster Wheeler, Fox Film, Houston Oil, Standard Oils of California and New York, Gimbel Bros. preferred, Columbia Graphophone, Vick Chemical and Pathe A attained new 1930 peak prices.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 25.—General selling on account of Kansas-Nebraska rains and Liverpool quotations lower than expected brought about early downturns of Chicago wheat prices today. Weakness of Liverpool was ascribed to offerings of new wheat by Indian and to bearish official estimates of India's crop. Opening ¾ to 1⅝c lower, Chicago wheat afterward underwent an additional drop. Corn, oats and provisions were also weak, with corn starting ½ to 1c down, and subsequently recovering but little.

Big trading formed the rule here much of the time in the wheat pit today. Heavy speculative selling of the July delivery was an outstanding feature, but there was also large changing of ownership in all months. Market effects of improved moisture conditions in domestic winter wheat territory were meanwhile being emphasized by reports that rainfalls in spring wheat states and in Canada had insured all spring-sown grain a sufficient supply of moisture for the present, with domestic seeding 70 to 80 per cent completed.

On the downward swings of wheat prices today, buying support came largely from previous sellers who were in a position to collect profits. According to some observers, very little new investment buying was apparent except from dislodging of standing orders from various sources to purchase on declines to certain fixed levels.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Marten & Co.:

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 25.—The recent selling movement on the curb market slackened today and the market turned upward under rapid bidding up of several industrial specialties and renewed demand for leading utilities. The oil shares, however, turned sluggish and the market as a whole remained rather spotty.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Union Officials Deny Treating Idle Unfairly

By B. C. FORBES

DO LABOR UNIONS impose too heavy penalties upon members who lose their jobs and keep up payments to the Unions and later have a chance to get a union job but haven't enough money to pay up all back dues and assessments for a free installation fee? Such is the charge made by a member of the Bricklayers and Plasterers International Union of America.

Replies have just been received.

THE WORKMAN CLAIMS that it is unfair for a union to "cross a member off the book at the time he needs help most" after paying as high as $5 to $6 per month dues and extra assessments. He adds: "The Union will not allow him to work again unless he pays a new installation fee, which is for bricklayers $105 and assessments. This robs many poor men of their bread and butter. The government should remedy this."

PRESIDENT GREEN in his reply states:

"The relation between a national union and the American Federation of Labor is purely voluntary. There is no power vested in the American Federation of Labor to enforce or compel action on the part of a national union or arbitrarily require a national union to conform to any course of action.

"Each national and international union makes its own provision under its constitution and by-laws for its members who are out of work, who become ill, who die, who through age or disability are unable to work. In a majority of instances the local unions of the national and international unions make additional provision for their members.

"In 1928 the national and international unions paid out in such benefits nearly $53,000,000. This total does not include benefits paid out directly by the 27,000 local unions chartered by the national and international unions."

Green recommended communicating with the bricklayers union. This was done.

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT Harry C. Bates, replying, says in part:

"Our constitution and by-laws are always open for inspection. Our constitution provides for the payment of certain dues, and also sets forth certain rules in regard to suspension from membership for non-payment of dues. Any member taking up membership in the union subscribes to the constitution and by-laws, and naturally if he fails to pay his dues in the time provided for by the constitution he is suspended and dropped from the organization, the same as he would be dropped from any club, society or lodge, upon refusal to pay dues.

"No member of the organization need ever be suspended or dropped on account of inability to secure work, as each local union will advance, to a local member, upon a request being made, for same, a loan sufficient to pay his dues until he is able to secure employment.

"The dues of the international union are $1.50 per month per member. Any member who reaches 65 and who has 20 years of continuous standing, and who, on account of old age or sickness has no visible means of support, is paid $28 per month as long as he lives.

"Also, all members who have 10 years' continuous standing and are injured while actively engaged at the trade are paid $28 per month for the balance of their lives.

"The I. U. also pays to the regularly designated beneficiary of a deceased member a mortuary benefit ranging from $50 to $300, subject to continuous standing for a period of six months to 10 years. The I. U. has paid out in mortuary benefits and relief to members and their families $14,622,000 since 1910.

"We respectfully refer you to any contractors' or employers' association in the United States or Canada as to the actions of our international union in our dealings with them."

There you have both sides of the picture. The emphatic statement by Mr. Bates that no member need ever be suspended or dropped because of inability to secure work "as our local union will advance to a local member a loan sufficient to pay his dues until he is able to secure employment" would seem to answer the complaint effectively.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 25. Few features developed in the listed bond trading today. There was a further little spurt in the amusement issues but the standard rails were only quiet and inclined to ease. Movies were dull.

HIGHER PRICED AUTOS IN GOOD DEMAND

Business Placed So Far Fails to Show Cheaper Cars Have Taken Market

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, April 25.—Although the industrial recession has tended to lower the price class into which the average buyer of a new automobile has gone, several of the makers of better cars, including Pierce Arrow, Franklin and Auburn, are reporting satisfactory sales.

H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Company, of Syracuse, N. Y., in a message to this column, points out that higher prices prevailing this year help to mitigate the effect on net profits of the decline in retail sales from the abnormally high levels of the first months of 1929. He said:

"There are evidences of an upturn in the automobile business which points to a satisfactory total volume in 1930. As a matter of fact, the business at present is running ahead of both 1928 and 1927. Even at its worst point since the market break there has been a maximum drop of only 18 per cent under the corresponding previous months of 1929. During the large part of this period cars have been selling at somewhat higher prices, so that dollar volume will not show as much recession a unit volume.

"In our own case retailing has been consistently better than last year. January, February and March were each ahead of corresponding months, and the first quarter consequently was ahead of the same period in 1929."

DEALER STOCKS LOW

Mr. Franklin confirmed the observation made to me earlier in the week by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, to the effect that dealers' stocks are in a healthy condition.

"Stocks of cars in the hands of dealers," Mr. Franklin pointed out, "are under what they should be for proper accommodation of their trade. Within the last week or so telegraphic inquiries from dealers have picked up noticeably. At this writing we are receiving from a number of sections of the country orders which are increasing the dealers' original estimate of their April requirements. We are finding difficulty in filling these orders, especially in certain types, which produces a shortage that will be impossible to correct for a month or more.

"The impression has been about that the fine car business has been feeling a recession out of proportion to cars of lower price, but this is erroneous as the records thus far available this year show that sales of high grade cars have held up relatively just as well as the combined sales of all cars.

"The best reason why improvement can be expected is that the industry became very active in producing cars of strong public appeal and that sales forces have been inspired to strong effort in their promotion, with the result that business is being created and sales are beginning to show satisfactorily."

UPWARD CYCLE

The corrective movement in the stock market has had little relation to business conditions or prospects. It has been technical in character, and has represented an attempt to efface artificial tendencies. Long-term prospects for stocks depend on the economic outlook, and there seems little reason to doubt that the next major swing in the business cycle will be upward.

The impulse to sell the copper stocks after the news of the price cut is far from subtle.

Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, in an address at Des Moines, Ia., yesterday afternoon gave a clue to the public optimism toward power and light securities. In the next seven years, he said, there would be another double of output and doubling of generating plant capacity of the power and light companies.

In indicating the potentialities for expansion, Mr. Sloan added:

"Although it would seem that this industry's field of activity for the future is confined to reaching the 30 and 25 per cent respectively of unelectrified homes and industries, in reality our job has just commenced. Light, which is still one of the most general applications of electricity, is only 17 per cent of the minimum recommended level. Approximately 20 billion kilowatt-hours of last year's output was used for lighting, yet to reach the illumination level of greatest economic advantage the consumption for the present year would have to be approximately 151 billion kilowatt hours. This estimate was made by the lamp committee of the National Electric Light Association and the figures apply only to indoor lighting of homes, offices, factories and other buildings, and take no account of lighting of streets and highways."

DAILY TRUE STORY

By Dix

"Gee a John Law's just been in talkin' with th' boss," Selina, the waitress at the Elite Lunch Room, passed to Nora Green.

Nora, elbow deep in a pan of dishwater, brushed back a strand of her raven hair with a soapy hand and said, "That's no skin off th' end of my nose."

"Yeah—well, this John Law in plain clothes. I seen his badge he went out and tacked somethin' on th' door."

"Don't tell me!" Did he think Delossus was sellin' booze?

Delossus was the proprietor.

"I am tellin' you, I don't know what's up."

"I can guess. Trouble is what's up. I haven't had anything but trouble for six months. You'd think I busted a mirror th' way trouble sticks to me. I'm bettin' you this place goes flooey and that means my job goes flooey along with it!"

Nora managed to keep a straight face, but she felt like crying. She hadn't exaggerated about her hard luck. She had no people within a thousand miles of the city, and they were distant in both miles and affection. Nora had been sick for months, and being sick is bad enough, but to be sick in a charity ward is not so good, as Nora could tell you.

"Don't borrow trouble, Nora."

"Borrow? I get it heaped on me, free for nothin'. I ain't been on this job a week yet and I ain't caught up with my room rent and I'll bet you—"

Delossus came in back. Selina turned toward the chef as if busy, and Nora turned to her dishwashing.

For once Delossus didn't yell at them to get a move on.

"Drop everything—I'm bust up," he said.

The others stared at him but Nora took her hands from the dishpan, wiped them hastily and went to the corner for her shabby coat and hat. She knew that her hunch was right; there was no more job.

Got It for Nothing

"They took my place away from me — business rotten, couldn't make it go—I'm leavin' it right here—let the dam' roast-biff burn up, see if I give a care—forget them dishes—"

"I have, Mr. Delossus, but I haven't forgot my four days' pay," Nora said.

The chef was scowling and muttering and unfastening his once-white apron.

"Sure, I pay you folks," Delossus said.

Nora went out alone with her few dollars.

She stopped to speak to Mrs. Karakos at the street newsstand and got a morning paper with the date torn out because it was ...urnable paper and Nora got ...r nothing. Three cents ...hree cents and she might ... job in the morning clas... columns.

"...ain't got no more job than a rabbit, Mrs. Karakos," Nora said, by way of explanation.

"Nobody got them many jobs, ain't it?" the old lady said.

Nora hung around in the dirty little park until regular time to go to her rooms. There was no need of letting her landlady know she was out of a job again, and she needed those few dollars for eats until she could get another job.

Nora was out bright and early next morning. She went to 11 places that were advertised and in one place she wouldn't do because she was so shabby. In the other places she was too late.

She sat through the afternoon in an employment office but no one seemed to want a maid, cook, scullery girl or even a plain "slavey."

She went back to the dingy little room and feasted on a pint of milk and some crackers.

Someone left an evening paper in the hall. She found it as she went out the next morning and took it along. There was an advertisement for a girl to help in the kitchen and take care of children. "Call after 11" the little advertisement said.

Nora went to the place. It was in a big apartment just off the Drive. As soon as it was a half minute past eleven Nora applied for the place.

Nora Sympathizes

The woman had been crying.

"It's all off, my husband he lost his swell job," the woman told her.

"Tough, lady, awful tough—it's tougher on a man who has a family to support," Nora said. Here was one instance where she knew how to sympathize.

Nora went out and down to the drive. She would go to the park by the river and she might get a hunch or a streak of luck or she might "accidentally" slip into the darned river and solve the problem of job-getting for all time.

She glanced up at the traffic light and waited, for it was "green" on the Drive.

A truck, one of those big furniture vans, came thundering up the drive. It was clear sailing with all the green lights set.

And then a handsome car came down grade from the side street. It smashed directly into the van.

Strange to say, there didn't seem to be a soul in sight at the time.

The handsome and costly car was smashed in and rolled over.

The red-headed truck driver, now rather pale from fright, climbed down hastily from his high seat just as a portly man of around 40 climbed through the door of his upturned car. He looked at the truck and the driver and his face got red.

There was a lot of talk. The man in the car made the truck driver turn three shades paler when he announced he was Alderman Pancroft and that the car was dealt law and had cost $8,000 and the trucking company would have to pay every penny and also a big damage suit for shock and so on, to the august person of this alderman.

The lights was green."

A cop had arrived. He saluted Alderman Pancroft and he got up on the truck with the young red-head and ordered him to drive to the station.

It was all quite exciting and Nora forgot her own desperate situation for the moment. The alderman sent another cop to telephone for a wrecker and then he went over to Nora.

"You were the only one who saw it, weren't you?"

Offered Bribe

"Guess so, but for Pete's sake you can't blame that on me. I got troubles enough, an' besides, that young guy was right—he had the lights with him—I was waiting for 'em to turn red so I could cross when you shot down into him.

"Listen, little bright-eyes, I want to talk with you. You were mistaken about the lights—I've got a hundred dollars that says you were mistaken—it's yours if you get what I mean?"

"A hundred dollars for keeping my mouth shut!"

"No, for going to court and testifying that the truck was running against red lights and smashed into me."

Nora Green wasn't a bad girl, she had never been bad, even when she was down and out and hungry, but this didn't seem to have anything to do with her moral code.

"All right, give me the hundred, alderman," she said.

"You'll get it when you testify."

"Hay Wire! My room rent's overdue and I have no job and waiting for a court hearing's all wet and I can go to th' truckin' company—"

"Not so dumb, eh? Listen, kid, I'll stake you to your back room rent and stake you to a new boarding place a friend of mine runs; you can help her, she and her husband are janitors of this place; you can help her for your room and eats, and when the hearing is on, you testify for me—the hundred's yours then."

"You're on," Nora said, and to herself, "Gee! my luck's changed at last!"

So Nora went to this place and lived in the basement apartment with Mrs. Heeney and her husband. Nora learned that Alderman Pancroft owned the big apartment block.

Nora helped, she worked hard.

A few days later some one was moving out.

In the moving crew was the red-headed lad who had been the cause of the smashup of the alderman's car—although it had all been the alderman's fault.

They had half finished moving the family out. They were packing stuff and Nora was up to clean out the vacated rooms. Red-head was eating his lunch from a barrel seat with the others at noon. Nora heard him telling his troubles.

Mother Ill

"I ain't got a chance against that fat alderman with his pull, and my boss knows it. I'm gonna be fired," Nora heard this chap say, "and that's a tough break with Ma in th' hospital and all my spare change gone for doctors."

She couldn't stand that. She went to the door, caught red-head's eye and beckoned him in.

"Listen, Big Boy," she said, softly, so she couldn't be overheard in the next room, "you got tough luck and I can't be so lowdown as to do what I promised to do."

"What's eatin' you, bright-eyes? We all got enough tough luck without worryin' about others——"

"Listen, Handsome," Nora said, and she told him all about it.

"I was broke and hungry and his offer——"

"I got you, but gee, that's tough on all of us—th' lyin' big stiff."

"Mrs. Heeney won't let me leave the place, it's Alderman Pancroft's orders. I can refuse to testify or get framed for perjury if I tell the truth, or I can lie and make you lose your job. If I could get out of here—"

"You'll get out, you sweet kid, do as I say!"

The movers took away the last load.

Mrs. Heeney missed Nora. She wasn't to be found.

That was because Mart Kelly, who was "Red-head," had rolled Nora in an oriental rug, carried her down the elevator himself and put her carefully in the van.

Mart Kelly's boss talked with Nora and gave her a job in the office, helping checking things in and out of storage.

Alderman Pancroft turned purple when Nora appeared as a witness for the trucking company.

Mart kept his job driving truck for the company, which won the case hands down. Nora kept her job there, also, for a year and a half, a year of which time she had been Mrs. Mart Kelly, caring for another red-head.

She has a better job now, named Mart Kelly, Junior.

Senator Copeland

He Prefers Washington to Geneva.

New York's Senator, Copeland, spoke a few plain truths recently about the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations—seldom realized, worth thinking over.

He took up concrete cases, questions that would certainly come up before the court, issues on which we would have to submit to its judgment if we were tied up with it.

Here are some:

1. If France didn't like our tariff—and she doesn't—she could take it to the court for an opinion or a decision.

2. If Japan didn't like our ban on Japanese labor—and she doesn't—she could take it to the court for an opinion or a decision.

3. If Columbia didn't like our ownership of the Panama Canal—and she doesn't—she could take it to the court and perhaps get it back.

4. If Russia joined the league and didn't want us to keep Alaska—which a Czarist government sold to us sixty-odd years ago—she could take it to the court and perhaps get it back, for NOTHING.

These questions, or questions just as important, are bound to come up before the court if we join it.

It is true that we could get out of the court whenever we wanted to.

But if we can get out—as we should certainly have to, sooner or later—why get IN?

We are not popular with Europe now, and we should be still less popular if we joined their court, and then refused to STAY joined.

Of course, if we want to move the seat of our government from Washington to Geneva that's something else again. And that is about what it would amount to if we agree to take our orders from THAT side of the Atlantic instead of THIS side.

Fashions in Thought

Revolution Under Way.

Most of us are concerned with literary fashions and critical standards, although we may not know it.

The things we read, the architecture and pictures we see are all influenced by creeds.

Right now a revolution is under way against literary fashions of the last few years—against the skepticism of Sinclair Lewis, Dreiser, Sherwood Anderson; against the so-called mediocrity of self-expression in literature and art; against the chaos and bafflement and despair of disillusionment.

Leaders in this revolution call themselves Humanists.

They have less difficulty in diagnosing the ills of present-day trends than they have in telling what they believe should come in their place. The controversy widens, and concerns science and religion and art.

So you may expect to see the term Humanism bob up frequently—and you may expect to be baffled by the very people who are attempting to guide you away from bafflement. Because the Humanist leaders, in their writing, thus far, reveal considerable confusion among themselves.

The fine thing about it all is the realization that we are at least vigorous enough to have a controversy of this kind going on.

A Cure for Leprosy

Thanks to Queen Jezebel.

A sure cure for leprosy has been discovered at last, so Dr. C. N. Myers, of New York, announced recently at the American Chemical Society's convention in Georgia.

That is interesting if true. But even more interesting is the fact that science went all the way back to Queen Jezebel, a most disreputable lady in the Old Testament, to discover it.

The cure is antimony. Dr. Myers says it is as perfect a specific for leprosy as quinine is for malaria.

Where Jezebel comes in is that she used antimony as rouge. Though she was a murderess and several other things, she took great care of her personal appearance, and employed antimony, the "dernier cri" in those early days, as an aid to beauty.

Jezebel probably would be quite indifferent to the fact that she has contributed, in some measure at least, to medical science. She was no Florence Nightingale. But let's give her credit for the discovery, anyway, even at this late date. The old girl can't have been as black as she was painted.

Progress

In a Circle?

Airplane passengers will please refrain from tossing lighted cigar or cigaret stubs to the ground, warns Assistant Secretary of Commerce Young. Tests show that burning tobacco, even when dropped from great heights, sets fire to dry timber and underbrush.

Chewing tobacco is recommended for air travel. That's safe, anyway.

It will be interesting if the airplane eventually revives the old days when every gentleman carried a piece of cut plug in his pocket, and used it. Or if it makes snuff popular, after all these years.

There is reason to think that "progress" may be merely a movement in a circle, bringing us around to where we used to be a long time ago. In some things, anyway.

Never the Less—

The Germans Will Continue.

A German Socialist deputy says the Germans spend each year on alcoholic beverages and tobacco, enough to pay all the reparations due to the Allies.

That is probable. Our ladies spend on lipstick, rouge and a few other "necessities of life" enough to pay our whole national debt in a short time.

Nevertheless Germans will continue to drink and smoke. Our ladies, until the fashion changes, will continue rouge, lipstick and queer, pink stuff on their nails.

Inferno, U. S. A.

Drawn by Nelson Harding

Like the terrifying pictures
Of the awful nether regions,
Of the awful pit of Hades
Painted in the well remembered
Dante's vision of Inferno
Are the tragic scenes enacted
In what we are pleased to call our Civilized and humane nation.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Blowing Bubbles

IF THE LAW says there is no more liquor then the Anti-Saloon League is carrying its hate beyond the grave.

"Bugs" Baer

A prohibition lecturer was a silly bird who talked himself out of a job in 1920.

Everything is Jake in Kansas. Jake is a brimming bumper of Jamaica ginger. One drink will make your hat tip itself.

Two drinks will put a high gloss on a boss blanket.

Three drinks and you'll grab a potato masher and start looking for Al Capone.

Jake is made in the east and sold where the west begins. It is a beautiful beverage that tastes like your foot is asleep and smells like an Army cook's apron.

But when there is jolly times to be celebrated, Jake fills the bill like a boy fits a bicycle.

A real judge was nailed with a pint flask on his hip. He had just sent three bootleggers to jail. Well, there is nothing like selecting your own company.

The Literary Digest's poll indicates all cities are wetter than a rainbow trout. The editor of the Digest hasn't examined the suburbs yet. He's waiting for a rowboat.

The Anti-Saloon League has done good work. It has made us take exercise walking up flights of steps.

But the Anti-Saloon League is fooling itself looking at the world through rose-colored glasses when it can learn more through a keyhole.

No less a distinguished authority than Grover Whalen states that he knows of 31,145 speakeasies in New York City.

That makes Grover three up on us.

We expect to catch him on the next round.

How about your own town? How about that swarm of Alabama bees that got pickled on bran mash? Then they stung a cow so often that the cow got the hiccups.

The man who can solve the present saggering rebus will be as welcome as a rain-maker in Hades.

But at present, the Anti-Saloon League is pulling the wool market over its own eyes. It's sitting on a hot stove and fanning itself.

The League is absolutely sincere. But a spider takes in too much territory when it tries to spin a web across a washtub.

ANCIENT MATHEMATICS

By Archibald Henderson

In our own era mathematics has begun to come into its kingdom. The study of the external world, from the scientific point of view, is recognized to depend upon mathematical equations.

Continuity and casuality are the underlying principles of life. Einstein incorporates the physical laws of the universe in 20 great equations. Bound up in these lie the secrets of physics, astronomy, astrophysics, electricity and electro-magnetism. A proper estimate of the facts of the external world depends upon accuracy in pointer-readings, in determining the position of a pointer on a scale, of a hand on a dial-face.

The laws of the universe depend upon the higher mathematics. The discovery of a skull of a Neanderthal Man or of an Oeoanthropos is important, as throwing light upon the early history of the race. But the importance of the discovery cannot be assessed until a most elaborate series of measurements are made of the skull; size, conformation, cranial capacity and the like, and the comparison of these measurements with the figures obtained from the measurement of other skulls.

Eddington gives an amusing picture of an elephant weighing two tons, sliding down a hill. To the scientist, the phenomenon is not of size, grayness or shape; it is a study of a set of verying pointer readings.

There is no way to evade the final authority of mathematics.

If we had the differential equations giving all the facts about a single atom, we should be able to reconstruct the universe.

Because of the magistral role played by the higher mathematics in modern life, an exceptional interest attaches to the the history of mathematics in its early developments.

Much is known about Greek mathematics, and many of the greatest chapters in the history of mathematics were written by the Greeks. Little, comparatively speaking, is known of mathematics before the Greeks. But the barriers are falling beneath the onslaughts of the persistent miners at the foundations of early knowledge.

Obscure records, new papyri, recently discovered remains are throwing new light on the mathematical beginnings and origins. We are learning, year by year, to piece together a credible history of the origin and early development of the most fundamental of all the sciences.

To discover the extent of the knowledge of mathematics among the Babylonians, for example, the investigator must examine the tablets preserved in the British Museum, the Prussian State Museum, the Ottoman Museum of Constantinople, the University of Strasbourg, the University of Pennsylvania and the Palais du Cinquantenaire of Brussels.

For a proper understanding of Egyptian mathematics, one must study chiefly two papyri: the famous Rhind Papyrus, written about 1650, dating back to an original probably two centuries earlier, and the Golenischeff Papyrus, which was written about 1850 B. C., contemporary with the original of the Rhind Papyrus. The former is preserved in the British Museum, the latter in the Museum of Fine Arts in Moscow.

What sort of mathematical problems did those early Babylonians work out? Take the Rhind Papyrus, for example. More than a fourth of the written part of the papyrus is occupied with a table expressing the number 2 divided by the various odd numbers from 5 to 101 inclusive. The method was to express one unit fraction in terms of two or more unit fractions. Thus one reads 1-7 equals 1-14 1-21 1-42, which simply means that one-seventh is equal to one-fourteenth plus one-twenty-first plus one one-forty-second. Some 80 examples or problems appear in the papyrus following the table.

Only two general rules are set down in this papyrus. One of these is: to get two-thirds of one-fifth add together the reciprocals of two times five and six times five. An interesting problem found in this papyrus is: "A quantity, its 2-3, its ½ and its 1-7 added together become 37. What is the quantity?" By a series of approximations the author of the papyrus finds the answer, which we can easily determine by algebra to be 16 2-97, in the following curious form: 16 plus 1-58 plus 1-679 plus 1-776.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

You owe a debt. You assumed that debt when you entered life and every day since it has mounted.

You owe humanity a debt for the sacrifices it made for you before ever you were born...for the beauty the dead generations left for you to enjoy...for the conveniences they placed at your disposal. For the tears and sweat and blood and prayers and death rattles that have cleared your way to opportunity — for all these things you are in debt.

And that debt carries with it an obligation to those who are to come as well as to those who have gone. Because the departed ones made life better for you, you must, in your turn, make life better for those yet unborn. Nor are these obligations merely pretty phrases. They are as real as your bill to the corner grocer and much harder to pay. You can pay your grocer with money, but you cannot pay history with money. You cannot send a check to Lincoln or Columbus, Pasteur, Kit Carson, Florence Nightingale or Sarah Bernhardt, Father Damien or Christ for the things they did to make life braver and more beautiful for you. You can only repay in kind.

You must give back love for love, beauty for beauty, courage for courage, life for life.

They tell this story of a famous young publisher in New York. Life has been good to him. It has given him, beside our common heritage, unusual intelligence, opportunity and success. It has given him, best of all, a love of beauty and a sensitive heart—so that he catches the inward meaning of things. And because of that, he soon sensed the debt he owed for all his good fortune.

As his book house grew, as the printed page turned to gold in his hand, his sense of obligation also grew. What could he give in return for all that had been given him? Men had given him wealth, artists had given him talent, even the trees had given him their lives that he might have paper—

Trees Had Given Him Their Lives—that touched him sharply for he loved trees. For every successful run of a "best seller," some great tree had given its place in the sun; its veil of stars; the pulse of spring time sap; the sweet green gush of leaves; dawn quickening; release at twilight and the fierce swaying struggle in the storm.

For each best seller he had taken that—that mystery of breathing, budding life. There was no material payment he could make. One cannot buy its glory from a tree. He could only give life in return for life. So, on his country place he has planted two thousand trees, trees to live free—to live their whole life out—to know the joy and give the beauty that he took when he made those first trees into books.

Give back to life what life has given you. Pay off the debt you owe those who have gone—your obligation to the generations yet to come. "Keep that faith," friend, that those long dead once kept for you.

Text for Today For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Romans viii:38, 39.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Then the house sparrow has spread and the starling is spreading over the whole of North America in spite of the competition of the hundreds of kinds of native birds.

The few horses introduced by the Spanish conquerors of South America multiplied and ran wild in huge herds over the pampas. Far from the native Australian birds and animals being especially well adapted to Australian conditions, they are no match for the species that have been introduced from other regions.

H. G. Wells

The mere mention of rabbits will make an Australian farmer cross.

And when we come to plants we find that one of the gravest problems of agriculture in various countries, notably New Zealand and Australia, is to prevent introduced species like the prickly pear and blackberry from overrunning the country and ousting not only the native plants but man and his agricultural efforts as well.

Why then are whole groups of related animals tied down to limited regions of the world?

What meaning is there in the restriction of the giraffe family to Africa, the whole of the edentate order of sloths and armadillos and anteaters to Southern America, all the monotreme sub-class and almost all the marsupials to Australia?

The answer is to be found in the past, in the history of evolving life in relation to the history of the seas and continents. Through fossils we are able to discover not only the past development of existing groups, but also their past distribution in each epoch.

Geology, on the other hand, can tell us a great deal about the extent of sea and land in past periods. It can do this by studying where in each epoch marine deposits were laid down, where there were deserts, or evaporating inland seas which produce beds of salt, where the invading ocean had carved beaches, where ice-sheets had passed or mountain-ranges had been elevated.

Through such evidence, geology is able to say definitely that the present distribution of land and water is in no way permanent.

In the past, the main land-masses of the world have been connected and disjoined in many other ways; and geology can often tell us just when and where the connections and partings were made, and what was the distribution of seas and continents during a particular geological period.

Animals such as land-mammals can and do migrate slowly until they are spread over the whole of a land-mass. But there are barriers which they cannot cross.

The sea is the most formidable of such barriers, ice-sheets are another, and broad deserts may be nearly as bad.

Thus, the distribution of any group of land-animals will depend upon three factors — first, upon the region where the group happened to originate; second, upon the connections which this region then and later happened to have with other land-masses, and third, upon the fate of the group in the different regions to which it obtained access.

If mammals first evolved after New Zealand had been cut off by a barrier of ocean from all the continents, we should not expect to find any land-mammals in New Zealand.

If lung-fish were once widely distributed all over the world, but later were all but extinguished in the struggle for existence, we should expect to find the few existing lung-fish scattered in isolated regions which happened to favor their survival. It is along such lines that our reasoning must run.

The key to the present distribution lies in past distribution. When palaeontology and geology are able to provide us with evidence, the distribution of animals and plants ceases to be a puzzle and becomes a simple matter of history.

In the same way the distribution of human races, often so puzzling at first sight, clears up directly we know the history of their movements.

The Mongol Turks in Asia Minor, or the fair-haired Lombards in Northern Italy, are at first sight anomalies; but with a knowledge of their migrations, the problem disappears.

The only difference with animals and plants is that the periods of time involved are so huge that transformation as well as mere migration of stocks comes into play.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 25.—Thoughts while strolling: Those tads in bowler derbies who swing canes. Joseph E. Sheedy, the ship magnate. Pink faced French sailors with red tassled caps. Dumpy women with a bouncing manner whose arms are always filled with bundles. Lee Olwell's bushy eyebrows.

Frederick Burr Opper, a Madison, O., boy, who made good in the city. And what's became of Burr McIntosh, by the way? Lads who sport cream white gloves. Edwin Balmer, the magazine editor. The crowds that watch an hour glass in front of a fruit store.

Lee Shubert steps into a one-armed lunch. Those ugly, hollow-mouthed masks that used to decorate theater facades. Julius Tannen hurrying across 46th street. A faker selling "bottles of water from the Ganges." A gray-haired couple walking along holding hands, bless 'em.

That tension when policemen drive up and step from a special car. Girls with blood-red lips and kitten eyes who never seem to be going anywhere. Dark-skinned elegantes who tango divinely. The odors from a building excavation—the pungency of plowed earth.

And to the transplanted yokel, the smell of earth suggests white barns, green hedges and gurgling streams. A millinery shop called Peter and Nancy. Three new waffle parlors in a block. And nothing is so tasty and indigestible as a waffle. Ray Long and Ernest Truex look alike.

That glowering block under the 53d street elevated—east of Broadway. Smudging curtainless windows. Incredibly filthy basements. Old women with sagging skirts. The sullen apathy begotten of all work and no play. Prowling lean cats. And the dazzling White Way around the corner.

Among the best dressed men in town are auto salesmen along Automobile Row. Those experts who roll tires in heavy sidewalk traffic. The noon soap box spouters at Columbus Circle—birth control, communism, atheism and free love. A mad world, my masters!

An annual of artist models with names and pictures, measurements and telephone numbers is being published at $3 a copy. It also gives similar information about men who pose for artists and photographers. Among the names listed are Myles Standish Pothringham Lyons, Henry Fonda, Yorke Samuel Sleeth and Wickland Weymouth-Weymouth Fancy, what?

The male model offers a study in something or other. Many are men of education and refinement and excellent families. They are necessarily handsome and distingue and must have well furnished wardrobes. Few average $50 a week, although several in heavy demand make $100 or more weekly. There are those who resemble the prosperous, white-haired and crisp financier, the blades with thin-penciled mustaches, the collar ad. types, the drawing rooms swells, the monocled and dapper, the steely jawed and villainous. They rarely mingle with those outside their guild and few are married.

The most celebrated male model a few years ago was Harry Pollard, known as The Man With A Hundred Faces. He posed for a hundred nationally known products and his face was so adaptable for posing not one of his advertised faces resembled another.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You have done some one an injustice.

The fact has bothered you for some time.

You thought you would soon forget it, but it keeps coming back.

Frequently you have thought you would make restitution so far as possible, but you have not carried out this idea.

It might require a money consideration or the acknowledgment of some dishonest act on your part, and it might cause you much embarrassment.

But whatever the penalty, would you not have greater peace of mind?

Most of us can recall instances when we have not dealt honestly with those who trusted us and believed us just what we pretended to be.

It is not easy to admit a wrong-doing which we think will never be discovered by the one most interested or who has suffered most by it.

Too often, instead of admitting our fault and offering to rectify it, we try to keep it hidden from everyone but ourselves, and in the end we are the greatest sufferers.

You may have done wrong, but you need not be a coward.

The least you can do is to try to right the wrongs you have done.

And in doing this you will bring a greater degree of enjoyment to yourself as well as the one favored.
